DEBT ACCORD STILL IN OFFING DESPITE FRENCH REPORTS OF AGREEMENT ON MAJOR ISSUES

Complete Settlement of Differences Hinges on Two Questions.

GUARANTEE REGARDED AS BARRIER TO TRUCE

Way Is Believed Paved for Final Decision Soon; Meet Again Today.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Paris, Saturday, July 4 (A.P.).—Satisfactory progress was achieved last night at a meeting by the French and American representatives discussing President Hoover's moratorium proposal, the American Embassy informed the Associated Press early today.

No complete accord was reached, it was indicated by an official statement issued at the end of the meeting, but the statement describes the points which remain unsettled as minor points.

The statement said:

"Mr. Mellon and Ambassador Edge met last night with M. Briand, Flandin and Francois-Poncet. Premier Laval, who was called to the Chamber of Deputies by parliamentary work, was unable to be present at the beginning of the meeting.

"Delegates of the two governments continued examination of the proposal of President Hoover and of the French note.

"Mr. Mellon confirmed that the American government had decided to accept maintenance of payment by Germany of the unconditional annuity provided for in the Young plan.

Other Differences Removed.

"Other divergencies of views have been removed.

"Those which subsist, and which are less important, will be submitted to a meeting of the cabinet which will be held today, Saturday.

"The accord on the technical and financial part of the negotiations it seems, under reserve that there will come an adhesion from the other interested powers, should be acquired very soon."

Of four points outstanding, it was learned this morning on reliable authority, two have now been eliminated and two remain to be settled.

These two unsettled points, one of which is believed to concern the question of the guarantee fund to be deposited by France with the bank for International Settlements in the event of a German moratorium under the Young plan, will be discussed by the French Cabinet today.

Negotiators Meet Tonight

The Cabinet's decision on the two points will be reported to another meeting between the French and American negotiators tonight.

Last night's meeting, which began at 9:30 and lasted well into the morning, was regarded by the Americans as a sort of whittling down process and confidence was expressed this morning that this whittling will continue until a complete agreement is fashioned.

It was believed that an agreement was reached regarding the number of years during which Germany may refund the annuities suspended under the Hoover plan by a compromise between the French suggestion of five years and the American suggestion of twenty-five.

There is a clear allusion to the Young plan in the final paragraph of the official statement issued at the end of the meeting, which says that an accord should be achieved soon on the technical and financial part of the negotiations, provided other interested powers adhere to such an agreement.

This section of the statement is regarded as expressing a frank realization that any element of the Franco-American accord which affects

CAPITAL PREPARED TO OBSERVE FOURTH

Many Celebrations Planned, Culminating at Night With Fireworks.

Starting with illegal, though noisy, firecrackers at 6 o'clock this morning, Washington will celebrate the 155th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia.

Hundreds of Washington residents will flee the noisy city and celebrate at cooling beaches and resorts.

President Hoover had planned to leave the Capital for the coolness of the mountain fishing retreat on the Rapidan, but sudden developments in the international debt situation last night made his plans indefinite. It was believed he might stay in Washington and enjoy the fireworks display from the south portico of the White House.

At any rate, only three of his Cabinet members were slated to remain in Washington over the holiday. The others are off on trips of various kinds.

The Weather Bureau predicts occasional thunder showers, but it is hoped the patriotic spirit of the celebrants will survive the showers as they attend the parades, athletic contests and stirring speeches on the programs in various parts of the city.

The most elaborate of the individual community celebrations will be held at Takoma Park, the Taft Recreational Center and Wesley Heights. But scattered throughout the day will be various athletic contests, including swimming meets, a marathon race, a tennis tournament, baseball games and the opening of a new 18-hole golf course.

In connection with the opening of the golf course incidentally a brand-new golfer will enter the lists of play. Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, who had never had a golf stick in his hands, will be a member of the official foursome

PAUL DOUMER GUEST AT LIBERTY BANQUET

French President Joins Edge and Mellon in Celebrating American Fourth.

Paris, July 3 (A.P.).—Paul Doumer, President of France, departed from the usual procedure tonight and attended the Independence Day banquet of the American Chamber of Commerce, at which Louis Rollin, the Minister of Commerce, was the only French speaker.

Ambassador Edge and Secretary Andrew W. Mellon received an ovation by 400 guests when they entered the banquet hall, but both had to leave early for a conference with Premier Laval and the other French representatives in connection with President Hoover's moratorium proposal. A speech which Mr. Edge had hoped to deliver in person was read by Gen. Ford, military attache of the American Embassy.

Gen. Pershing was there and Gen. Gouraud, the military governor of Paris, seated in a hall decorated with the seals of the 48 States. The coats of arms of the cities of Paris and New York were on the wall directly behind the president.

M. Rollin spoke of Mr. Hoover's war debt plan as a move "dedicated by noble and elevated sentiments, to which France can not be insensible." But he asserted that one commandment of the moral law obliges him who causes damage to repair it.

Mr. Mellon spoke briefly, expressing his pleasure at being able to attend for a few moments, and Ambassador Edge expressed his regret at being obliged to leave early.

The Secretary of the Treasury explained the necessity for their presence at the conference tonight, and expressed hope that the whole affair would be arranged to the satisfaction of all concerned. Both he and Mr. Edge appeared extremely tired.

"We are having a further conference on a subject with which you all are generally familiar," said the ambassador, "a subject, a solution of which we all agree will contribute materially to the happiness and prosperity of the whole world."

VON ELM'S 69 GIVES HIM LEAD IN OPEN FIELD

Reported Progress Is Not Enough, in Opinion of Officials Here.

FAILURE TO ACCEPT PLAN DISAPPOINTS

Capital Is Confused Over Chief Points Debated by Negotiators.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

France has not yet agreed to the Hoover war-debt proposal in principle, it was made known here last night.

Regardless of reports from Paris that France and the United States had agreed on all major points in controversy, it was made evident here that France has not yet gone far enough.

Throughout the day it had been expected here that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and members of the French ministry would reach an agreement by nightfall.

There were even indications that President Hoover might issue a Fourth of July statement, proclaiming French acceptance of his plan. Four stenogrpahers were held at the White House until a late hour, and the President's contemplated motor trip to the Rapidan was delayed.

Hoover Delays Rapidan Trip.

Everything depended on the report Secretary Mellon would make to the President over the transatlantic telephone.

In the end, no White House statement was issued and the President decided not to go to the Rapidan last night. He may go this morning, but there are no definite plans on this.

Secretary Mellon put in his telephone call from Paris between 7 and 8 o'clock last night. In the President's office listening in were the two members of the "little cabinet" who, with the President, have been handling the negotiations at this end, Acting Secretary of State William Castle and Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills.

Report Not Encouraging.

Shortly after 8 o'clock Secretary Castle emerged from the President's office bearing notes he had made on Secretary Mellon's talk. The Treasury chief's report evidently had not been as encouraging as expected.

To the assembled reporters Mr. Castle read the communique which Premier Laval had issued after he and other French leaders had talked to Secretary Mellon. This is carried in the cable dispatch from Paris.

Some points had been settled, the communique said, while others would be taken up at another conference today.

Mr. Castle did not seem so enthusiastic as he had been the day before.

"Do you regard the French communique as an acceptance of Presi-

BY PAUL R. MICHELSON

Inverness Club, Toledo, July 3 (A.P.).—George Von Elm, sore thumb and all, stormed over no-man's land of rugged old Inverness with one of the wildest finishes the golfing world ever saw today to snatch a one-shot lead in the bitter fight for the National Open Championship.

Rated as only one of the mild threats when he finished the outward nine of his second 18-hole round, the lion-hearted Prussian ripped up the backward stretch with an astonishing 32, four under par, a great finish which netted him a second round of 69 and a 36-hole total of 144, one better than Eddie Williams of Cleveland, and Billie Burke, of Greenwich, Conn., who looked like certain pace setters at the half way mark of the 72-hole medal battle, until he came rambling home.

Tommy Armour Fades.

Von Elm's performance was the high spot in a wild day, which saw all of yesterday's dark horses stay in the big show, the almost failure of the famous Tommy Armour to qualify, a hole-in-one by Leo Diegel, and the final fadeout of the last foreign threats for the coveted title vacated by the retirement of Bobby Jones. Too, it made Von Elm, the luckless golfer, who has won a big share of the money tournaments this year, a big favorite to capture a crown that has always escaped his eager grasp.

Seriously handicaped by a sore thumb, Von Elm started out today with about the same kind of golf that gave him a 75 yesterday and sent him, along with thirteen others, four strokes away from the par-shooting leaders of the first eighteen-hole round. He hammered out four pars on the first four holes and then got tangled up with the rough with two successive shots for a 5 on the par 4 hole.

Makes Turn in 37.

He clicked off pars on the next two holes with comparative ease; but his hopes sank on the 210-yard eighth, when he got mixed up with the traps and required 5 shots for the par 3 hole. He bagged a birdie on the comparatively easy par 5 ninth to make the turn in 37, 2 over par. Most of the gallery left the Prussian there to see a good player shoot. So George started to give the loyal their money's worth. He sailed his second 10 feet from the pin on the tenth to bag a birdie 3 and then slipped in

FIGHT STOPPED IN 15TH ROUND AT CLEVELAND

STRIBLING GOES DOWN, TAKING COUNT OF NINE

AMERICAN IS WEAK IN LATTER STAGES

Municipal Stadium, Cleveland, O., July 3 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, successfully defended his heavyweight title tonight by defeating Young Stribling, of Macon, Ga., the challenger; on a technical knockout in the final round of their fifteen round match.

After the first few rounds, in which Stribling was the best by virtue of his boxing ability, the German was in command, continually boring in with punches to the body and gradually wearing the challenger down.

The only knockdown of the fight occurred in the fifteenth round when Stribling went down in his own corner for a count of nine. He arose and Schmeling pleaded with Referee Blake to stop the slaughter. The referee tapped Schmeling on the shoulder to signify his victory by a technical knockout with only fourteen seconds of the final round remaining.

It was the first time in his career of nearly 300 fights that Stribling had ever been knocked out.

A stormy session of the Cleveland Boxing Commission tonight, barely two hours before the fight, was precipitated as a result of a reported "leak" in the identity of the two judges, supposedly named in secret for the Stribling-Schmeling heavyweight title bout.

Linked to Wagering.

The commission meeting followed publication of the names of Larry Norrett, song writer, and Don Alexander, a tailor, both of Clevelatnd, as the men selected to act as judges, casting their ballots along with George Blake, of Los Angeles, the referee.

The turn of wagering in Schmeling's favor was linked by Cleveland newspapers with the reports concerning the judges.

Promoter Dick Dunn went before the commission, with a demand that two other judges be named if the reports circulated were correct in the identity of the judges. Dunn suggested two nationally known newspapermen be selected as judges as an alternative and this was taken under advisement by the boxing solons.

Stribling's Mate Wins.

Frank Cawley, chief sparring partner for Stribling, drew first blood for the Southerner's camp tonight by whipping George Panka, of Cleveland, one of Max Schmeling's sparring mates. Cawley won the decision after staggering Panka with rights to the chin in the final round of the five-round bout. The Pittson (Pa.) heavyweight weighed 185 pounds; Panka, 195.

On the basis of the early estimated receipts, the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Ohio, a subsidiary of the New York parent organization, may face a huge loss in promoting the venture. The loss might run anywhere from $50,000 to $80,000, despite the fact that the ballyhoo was extensive.

Official Encyclical Attacks Fascists for Disbanding Catholic Clubs.

Vatican City, Saturday, July 4 (A.P.).—In a vigorously worded encyclical letter to Pope Pius XI today presents his first detailed defense of the disbanded Catholic Action organization since the controversy between the Holy See and the Italian government arose several weeks ago.

It is an unqualified denial of Fascist charges that the Catholic Action participated in political activities, and, without mentioning the Fascist party by name, the encyclical refers to "irreverences and violences which took place in the presence of and with the participation of members of a political party."

"It is clear," the letter says, "that all these accusations (against Catholic Action) are nothing but a pretext * * * we dare to say even the Catholic Action itself is a pretext.

"That which was desired and that which was attempted was to tear away from the Catholic Action society, and through this process to tear away from the Church the young, and all the young. * * *

HOOVER PLAN HAILED AS AID TO ARMS CUT

Foreign Minister Grandi, of Italy, Lauds Debt View; Awaits Stimson.

Henry L. Stimson, American Secretary of State, will arrive in Naples July 7 for a series of conferences with Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister. In the following exclusive interview with John Evans, of the Associated Press Rome Bureau, Mr. Grandi outlines some of the subjects which he is likely to discuss with the American statesman.

Rome, July 3 (A.P.).—President Hoover's proposal for a war debt moratorium opens a road that should lead to some real disarmament, Foreign Minister Dino Grandi said today.

The Italian foreign minister declared the President's action was the first genuinely practical means of helping the world and that Italy was wholeheartedly behind the movement.

Grandi asserted his country was all the more strongly for the Hoover suggestion because disarmament was now brought int othe realm of potsible things and both Premier Mussolini and himself believed that European reconstruction can be achieved through economic cooperation and disarmament.

Incidentally, the minister said, he "still hoped for a Franco-Italian naval accord, which we and the British thought had been reached last March."

Grandi said President Hoover had started economic cooperation and

Slavery in Liberia

By GEORGE S. SCHUYLER

Reforms Are Blocked By Political Influence

Foreign Observers See No Hope of Banishing Slavery, Inefficiency and Graft Except Through Outside Control.

Convicted before the world as a slave state, how long will Liberia be permitted to continue her uncivilized practices? Can she reform from within or must she be reformed from without? When even the report of the recent international commission has not put a stop to pawning domestic slavery, concubinage, oppression of the natives, forced labor of the less spectacular kind and merely rendered the "boy" traffic more infrequent and less profitable, can we expect any improvement?

There is a possibility of cleaning house in Liberia through political upheaval at the polls, but it is about as remote as a Republican victory in Mississippi. There are some honest Liberians who are sincerely aroused by the plight in which their country finds itself, but they are few in number. They have tried for 30 years to oust the True Whig party from office, but without avail. Most of them are now discouraged.

Most of this group of Liberians, with many others, one imagines, who are eager for nothing but office, are organized in what is known as the People's party. In this year's election they chose as their standard bearer for the third consecutive time Thomas J. R. Faulkner, the country's most successful business man. Faulkner is an American-born naturalized Liberian, highly respected by the blacks and whites of Monrovia, where he has a large office and private hotel.

During his 30 years' residence in Liberia, Faulkner has been most active in trying to develop the country. The first electric light plant, the first ice plant and the first telephone system were all introduced by him. Meantime he has been the most persistent foe of government graft, inefficiency, fraud and crime. He it was who was largely instrumental in bringing about the international investigation into slavery and forced labor in Liberia. Others knew what was going on but only Faulkner spoke out and denounced the evil. Graduates of foreign universities, clergymen and missionaries maintained a discreet silence about it. Faulkner is the bigest thorn in the side of the politicians and they would gladly get rid of him as they have other annoying persons, but he is too popular for that.

The man is a dynamo of energy. In a country where travel must be either by hammock, surf boat or canoe and conducted with the maximum of difficulty, he is ever on the go, rushing back and forth from Cape Mount to Cape Palmas, uncovering

Rubio Orders Sons to Quit New York, Study in Canada

No Reason Is Given, Say Mexican Papers; Instruction Follows Acquittal of Oklahoma Officer Charged In Killing of Relatives

Mexico City, July 3 (A.P.).—The newspapers here were informed tonight that President Ortiz Rubio had instructed his two sons, Guillermo and Fernando, who now are in New York, to leave the United States and go to Canada to study.

No reason for his instructions was given.

The president's sons were students at the same college from which Emilio Cortes Rubio, the president's nephew, and Manuel Garcia Gomez, were returning to Mexico when they were shot and killed by a deputy sheriff at Ardmore, Okla., last month.

The brothers had passed through Ardmore in an automobile shortly before the shooting took place.

There has been considerable dissatisfaction in Mexico at the acquittal of the deputy sheriff of charges growing out of the shooting.

Hawks Fails to Break Post's Canadian Mark

Ottawa, Ontario, July 3 (A.P.).—Capt. Frank Hawks went after one of Wiley Post's laurels today, but failed to win it by four minutes.

Hawks flew the 225 miles from Toronto to Ottawa in one hour, six minutes, just four minutes longer than it took Post to do it during the 1929 Ford reliability air tour. But Hawks was able to look back tonight with pride on an accomplishment of the morning, for he clipped ten minutes from the Quebec-Montreal record, covering the 160 miles in 50 minutes.

Arno Slips, Falls In Vanderbilt Row

Reno, Nev., July 3 (A.P.).—George E. Killmer, head of a private protective association, said Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., and Peter Arno, the noted cartoonist accused by Vanderbilt of breaking up his home, fought at a chance meeting at a railway station here early today.

Killmer said Vanderbilt had gone to the station "to bid good-by to Logan Billingslea, president of the Bronx Chamber of Commerce, New York.

After thye had passed each other several times hostilities began, Killmer related, when Arno descended from a railway coach, in appearance "retaining an insulting grin." The officer said Mrs. Vanderbilt's name was used by the two men, but that he "could not get them." Vanderbilt was declared to have struck Arno, who slipped and fell, after which the men were separated.

...ree of a preliminary bout involving Charley Retzloff, heavyweight prospect of Duluth, Minn., and Marty Gallagher, Washington, D. C. Kilbane stepped around the ring, separating the big fighters with much the same speed he displayed as a champion.

Another former champion, James J. Corbett, once ruler of the heavyweights, occupied a ringside seat. Corbett, now in his early 60s with no trace of gray in his hair looked younger than Kilbane. Retzloff from Duluth, scored a technical knockout over Gallagher, in the final round of the last five-round preliminary. A left hook to the chin finished Gallagher. He rose three times after the punch, fell down twice and was on his feet again at ten, but Referee Johnny Kilbane halted the fracas.

NO ACCORD REACHED IN WAR DEBT PLAN

the Young plan must later receive the approval of the signatories of that instrument.

It was made clear tonight that France now feels it should not be necessary for her to deposit 500,000,000 gold marks (about $125,000,000) with the Bank for International Settlements in the event that Germany requests a moratorium after 1932.

France has pointed out that the Young plan gives the World Bank the option as to whether the guarantee fund should be deposited.

It was learned that considerable difficulty was experienced in drawing up the official statement and that the American delegates were inclined to prefer the word "secondary" instead of the "points of less importance" used to describe the points still unsettled.

Foreign Diplomacy Works Slowly.

Ambassador Edge emerged from the conference with his customary broad smile and Mr. Mellon with his characteristic silence. The latter is confronted with the probability that his holiday in southern France will have to be postponed for several days.

The dominating note after the meeting was that the minor or secondary points would be settled soon, indeed that they must be settled in order that the work of world restoration, beginning with relief for Germany, might proceed without delay.

Although they are accustomed to more speedy action in America, Mr. Mellon and Ambassador Edge are trying to adapt themselves to the European method of negotiation which requires infinite time and often can not be hurried because of the political considerations which arise from the fact that Europe is divided into so many countries.

Laval Closes Parliament.

Premier Laval left last night's conference shortly after it opened and at 3:30 this morning read in the Chamber of Deputies a decree closing the Parliament for the summer recess.

This means that unless he convokes the Chamber of Deputies in extraordinary session he will have a freer hand in winding up the negotiations with the United States and with the powers which are signatories to the Young plan.

He may have to consult the latter, because acceptance of the Hoover plan may affect provisions of the Young plan.

Parliament normally will not reconvene before October.

The newspaper La Matin says this morning "the moment technical questions have been carefully circumscribed and approached by both sides with a sincere desire to reach a solution, a final understanding is certain.

"It will no doubt be official today, and, coinciding with the American national holiday, will appear as fresh proof that the two republics intend to pursue their policy of peace in full agreement."

Author Will Marry His Bride of 1904

Joyce's Lawyer Declares Testamentary Reasons Prompted Move.

London, July 3 (A.P.).—Notice has been given in the registry office of the forthcoming marriage of James Joyce, author of "Ulysses" and other books, to a woman who, according to British reference books, he married in 1904. The woman is Nora, daughter of Thomas Barnacle. "Who's Who" states they are the parents of two children.

"For testamentary reasons it was thought well that the parties should be married according to English law," Joyce's attorney said.

The author himself made no comment other than to say, "I have never given an interview in my life, and although I am very sorry, I can not break that rule now."

DEBT LIMIT REACHED, SNOWDEN DECLARES

British Sacrifices Will End Unless Other Nations Aid, Is Warning.

London, July 3 (A.P.). — Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, made a clear declaration in the House of Commons today that Great Britain has gone as far as she is prepared to go in making sacrifices for a moratorium on war debts and reparations.

"Unless the other parties to President Hoover's proposals are prepared to cooperate in these sacrifices," he said, "England could do no more."

Mr. Snowden also informed the House that the latest information regarding the negotiations in Paris was "not very satisfactory."

The Hoover proposal, he said, had created "a somewhat serious budgetary position in this country," though the British government had welcomed it "as an act of statesmanship."

The chancellor cited previously published figures which showed that the net loss to British finances of the Hoover scheme would be £11,000,000 (About $55,000,000) in the present fiscal year.

"This £11,000,000 is a very serious burden upon the taxpayers of this country," he said.

dent's proposal in principle?" he was asked.

Another Conference Today.

"I should not say so yet," he replied, adding that there would be another conference today.

A little later, Larry Richey, secretary to President Hoover, announced that the trip to the Rapidan had been postponed. White House automobiles were waiting and all of the President's prospective week-end guests were prepared to leave. These were Senator David Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Reed; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sullivan and their daughter, Naroisse; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Strauss, Mr. and Mrs. George Cole Scott, of Richmond, Va., and their son, George, jr.; Mrs. Evelyn Allan, of Brooklyn, N. Y., friend of Mrs. Hoover, and Secretary Richey and Capt. Joel Boone, the White House physician.

Acting Secretary of State Castle was scheduled to leave last night for the University of Virginia to deliver a Fourth of July oration, but the prospect was that somebody would have to read it for him.

French Claim Concession.

The French communique stressed the point that the United States had agreed to the French contention that Germany should continue to make her unconditional reparations payments during the one-year holiday period.

There was no real news in this fact, inasmuch as American acceptance on that point was made known in the American memorandum to France.

In agreeing that Germany must continue paying the unconditional reparations, however, the United States insists that this money be loaned back to Germany so as to help her in her present economic plight.

Just what points still are at issue between France and the United States has not been made known here.

Evidently France has adopted the suggestion of the American Government and will attempt to solve the problem of the guarantee fund by asking the other allied powers to excuse her from putting up the whole of this fund in the event Germany declares a moratorium on conditional payments.

GERMANY CONFIDENT OF HOLIDAY ON DEBT

Nation Hopeful America May Proclaim Acceptance of Moratorium Today.

Berlin, July 3 (A.P.).—With the fate of the Franco-American negotiations still in the balance, Germany tonight maintained her attitude of watchful waiting with full confidence in President Hoover's ability to carry out his plan for a year's respite in war debts. The nation speculated on whether America's national holiday tomorrow would see the proclaiming of the reparations holiday.

The newspaper Acht-uhr Abendelatt printed two columns of praise for President Hoover, saying his noble initiative had insured him an abiding place in history.

Elsewhere a cartoon showed Max Schmeling, the German boxer, meditating on whether he ought to hit his Yankee opponent, Stribling, with anything heavier than velvet gloves at a time when America is doing so much to help his distressed fatherland.

The Boerse and the Reichsbank were anxious for an early settlement of the Franco-American differences as every day's delay means a continuance of tension and sustained demand for foreign currencies, with weakening effects on the market.

that both Italy and America were ready for disarmament.

He added that Mussolini was thoroughly convinced that the future of the world's work and of world peace was made brighter by Hoover's "great and generous gesture."

The minister outlined his government's views at this time because of the approaching visit of the American Secretary of State, Henry L. Stimson, whom Grandi knew well during the London naval conference and with whom he had the most cordial relations.

"Stimson is a man of exceptionally practical mind, with whom it is always possible to talk frankly and simply," Grandi said.

He added that the American Secretary wished his visit to be uncermonious and that although no official program had been arranged, there will be a friendly exchange of ideas.

"There are, of course, no controversial problems between the United States and us," he said.

Discussing the proposed moratorium, which Italy immediately made effective by notifying her debtors that no payments would be required on July 1, Grandi said:

"We accepted Hoover's plan in all consequences and in all its significance, and we are ready to travel the road he has opened.

"I tell you all in frankness that the Hoover proposal is the first really practical initiative that has been taken in these years of crisis.

"I don't wish to undervalue the work done by the Pan-European Commission, but its effects will only come slowly. The Hoover proposal offers the advantages of immediate action.

"Someday, perhaps, its true value as statesmanship will be realized when it is seen how valuable it will have proved in anticipating and preventing events that would have been very painful for America as well as for Europe."

Although speaking Italian mostly, the foreign minister occasionally used English phrases.

Hoover Plan Relaxes Tension.

"Mussolini is a man determined 'to carry out' his initiatives," Grandi vast and complex, but the Hoover said. "Disarmament problems are proposal already has brought relaxation to the world tension and has resulted in an atmosphere of 'good will.'

"These must be utilized for disarmament—it is useless to create illusions. Until the world is disarmed peace will be insecure. Work done for disarmament is work for consolidation of peace."

Grandi stated that he did not know what subjects Mr. Stimson proposed to discuss but if, as expected, disarmament proves to be one of the principal themes, "he will, I think, find Mussolini much in accord with his ideas."

"Mussolini sees the future of European reconstruction along parallel lines of disarmament and economic cooperation," he continued. "Mr. Hoover has contributed incalculably to economic cooperation and our countries are already on the road which he has opened. Now we should start on the other road toward disarmament."

Calls for Sacrifices.

Hoover's plan, said Grandi, calls for sacrifices which the peoples naturally will make unwillingly unless they clearly see its utility.

"Now it is difficult to see the utility of settlement of financial obligations of war under a regime of armament races," he added. "Excessive armaments as are many today, are disturbing elements in international cooperation.

"Creditor peoples have the right to ask if their sacrifices are destined to increase the State of insecurity which is most damaging to general economic recovery. On the other hand, their budgets, deprived of reparations receipts, must be balanced by economies, and these can only be made on armament expenses.

"There is no definite diplomatic connection between questions of disarmament, reparations and debts, but I think they are moral owes in the sense that I have indicated because there exists a relation between military budgets, debts and reparations."

In conclusion the foreign minister said:

"These two years of crisis have shown how necessary is solidarity. Only the prosperity of all makes the prosperity of one.

"Europe can not get along without America and if this sentiment spreads the world will be better off."

Morgan Firm Policeman Kills Self With Pistol

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—Oma L. Hooper, 47 years old, bodyguard to Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., killed himself today by firing a bullet into his right temple.

Three months ago Hooper was divorced in his home town, Tempson, Tex., according to police, who said also he had suffered injuries to his head and side in an automobile accident. One or both of these incidents, it was believed, preyed on his mind. Hooper recently was promoted to a lieutenancy in the Morgan company police department.

France Aids Steamship Line.

Paris, July 3 (A.P.).—The Chamber of Deputies tonight adopted the government bill appropriating $6,400,000 to tide the French Line over its financial difficulties.

POPE ISSUES DENIAL OF DUCE'S CHARGES

or quasiofficial publications dedicated to the young. * * *"

This latter as well as similar statements was interpreted as a reference to Premier Mussolini.

"We can not be grateful to one," the pontiff writes in another section, "who after putting out of existence socialism and anti-religious organizations * * * has permitted them to be so generally readmitted * * * and has made them even stronger and more dangerous, inasmuch as they are now hidden and also protected by their new uniform."

"You ask us," the encyclical reads, "* * * what is to be thought about the formula of an oath which even little boys and girls are obliged to take about executing orders without discussion, from an authority which * * * can give orders against all truth and justice. * * * the answer from the Catholic point of view and also from a human point of view is inevitably only one: Such an oath as it stands is illicit."

This encyclical letter is entitled "Concerning 'Catholic Action.'" It is addressed to the dignitaries of the church.

The pontiff expresses "exquisite satisfaction" that Catholic organizations of all countries have expressed their astonishment and grief" to see the society "persecuted and assailed here in the very center of the apostolic hierarchy."

Particularly pleasing, he writes are the "convincing proofs * * * that these organizations have remained docile * * * in refraining absolutely from any and every kind of political activity."

Disbanding of Action.

Disbanding of the Catholic Action in Italy, he declared, was carried out with the use of tactics which would give the impression that action was being taken against a dangerous organization of criminals.

"It is noteworthy," he writes, "that even among the officers of the law charged to carry out these orders of suppression, there were many who showed * * * that they were almost asking pardon for doing that which they had been commanded to do. * * * we have reserved for them a special blessing.

"But, in sad contrast to the manner of these officials, there were many acts of violence extending even to the striking of blows and the drawing of blood.

"How many insults in the press, injurious words and acts against things and persons, not excluding ourself, preceded, accompanied, and followed the carrying into effect of this lightninglike police order. * * *

Directions Exceeded.

"It is easy to admit, and it was equally easy to have foreseen, that the limits of these directions (for disbanding Catholic Action) could and would have almost necessarily been exceeded. * * *

"If we should be silent * * * we would be more unworthy than we already are to occupy this august apostolic chair."

The encyclical denies charges that Catholic Action harbors many members of the outlawed popular party, asserting that such members of that party as have become affiliated with Catholic Action have pledged themselves to refrain from political activity.

"We find ourselves," the pontiff writes, "in the presence of facts which reveal * * * the proposal already in great part actually put into effect, to monopolize completely the young * * * and all for the exclusive advantage of a party, of a regime * * * which clearly resolves itself into a true and real pagan worship of the state."

The pontiff expresses himself as preoccupied particularly with the thought that so many young Catholics have taken the Fascist oath and are "tortured by doubts of whose existence we have incontrovertible evidence."

Mental Reservation Suggested.

To restore tranquillity to those consciences, he suggests a mental reservation such as "safeguarding the laws of God and of the church," or "in accordance with the duties of a good Christian."

"Far better," he writes, would be "to omit the oath altogether, since it is always an act of religion and certainly has no appropriate place in taking membership in a political party.

"We have not said that we wish to condemn the party as such. We have intended * * * to condemn that which we have seen and have understood to be contrary to the Catholic doctrine * * * and, therefore, irreconcilable with the name and with the profession of Catholics * * *

"We believe that we have thus at the same time accomplished a good work for the party itself, because of what interest and success can the party have in a Catholic country like Italy in maintaining * * * ideas and practices which can not be reconciled with a Catholic conscience?"

"Everything is definitely promised in answer to prayer: If the answer will not be the reestablishment of serene and tranquil relations it will have its answer at any rate in Christian patience. * * *

"The church of God, which wishes nothing from the state that belongs to the competence of the state, will cease to be asked for that which is of the competence of the church, the education and the Christian formation of youth. This is not through human favor but by divine mandate, and that which, therefore, she will always ask with an insistence which can not cease."

WORLD BUSINESS AID SESSION SUGGESTED

Unofficial Congress Would Bar Only Russia, Is Butler's Idea.

London, July 3 (A.P.).—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, today proposed an international conference of economists and business leaders—not one of whom would have any official connection with any government—which would formulate a program to free the world of economic depression.

The American educator suggested the conference he called immediately because "if these men could agree quickly their findings would make a tremendous appeal to public opinion at this moment."

The International Chamber of Commerce, he said, might be the best possible medium for organizing such a gathering.

To illustrate the type of man who would be useful at such a conference, Dr. Butler named Sir William Henry Beveridge and J. M. Keynes, English economists; Gustav Cassel, of Sweden; Charles Gide of France; Moritz Donn, of Germany; Profs. Edwin R. A. Seligman, Wesley T. Mitchell and Robert Murray Haig, of Columbia University; Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England; Sir Robert Horne, former British chancellor of the exchequer; Sir Josiah Stamp, British economist; Silas Strawn, American lawyer; Albert H. Wiggin, New York banker, and W. W. Atterbury, American railway magnate.

"It is my belief," Dr. Butler declared, "that such a conference could accomplish more toward putting the world on its feet than any number of slow-moving official conferences by governments."

Dr. Butler would include all the world except Russia, which, he said, is operating on a different system "which is an economic key so far as they are concerned." South America, he thought, would have a definite interest in such a meeting, but the time required to choose representatives might be too long.

The American educator was greatly concerned that no government should have any connection with the proposal and that the meeting be kept away from the great capitals, such as London, Washington and Paris.

"Even if the plan produced never could be applied, the psychological effect would be phenomenal," he said.

Dr. Butler has just concluded a tour of central Europe and will remain in London until July 22 when he will sail for home. He will speak before the Individualists Club and will be guest of honor at a reform club banquet while here.

Cigarette Price Raised By Chain-Store Group

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—Advances in the retail prices of cigarettes, effective next week, were announced today by one chain store organization, while a second is expected to raise prices shortly.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. announced that effective Monday the prices of popular brands of cigarettes will be increased to 14 cents a package of twenty, 27 cents for two packages, $1.32 a carton for ten packages, and 33 cents a tin of 50 cigarettes. The increases follow the recently announced advance of 45 cents a thousand in the wholesale price of popular brands.

POST AND GATTY TRY YACHTING FOR REST

World Fliers and Wives Are Week-End Guests on William Todd's Craft.

New York, July 3 (A. P.).—The world fliers, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, sought the quiet of Long Island Sound today, for a peaceful week-end with their wives on the yacht of William H. Todd, wealthy shipbuilder.

Early this morning they were up and away to Roosevelt Field to see how their famous plane Winnie Mae stood the rigors of the flight around the world.

Hopping the plane over to the Floyd Bennett Field in Brooklyn, where it was placed on public view, they found it in perfect condition, but still grimy with he stains of travel. Navy personnel at the field promised to scrub it down.

Returning then to Manhattan, Post and Gatty drove to Stamford, Conn., to board the Todd yacht, where they will talk over the possibility of removing some of the Winnie Mae's gas tanks so the wives can fly to Oklahoma with them. If this is done a third passenger will be Miss Viola Gentry, disabled endurance flier who befriended the fliers when they first came to New York to prepare for their world flight.

Post and Gatty found enthusiastic crowds wherever they went today. There were hundreds to cheer them at Roosevelt Field and Floyd Bennett Airport, and they were cheered all along the streets they traversed under police escort with all traffic rules set aside for their convenience.

The fliers still had no plans for their future today, beyond their flight to Washington next week to meet President Hoover and a couple of dinners to be given in their honor by aviation interests. They didn't know just when they'd get home, but acknowledged that much as they liked and appreciated the tumultuous welcome ceremonies they would be glad when they could turn westward again to normal life and work.

At Roosevelt Field they saw Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, who are grooming a plane in which they will attempt to lower the new record of 8 days 15 hours and 51 minutes for flying around the world. The assault on the Post-Gatty record will not begin until the day after tomorrow, at least. The weather report today was unfavorable for a start tomorrow.

Oklahoma Will Greet Post, Gatty Thursday

Chickasha, Okla., July 3 (A.P.).—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty will return to Oklahoma next Thursday afternoon, F. C. Hall, financial backer of the airmen's round-the-world flight, notified the Chickasha Daily Express today.

Chickasha, Hall's old home town, will have the honor of being the first city in the State to welcome the fliers. Arrangements have been made to fete Post and Gatty at the State Capitol in Oklahoma City the day following the reception here.

Seattle-Tokyo Fliers Wait on Refuel Plane

Seattle, Wash., July 3 (A.P.).—The projected nonstop Seattle to Tokyo flight of Reg L. Robbins and H. S. Jones will be delayed at least another day to await arrival of their refueling plane at Fairbanks, Alaska.

The two Texas aviators said today they hope to get away Sunday morning.

Mother Indicted In Girls' Deaths

Mrs. Simmons Is Accused of Poisoning Her Two Daughters.

Lebanon, Ind., July 3 (A.P.).—Mrs. Carrie Simmons, wife of John W. Simmons, Hancock County farmer, was indicted for first-degree murder today by the grand jury that investigated the poisoning of her two daughters, Alice Jean and Virginia.

The two girls died after eating sandwiches served at a family reunion picnic held here June 20.

Mrs. Simmons has been held in jail here for more than a week pending the grand jury inquiry.

Authorities who questioned Mrs. Simmons following the girls' death, said she admitted preparing the sandwiches served at the picnic, but denied any knowledge of how the food was poisoned.

Dr. G. A. Owsley, coroner, has said that persons attending the reunion told him that capsules containing a white powder were found in the sandwiches. The capsules contained poison, the coroner said. Several other persons, including Mrs. Simmons' husband were made ill by the sandwiches but recovered.

Commons Brawl Action Forecast

Sergeant at Arms Is Told Government Plans Punishment.

London, July 3 (A.P.).—Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, announced in the House of Commons today that the government intends to take "appropriate action" about the brawl in the House yesterday.

He made this announcement after the reading of a report from the sergeant at arms, in which the sergeant said that his men had been obstructed by several members of Parliament when they endeavored to restore order.

Yesterday's row started when the speaker ordered J. McGovern, Laborite member from Glasgow, to leave the House. He refused and the sergeant at arms was ordered to eject him. Several left wingers rallied around their comrade and in the resulting scuffle there was much tearing of gold braid adorning costumes of attendants.

U. S. to Study Mexican Sentence of American

El Paso, July 3 (A.P.).—Representative R. E. Thomason today received a telegram from Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson which said the State Department would investigate the case in which W. J. Meers of El Paso recently was sentenced to death at Chihuahua City, Chihuahua Mexico.

Mr. Stimson said he had instructed the American Consul at Chihuahua City to report whether the Mexican law permitted an appeal.

POST, GATTY TO GET AERONAUTIC HONORS

World Fliers Will Be Given Reception, Banquet After Hoover Luncheon.

Honorary membership in the National Aeronautic Association, an honor accorded only five living men, will be conferred upon Wiley Post and Harold Gatty here Monday night.

The presentation will be made by Senator Hiram Bingham, president of the association, at the banquet at the Willard. A telegraphic poll of the governors of the organization last night disclosed the honor will be granted.

Reception Plans Advance.

Plans for the world girdlers' reception here went forward apace yesterday. A deputation headed by Commissioner Crosby and President Offutt, of the Board of Trade, will meet the Winnie Mae on arrival Monday morning at the Washington-Hoover airport.

Police will be assisted by 100 Calvarymen from Fort Myer in maintaining order. The fliers, at the head of a parade of motor cars, will proceed to the White House for luncheon.

Besides Post and Gatty, President and Mrs. Hoover will have as their luncheon guests the wives of both fliers, F. C. Hall, financial backer of the flight, and Mrs. Winnie Mae Fain, daughter of Mr. Hall, after whom the Post-Gatty ship was named.

Reception at Press Club.

From the White House the fliers will go at 4 o'clock to the National Press Club reception at the Washington Auditorium, where Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont will represent President Hoover in making them welcome.

Eugene S. Leggett, president of the club, will congratulate the fliers, who will be presented with globes of the world, on which the course of their flight will be engraved.

Representatives of Great Britain, Germany, Canada and Russia, over which the two passed in flight, will attend the reception. Invitations also have been extended Cabinet members, high Government officials and heads of civic groups. Senator Bingham is cooperating with the club in arranging the reception.

Plates Limited to 900.

Plates at the Board of Trade-National Aeronautic Association dinner, at the Willard Monday night, have been limited to 900, notwithstanding the fact that 6,000 invitations have been sent out, Robert J. Cottrell, secretary of the board, said yesterday.

Senator Bingham, toastmaster, will make the honorary awards, and addresses will be made by President Offutt, Commissioner Crosby, Assistant Secretary of War Davison and William P. McCracken. Vice President Curtis is expected to attend the function. The fliers will respond to toasts. A huge cake in the shape of the world, with a frosted plane circling it, will form the centerpiece.

Seven persons, now dead, achieved honorary membership in the National Aeronautic Association, the distinction that will be conferred on Post and Gatty Monday night. They were Wilbur and Katherine Wright, Octave Chanute, S. P. Langley, John J. Montgomery, Charles M. Manley and Glenn Curtiss.

4th Marks Deaths Of 3 Presidents

Adams, Jefferson, Monroe, All Died on Nation's Independence Day.

Amidst the celebrations of Independence Day, today, an anniversary will slip quietly by, practically unnoticed. It was on this date that death came to three great presidents, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson, who died at almost the same hour on July 4, 1826, and James Monroe, who died just five years later.

Adams was responsible for the Continental Congress appointing George Washington as commander in chief of the colonial forces, and when Washington became President, Adams served as Vice President, later being himself elevated to the Presidency.

Jefferson, who served with Adams on the committee to draft the Declaration of Independence, next ascended to the Presidency, after serving as Vice President to Adams.

Monroe, who served under Washington during the Revolution, was at first opposed to the Constitution, yet he became the President we remember as the author of the "Monroe Doctrine."

Man Who Led in Capture Of Lincoln's Killer Dies

Rockford, Ill., July 3 ((A.P.).—John M. Fry, who directed the squad that tracked John Wilkes Booth after the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, died at his home in Seward today, aged 91.

A diary he kept revealed his participation in 43 Civil War engagements, including Gettysburg.

Many Celebrations Planned; Culmination at Night With Fireworks.

Program of Events On Independence Day

6:55 p. m.—Marine Band concert.

7:10 p. m.—Flag processional and massing of colors by veterans' and patriotic organizations. The ceremony includes a 36-piece aerial fireworks display at Monument Grounds.

7:25 p. m.—Invocation.

7:27 p. m.—"America."

7:30 p. m.—Address by James Grafton Rogers, Assistant Secretary of State.

7:45 p. m.—"America the Beautiful."

7:47 p. m.—Declaration of Independence read by Dr. W. Hayes Yeager, George Washington University.

7:56 p. m.—Allegiance to Flag, by entire audience.

7:58—Benediction.

8:00 p. m.—Flag recessional. "Star-Spangled Banner."

8:30 p. m.—Fireworks display.

which formally opens the new 18-hole golf course in Anacostia Park at 10 o'clock this morning.

The scattered celebrations will be climaxed tonight with a central observance at the Sylvan Theater. The program will open promptly at 6:55 o'clock when the Marine Band presents a number of patriotic selections.

The flag procession, with a massing of colors by numerous patriotic and veterans' organizations, will officially open the Sylvan Theater celebration. During the massing of the colors a special display of 36 aerial pieces of fireworks has been arranged.

The principal speaker at the exercises will be James Grafton Rogers, Assistant Secretary of State, who will be introduced by Thomas P. Littlepage.

The Declaration of Independence will be read by Dr. W. Hayes Yeager, of George Washington University, and following the entire audience will take the oath of allegiance to the flag. The program will close with the flag recessional and the "Star-Spangled Banner," played by the Marine Band.

Special arrangements have been made for handling the heavy traffic expected at the Sylvan Theater and Monument Grounds exercises. The fireworks display, starting directly after the exercises at the Sylvan Theater, and to be more elaborate this year than ever before, will draw thousands of persons.

A safety area is necessary about the locality from which the fireworks technicians operate at Sixteenth and B streets northwest. Pedestrians will not be allowed to approach nearer than 100 yards of the area, which will be roped off and guarded by police and details from the military services.

At the Ellipse.

Automobiles will be permitted to enter the Ellipse area, but will not be allowed to proceed south on Fifteenth or Sixteenth streets in that area. Traffic around the Ellipse roadway will be one-way, counterclockwise and parking will be permitted on the Ellipse roadway.

The circular driveway which skirts the Monument Grounds will be closed on both the north and south sides of the Monument, since it is needed in connection with the ceremonies and fireworks display. The parking areas in the rear of the Navy and Munitions Buildings will be open for parking at 6 p. m.

Entrance and exit will be by way of Nineteenth and Twenty-first streets. The Seventeenth street gate will be used exclusively for pedestrians entering or leaving the parking area. No parking will be allowed on Fourteenth street between Pennsylvania avenue and Water street. Parking will be permitted on Fifteenth street in the rear of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving.

Special Bus Service.

The Washington Rapid Transit Co. will begin special bus service this afternoon to the Lincoln Memorial at 4 o'clock. The extra service will continue until the close of exercises at the Sylvan Theater and Monument Grounds.

In Takoma Park a parade is planned at 10 o'clock this morning. Hundreds of citizens, including war veterans, will take part in the parade. At 10:30 o'clock patriotic exercises will be held on the grounds of the Takoma Trinity Episcopal Church. Mayor Ben G. Davis will preside, and the principal speaker will be Lieut. Col. Thomas J. Dickson, retired Army chaplain. A program of athletic events will follow, and a fireworks display will be held at 8:30 o'clock on the school grounds at Philadelphia and Cedar avenues.

Parade in Northeast.

Another parade is planned at 10:30 o'clock by citizens in the Northeast section. The parade will start from Rhode Island and South Dakota avenues, proceed to Taft Park, where a program of speeches, athletic contests and finally a fireworks display will be held.

The Conduit Road Citizens Association will sponsor a program at the Palisades, starting at 1 o'clock.

At Wesley Heights, the eighth annual celebration by the community will be held. The program will open with a flag-raising ceremony at the clubhouse at 9:30 a. m.

The Society of Natives and the Association of Oldest Inhabitants will meet jointly at the Western Presbyterian Church on H street between Nineteenth and Twentieth streets. The exercises will begin at noon.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

SUIT FOR SHORTAGE FILED BY MARYLAND

State Moves to Collect on Fidelity Bonds Executed for Preston Ray.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., July 3.—Alleging that the accounts of Preston Blair Ray were short $10,189.77 at the time of his death, on April 15, William Preston Lane, jr., attorney general, today filed a suit in the Superior Court on behalf of the State against the Fidelity and Deposit Co., by whom he was bonded.

Mr. Ray was clerk of the Circuit Court of Montgomery County from December 8, 1927, until his death. He was found dead from gas in the kitchen of his home in Rockville, last April, the day before auditors were to begin an inspection of his books.

The suit filed today alleged that he did not pay to the State all the money received for its use, and that two bonds of $14,000 each, issued by the defendant company, were made to cover such possible losses.

The suit is regarded as proper by the Fidelity & Deposit Co., according to John A. Luhn, vice president in charge of the claim department, who said it was, more or less, brought at the request of the company.

The bonds, it explained, cover both the county and State with regard to such losses. While it has not been intimated that there is any shortage in the county's funds, he said the suit is brought to forestall any possibility of such shortage being discovered in the future for an amount in excess of the bonds.

If shortages in excess of the bonds were discovered before the settlement of either, he pointed out, the amount of the bonds would have been prorated between the two governmental units.

Family Sees Man Stab Self, Leap Into Stream

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, W. Va., July 3.—Isaac Burgess, 38, committed suicide by slashing his throat with a pen knife yesterday at his home near Streby. He made a threat in the presence of friends at the house that he would end his troubles and before they could interfere pulled the knife and cut his throat.

He then ran to a nearby stream and hurled himself into it. The friends pulled him out, but he died a few hours later. He leaves a widow and several children.

Building Permits Increase in Value

Fifth Reserve District's Number Shows Loss; Capital Gains.

Richmond, Va., July 3 (A.P.).—Building permits issued in 32 leading Fifth Federal Reserve District cities in May, 1931, were fewer in number than those issued in May, 1930, but the month's estimated valuation figures totaled 12 per cent above the same month of the preceding year, the July district review issued today by the bank said.

Ten of the 32 cities reported higher figures for May this year than for the corresponding month last year, the largest number of cities to report increased figures in many months.

Most of the 12 per cent increase was in Washington, Salisbury, N. C., and Winston-Salem. Washington reported a larger gain than the total increase for the district. Despite the higher figures reported by the ten cities, however, the volume of building provided for in May was relatively small, except in Washington, Roanoke, Salisbury, N. C., and Winston-Salem, the report said.

Among the other larger cities Norfolk reported a fair amount for permits issued in the month, but Baltimore, Richmond, Charlotte and Charleston, W. Va., reported low figures in proportion to population.

Youth's Note Hints At Hike to Pacific

Relatives in Annapolis Seek Richard Stark, Missing 2 Days.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 3.—A general police alarm was sent out today to ascertain the whereabouts of Richard Stark, 18 years old, who has been missing from the home of his aunt, Mrs. Bowers, wife of Lieut. Ralph W. Bowers, U. S. N., since yesterday, and who is believed to have started a hitch-hiking jaunt with the purpose of returning to his home in San Francisco. He is said to be without funds, however.

When Lieut. and Mrs. Bowers came East two weeks ago they brought their nephew with them, to pass a year, the purpose being to place him in Annapolis High School during the coming fall. Young Stark, however, is thought to have become homesick. Some time after the youngster was missed about the Bowers' residence, it was discovered that he left an apparently hurriedly scribbled note, the contents of which indicated he had planned to "hit the road" for home. The note said that he "was leaving for home with a friend," but relatives or police have no information regarding the friend.

Man Waits Five Hours, Kills Baltimore Woman

Baltimore, July 3 (A.P.).—Shot by a man who waited five hours for an appointment, Mrs. Sophie Lowery, 35, died at a hospital today.

Bertram R. Yeatman, 40, then turned his pistol on himself, but inflicted only a slight wound. Yeatman said he planned to divorce his wife and marry Mrs. Lowery. Yesterday morning she informed him, for the first time, he said, that she was married. She was to meet him again shortly, but failed to return for five hours. Yeatman was held on a charge of murder.

Dog Farm Charge Alleges Nuisance

Montgomery Warrant Is Served on Manager for Society.

Warrant alleging that the dog farm maintained by the Humane Educational Society of Maryland at Potomac, Md., is a nuisance has been served on James Grant, manager of the farm. The president of the society is James P. Briggs of Washington, police say.

The warrant was sworn out by Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley of Montgomery County after repeated warnings to the humane society had failed to clear up alleged unhealthy conditions on the farm, the chief said. The case is set for hearing July 9 in Rockville Police Court.

Following a number of complaints received by Dr. William T. Pratt, county health officer, Chief Moxley investigated the farm and found numbers of dead dogs around the place unburied, he said. He ordered the place cleaned up several times but his orders were not complied with.

Holiday Cars Jam Roads to Resorts

Annapolis Reports Auto Travel Is Heaviest on Record.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 3.—All records for automobile traffic in Annapolis and along highways leading through the city for a 24-hour period were broken today by Fourth of July pleasure seekers on their way to the many beach resorts within a radius of 25 miles or more of the city, particularly in the southern part of the county and other sections of Southern Maryland.

Most of the throngs of motorists came from Washington and Baltimore, and their cars were laden with camping outfits and edibles for the feast of the Fourth. Proprietors of the various beaches have made elaborate preparations to entertain thousands of guests. Water sports, dances and displays of fireworks will feature most of the programs.

Annapolis Lodge of Elks has planned a big holiday outing at Bembes Shore, near the city, and they will be joined by a number of brothers from Washington Lodge. Ferry steamers of the Claiborne-Annapolis line had the biggest rush in the history of the company. Since yesterday they have been doing double duty, and indications were they would be compelled to operate all night to handle the throngs of motorists.

Burial will be Saturday afternoon at Thornrose Cemetery, Staunton.

Asiatic Expedition Halt Is Criticized

Natural History Museum Sees Exclusion of All Foreign Work.

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—The American Museum of Natural History today described the difficulties which have halted the expedition of Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews as a part "of the general process of exclusion of all foreign scientific work in China and Mongolia."

The museum's statement said a Swedish expedition under Sven Hedin had been hindered in "every way" and that the French expedition had been brought to a full stop.

The Cultural Society of Peking, the statement declared, has determined to "impose the condition that in future scientific work will be carried on under Chinese leadership at American or French or Swedish expense." Expeditions of the museums, it was added, work only with government permission and in China nothing of commercial value ever has been taken from the country.

Rosslyn Man Hurt in Crash.

Earl Brandley, 29, of Rosslyn, Va., suffered four broken ribs and cuts on the head yesterday when the auto he was driving collided with another at Fifth and Jefferson streets northwest. Francis H. Burrows, 30, Warren street near Forty-sixth street northwest, was driving the other car according to police.

BIDS ARE RECEIVED FOR WATER SYSTEM

Falls Church Committee to Study Proposals and Report Monday.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 186.

Bids for the construction and installation of the proposed municipal water system in the town of Falls Church have been received by the town council and referred to the water committee and engineering subcommittee for study. The committees were instructed to bring in recommendations to the council at its meeting Monday evening. The water committee has reported that the water bonds have been completed and delivered to the Lincoln National Bank in Cincinnati, Ohio, and the purchasers are willing to complete the transaction.

The council received eleven bids for installation of the piping, which includes the furnishing of pipe and accessories, digging trenches and back filling and other connection work. The bids range from $65,425 to $48,075. The lowest bid was by the firm of Portland, Me. Only two local bids were submitted for this work.

There were 13 bids submitted on fire hydrants and valves. The average bid for approximately 95 fire hydrants was $55.68 per hydrant. The Virginia Machine & Well Co. submitted the low bid which was $41.80 each. There was no consistent low bidder for furnishing valves, this item the water committee will determine the best valve suited for the money. All of the bids submitted are subject to modification of either increases or decreases, according to the kind of pipe used in laying the mains.

Mayor L. P. Daniels reported to the council that earlier in the week, authorities of Arlington County had threatened to arrest several of the merchants of East Falls Church for selling fireworks under authority of a permit granted them by the town under an ordinance recently adopted by the town council. The sale of fireworks is prohibited in Arlington County except on July 3 and 4. The town requires a permit charging a $10 fee, but does not limit the time of sale. It is stated that the town ordinance is to prohibit dangerous fireworks which might be injurious to children.

The ordinance also provides that the sale of fireworks within one mile of the town is prohibited unless the merchants obtain a permit from the town paying the usual fee. Mayor Daniels stated that there was no intention of invading the authority of Arlington County by this provision which is only designed to protect the children of the town. The legality of control of the one-mile zone by the town is now under investigation.

The council signified its willingness to support the town ordinance and to protect the town's merchants from arrest by the Arlington County authorities, even if necessary carrying the case to the court.

The council has decided to take no official stand concerning the difference of opinion which has arisen in the town concerning the proper location of a connecting link from the Fort Buffalo, terminus of the Lee boulevard and the Lee highway. Councilman J. V. Turner reported the action of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors on Wednesday agreeing to cooperate with the town if such cooperation was requested by the council. Members of the town council two weeks ago individually signed a letter to chairman H. G. Shirley of the State Highway Commission indorsing the proposed connection south of Broad street, but the council has taken no official action and has no reason to ask the county supervisors to cooperate with them, it was stated.

R. H. Russell, of Vienna, was sentenced to 15 days in jail and to pay a fine of $50 and costs by Justice of the Peace Thomas P. Chapman at Fairfax on a charge of reckless driving and colliding and leaving the scene of an accident without making his identity known. The charge grew out of an accident yesterday on the Chain Bridge road near Tysons Crossroads when a car driven by Russell struck the rear end of a wagon driven by T. W. Kilby of Oakton. Kilby was slightly injured in the accident and was treated by Dr. P. M. Brooks, of Fairfax. Russell was arrested following the accident by Fairfax County Policeman Carl R. McIntosh and Arthur W. Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Bell, of apartment 209, 55 M street, Washington, their niece, Mrs. Elizabeth Tabor, and Mrs. Tabor's 2-year-old son, Robert, were seriously injured when the Bell car was wrecked on the Lee highway, four miles west of Fairfax, between Centerville and Legato. According to the story told Fairfax County Policeman Carl R. McIntosh by Bell and persons witnessing the accident, the car passed a truck and ran off the concrete, on the left side. Bell could not pull the car back to the road and when he applied the brakes the car skidded and turned completely over. The injured were given first-aid treatment by Dr. E. S. Waring, of Fairfax, and taken to Washington. Mr. Bell stated they were starting on a summer vacation. Mr. Bell is employed in the Office of Public Buildings and Grounds and his wife in the Adjutant Generals' Office.

Brig. Gen. Cochran Succumbs to Car Hurts

Salisbury, Md., July 3 (A.P.).—Brig. Gen. William B. Cochran, U. S. A., retired, died here today of injuries received when his automobile crashed into a telegraph pole in a storm late Wednesday.

Following his retirement from the Army with the rank of colonel seven years ago, he made his home at Princess Anne, and was promoted in rank last year. He was 67, and maintained business interests both here and in New York.

County Official's Son Succumbs to Heat

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 3.—The third fatality for this district resulting from the heat occurred today, the victim being Dale Swiger, 36, Shinnstown business man, son of Hugh Swiger, deputy county assessor.

Mr. Swiger fell dead while preparing to go on a fishing trip. Yesterday he worked in the sun painting his house, and the heat and exertion taxed his heart. He leaves a wife.

CAPITAL MAN, FINED, APPEALS RUM COUNT

Benjamin Morris, Convicted in Prince Georges County, Released on Bond.

Benjamin Morris, a well-known Washington sportsman, was fined $25 yesterday in Marlboro, Md., police court for possession of a slot machine and $150 for possession of liquor. He appealed the sentence and was released on bond of $500.

Morris was arrested last week in a raid on the Forestville Club at Forestville, Md., which was formerly known as the Marlboro Club. County policemen who made the raid said they found five kegs of beer, a gallon of gin, five gallons of alcohol, and a beer-dispensing machine on the grounds.

State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer, who defended Morris, stressed the fact that none of the raiders who testified had played the slot machine, which was found in a closet under a pile of linen. He also attacked the validity of the search warrant, on the grounds that it did not describe which building on the grounds was to be searched.

According to the raiders, who were headed by Sergt. A. W. Hepburn, the beer was found in a shed, while the gin and alcohol were found in a field. The beer machine was also out of the house, in the back yard.

Two others were also convicted on liquor charges yesterday in the Marlboro court. Frank Chichester, who was caught with seven cases on the Southern Maryland pike, was fined $200 for possession. Mrs. Mary Knott, proprietor of a road house near Camp Springs, was fined $50 for possession of a half-gallon of liquor, which was found in her place.

Jim Nichols, of Punkintown, asked for a jury trial on a charge of possession and was freed on bond of $500. Charges of disorderly conduct against Francis H. Fox, of Locust Hills farm, Piscataway, were dismissed when he produced in court a receipt showing that the alleged disorder had taken place on the farm, which he had just bought. Fox was accused by his brother, Horace A. Fox, of having sworn at him and his wife when they went to the farm.

A number of persons forfeited their collateral for minor traffic charges. They were: Thomas Edward Henson, of L street southeast near Third street, $10 for reckless driving; Ollie L. Warrington, Cherrydale, Va., reckless driving, $5; H. L. Langley, of Third street northeast near Channing street, $1 for having no license; Howard H. Peter, of Fifteenth street southeast near H street, $5 for reckless driving.

James Lyle, accused of breaking into the home of Mary Gray at Allentown, Md., was held for action of the grand jury in bond of $200. William Coleman, of Leonardtown, $10 for permitting reckless driving, and Richard Milburn, of the same address, owner of the car, was fined $10 for permitting reckles sdriving.

Jack Olson, of Meadows, was fined $5 for having a knife which was classified as a concealed weapon by Judge J. Chew Sheriff. Testimony was brought out which showed that Olson had drawn the knife on a policeman who sought to arrest him on another charge. The other charge, disorderly conduct, was not placed against him. Fred Tee Peeples, of Massachusetts avenue northwest near Sixth street, was fined $5 for reckless driving.

Charles Jones, alleged proprietor of a disorderly house near Muirkirk, Md., was arrested early yesterday when county police raided the establishment. Six other persons in the house were charged with being disorderly by the raiders. Jones was freed on bond for trial in Hyattsville next Wednesday.

State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer has consented to present the prizes at the annual convention of the Prince Georges County Volunteer Firemen in Upper Marlboro on August 8. Others who have been invited to serve on the reception and presentation committee with Senator Sasscer are M. Hampton Magruder, Judge T. Van Clagett and F. W. Wilson, according to Earle Wyvill, secretary.

Other committee appointments announced by Mr. Wyvill were: Program, S. A. Wyvill and G. G. Shugart; refreshment, Joseph Heinhart, Paul Smith, Charles Kerr and Vernon Swain; music, Harry Morris; parade, W. R. Kerr, G. C. Buck, J. L. Fisher, Roy Suit, R. L. Wells and George Wyvill; contests, Earl Wyvill, Vincent Grady and C. C. Ballenger; rescue contests, Andrew Gasch and H. L. Leonard; registration and badges, William Parran and Michael Wyvill.

Noble Rushe, chief of the Hyattsville Volunteer Fire Department and candidate for president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, has been promised 195 votes when the association meets at Ocean City on July 8, it has been learned. The same source made it known that 200 votes would be sufficient to secure him the post.

Clyde Balch, of the Hyattsville Baptist Church, won the silver medal offered by the Rudisill Women's Christian Temperance Union as a prize in the county Bible memory contest. Balch also won the bronze medal given to the winners of the semifinals held in each of the seven churches in the contest.

Winners of other bronze medals were: Miss Alice Nash, of the Beltsville Methodist Church; Miss Winifred Peterman, of the Riverdale Heights Baptist Church; Jack Mallett, of the Riverdale Presbyterian Church; Miss Alma Shoemaker, of the Hyattsville Memorial Church; Miss Harriet McClay, of the Hyattsville M. E. Church South, and Miss Isabel Hamilton, of the Hyattsville Presbyterian Church.

Judges of the contest were Prof. K. J. Morris, principal of the Hyattsville High School; Dr. A. F. Woods, former president of the University of Maryland, and E. B. Dunford, of the Antisaloon League. Mrs. R. R. Greenwood presented the silver medal to the winner.

Car Victims Believed Two Maryland Men

Wilmington, Del., July 3 (A.P.).—Two men were killed on the Du Pont boulevard one mile south of Odessa, Del., today when their automobile got out of control and rolled over several times.

One man was believed to be J. H. Beach, of Hebron, Md., and the other was believed to be a business man named Hanna, of Salisbury, Md.

NESBIT AND REDMON HORSES TIE AT SHOW

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., July 3.—Opening day at the Culpeper Horse Show was a day of averages, average weather and average performances. Many entries marked every event except the pony classes and competition was keen, but the crowd of spectators was small, compared with the gate of 10,000 which viewed last year's show.

Unofficially the show opened with the dance of the Pot and Kettle Club last night. The new clubhouse of this old organization was formally dedicated with a dance, at which all lights went out. The floor committee commandeered a small car and ran it on the floor and the dance went on under its headlights.

In the show today Miss Elizabeth Nesbit's Cathode Ray and E. L. Redmon's Portlight shared honors, each taking two blue ribbons. Portlight won the class for 3-year-old hunters and the event for green hunters which had not won a blue ribbon at a recognized horse show prior to 1931. Cathode Ray, Miss Nesbit's gelding which won the Corinthian class at the Worthington Valley, Md., show in the spring, gave beautiful performances in the open class for hunters and jumpers and in the lightweight hunters event.

Mrs. Lee's Horses Win.

Mrs. D. N. Lee, winner of the old Culpeper Challenger plate and the strongest contender for the new plate, on which she had already made two wins, assured herself of another chance to compete for this trophy when her Broken Glass, winner of the hunter championship in 1929, won the competition between middle and lightweight hunters. Rock Arden, another star performer, from Mrs. Lee's stable, took second place to Cathode Ray in the open class for hunters.

Mrs. Allen Potts, a veteran campaigner at the Virginia shows, failed to win a blue today, but managed to collect two seconds and a third in the ring.

Races were good and finishes close, but the edge was taken from them by lack of discipline at the starts. Irving Beavers, starting judge, allowed riders to make many false starts, and in the third race, the open half mile, the horses spent 30 minutes at the post, during which Tommy Clatterbuck, riding Mrs. Plaster's Linda Mischa, was unloaded twice.

Three Spills in One Race.

In the first spill Clatterbuck was knocked unconscious and was carried from the track, but while several false starts were being made he recovered sufficiently to remount and be thrown again. Maj. Findley, entered by M. H. Everhart, also tired of his rider during the wait and dumped him on the track, with no serious consequences. At the close of the race as the horses returned to the judges' stand B. E. Murphy's Captain High tired of the whole performance and ran away—unloading his rider and jumping an iron gate on his way to the barn.

The fourth race, the three-quarter mile open, was the fight of the day. Warrenton broke in front with Reigh Celene at his withers and Schele a blanket's length behind, and they passed the stand at the first quarter this way and fought for position to the last turn, where Warrenton dropped back and left the fight to the other two, who passed under the wire so close together a saddle blanket would have covered their heads. After a long conference judges awarded the decision to Schele.

Radio, H. R. Kern's gelding which has raced over the Culpeper steeplechase course so often that he could run it in a blind bridle, and whose wins in this event run almost into the teens, lost the steeplechase today carrying favorite money. Sammy Mack, from Harold Barnes' string, won going away. Radio took second place and T. B. Gay's Grand Vedette won third money.

All Eleven Entries Finish.

Eleven horses left the post in this event and all finished, even though the last one arrived at the wire as the others were going to the barns.

Summary of events follows:

Class 1—Half-bred suckling colts: First, Brown Tilly, Russell Settle; second, Chestnut Colt, C. W. Yowell.

Class 5—Brood mares suitable to breed hunters: First, Wild Rose, b. m., H. Norman; second, Polly Anna, b. m., Miss Adella Yowell; third, Mary, b. m., Russell Settle.

Class 12, Ladies Saddle Horses (ridden by ladies, manner especially considered): First, Chinquepin, g. g., Anthony and George Rives; second, Love Token, b. g., Mrs. Allen Potts; third, Mistress Anne, Anthony and George Rives.

Port Light Is Winner.

Class 16, Green Hunters (for horses that have not won a blue ribbon in a hunting class prior to 1931; conformation, 25 per cent; performance, 50 per cent; 4-year-olds over 4 feet; 3-year-olds, 3½ feet)—First, Port Light, b. g., E. L. Redmon; second, Don Diable, gr. g., Mrs. D. N. Lee; third, Odd Socks, ch. g., Mrs. D. N. Lee.

Class 18, Middle and Heavy Weight Hunters (for horses carrying up to 175 pounds over 4½-foot jumps; conformation, 25 per cent; performance, 75 per cent)—First, Broken Glass, b. g., Mrs. D. N. Lee; second, Rolling Green, b. m., Mrs. John Ray Whitney; third, Main Spring, b. g., E. L. Redmon.

Class 5, Jumping Ponies (for ponies under 12 hands over 2½-foot jumps, ridden by children under 14 and judged as children's ponies)—First, Silver Gray, g. m., C. Randolph Holliday; second, Trixie, b. m., Henry Perneyhough.

Cathode Ray Leads Again.

Class 17, Light-Weight Hunters (for horses carrying up to 150 pounds over 4½-foot jumps; conformation, 25 per cent; performance, 75 per cent)—First, Cathode Ray, ch. g., Miss Elizabeth Nesbit; second, Sportsman, b. g., Miss Elizabeth Nesbit; third, Speedy, ch. g., Capt. Ewart Johnston.

The races:

First race—Open half mile. First, Leo Mac, R. H. Covington; second, Little Tansy, T. M. Waller; third, Sparkling Inn, J. A. Popham.

Second race—Open half mile. First, Gray Brook, M. H. Everhart; second, Cautious Lena, T. M. Waller; third, Card Party, Mrs. R. G. Bruce.

Fourth race—Three-quarters of a mile. First, Schley R., A. S. Bowman; second, Reigh Celene, W. T. Ralston; third, Warrenton, M. H. Everhart.

Fifth race—Two and one-half miles across country and on track. First, Sammy Mack, Harold Barnes; second, Radio, H. R. Kernes; third, Grand Vedette, T. B. Gay.

ALEXANDRIA STREET OPENED TO TRAFFIC

40-Foot Concrete Roadway for 17 Blocks Provided; Two Strips Ready.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The section of the Mount Vernon boulevard which traverses Washington street, from Montgomery street on the north to a point opposite the Catholic Cemetery, was opened to traffic yesterday. Barricades were removed at noon, giving a 40-foot stretch of concrete roadway for a distance of approximately seventeen city blocks.

Since the closing of Washington street several weeks ago, southbound traffic has been using Columbus street to Queen, thence west on Queen to Alfred, and south on Alfred. Northbound traffic has been routed over Patrick and Alfred streets.

The two strips of the boulevard opened yesterday are each 20 feet wide. There is an uncompleted strip on each side which varies in width from seven to fifteen feet. Parking will be prohibited on Washington street until the entire roadway is completed and then will be restricted to one hour. Contractors are now laying the final strip in the 100 and 200 blocks of North and South Washington streets, on the east side of that street. On completion of this, they will work from the south and east side all the way to Montgomery street, before beginning on the west side.

Business houses in the 100 block North and South Washington streets have been hard hit by the closing of the street.

J. Frank Carlin, operating as the Alexandria Auto Supply, informed the city city council that his business has been practically confiscated by removal of gasoline pumps at the curb, which may result in his seeking compensation from the city for his loss unless a permit is granted for installation of a curb hose tower on Washington street upon completion of the boulevard. His complaint was referred to the city attorney for action.

Owing to the illness of City Manager Wallace Lawrence, recently operated upon in the Naval Hospital in Washington and who expects to be absent from his desk for several weeks, the city payroll has been temporarily held up. It is expected, however, that arrangements will shortly be made to have Mr. Lawrence sign the checks so that the city may pay off its obligations due July 1.

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Northern Virginia Hotel Corporation, which owns the George Mason, practically all the stock of which is owned locally, will be held in the hotel at 8 o'clock the evening of July 13, for the purpose of selecting a board of directors to serve until the next annual meeting. Proxies for those unable to attend, authorizing W. A. Smoot, George E. Warfield, and J. E. W. Timberman to represent them, have been sent out.

George Mason stockholders are looking forward to greatly increased business in 1932, during the bicentennial celebration, and have hopes for their first dividend.

Dr. William L. Schafer, city health officer, stated yesterday water being furnished Alexandria is pure and safe for drinking purposes, and there is no necessity for boiling it before using, as is being done by some residents.

A topographic survey of Hybla Valley, considered as a site for the proposed Zeppelin airport, has been completed by H. A. Sivaslian and a party of engineers.

The annual outing of Virginia Lodge, No. 1076, Moose, started yesterday at North Beach, Md., and will end Sunday. Miss Mae Cavanaugh is in charge of the Red Cross stations, and R. P. Whitesone is general chairman in charge of arrangements.

Virginia Boy Strangled While Amusing Brother

Richmond, Va., July 3 (A.P.).—Thomas Edward Trimmer, 13, playing that he was a dog tied to a tree in order to amuse a smaller brother, was strangled to death today when a strap around his neck was tightened.

Officers expressed the opinion that a lunge pulled the strap taut and that the boy was too badly frightened to unfasten it. Emergency treatment was unavailing.

MONTGOMERY READY FOR CELEBRATIONS

Three County Communities Will Honor Independence Day With Programs.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Parades, speeches and fireworks will be features of the Fourth of July celebrations, which will be held today in three Montgomery County communities, Takoma Park, Kensington and Cabin John Park. Celebrations will be held less elaborately in a number of other county communities. The most pretentious of these probably will be the annual picnic of the Civic League of Brookmont & Vicinity, Inc.

The Takoma Park celebration will be an intercommunity affair, with the Maryland and District residents of this community and vicinity acting jointly in promoting the celebration. It will begin with a parade, headed by the United States Army Band, at 10 o'clock, which will pass through most of the important streets of the town to disband finally at Piney Branch road and Dahlia street, after passing in review before the celebration committee.

The Army band will present a program at the conclusion of the parade, which will be followed by patriotic exercises at the playgrounds at Third and Whittier streets, at which a totem pole will be dedicated under the auspices of the Citizens Association of Takoma Park, D. C. E. J. Hibbs, president of the association, will be in charge of proceedings. The playgrounds also will be the finishing point of a marathon race, which starts from the center of Washington at 1 o'clock.

One of the features of the ceremonies will be the all-flag parade which will have hundreds of children depicting the career of the American flag. This feature is under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Petty Dodge, who promises a brilliant array of floats.

The usual display of fireworks will be conducted at night on the Maryland Municipal Playgrounds.

The Kensington celebration is under the auspices of the Kensington Volunteer Fire Department, in connection with its annual carnival. The celebration will begin with a parade which will start at 3 o'clock on Connecticut avenue at the National Guard Armory and wend its way through the principal streets to the carnival grounds at Capitol View road and Metropolitan avenue, just north of the Baltimore & Ohio grade crossing.

Volunteer fire departments from all over the county have been invited to participate in the parade and in a hook-up contest which follows. Civic organizations and business associations are expected to join in the parade as well as individual business houses and the Boy Scouts of the community.

The hook-up contests will be held at the carnival grounds, immediately following the termination of the parade. Washington Fire Department officials will be judges. The contest will be a standing hook-up contest, the company showing water in the least time winning. Silver loving cups will be awarded the best appearing company in the parade and the company winning the hook-up contest. Fireworks will be displayed at the carnival grounds in the evening in addition to the usual carnival features.

The Cabin John Park celebration also will be held under the auspices of the local fire department, as the climax of its annual carnival. A parade will be formed at 10 o'clock in which floats will be entered by civic, business and other organizations. Headed by the Potomac Band, the parade will tour the Conduit road communities and end at the Glen Echo-Cabin John School grounds, where a horseshoe pitching tournament will be held. Fireworks will be displayed at night. Dinners will be served in the school cafeteria all day.

The Brookmont Civic League celebration will be held on the grounds of the Daecarlia Reservoir on Conduit road, and also will be climaxed with fireworks in the evening.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Damascus M. E. Church will hold its annual chicken supper today, at the church, and it is expected that there will be a large gathering of upper countians.

The county offices will be closed for the day, as will the banks and most of the business houses of the county. The country clubs and amusement places of the county are preparing for a record day today.

In connection with authorization of $876,000 for extension of service in the State of Maryland, the board of directors of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., of Baltimore City, has approved expenditures of $25,910 for extension of service facilities in the area of Montgomery County, west of Wisconsin avenue between the District line and Bradley lane, served by the Bradley-Wisconsin offices.

The project includes the erection of 160 poles, 37,000 feet of aerial cable, and 5,306 feet of underground cable to provide facilities at Chevy Chase Gardens.

Hoover Dam Crew To Undergo Tests

(Associated Press.)

Rigid medical examinations have been ordered at the site of Hoover Dam for all employes to determine whether they can stand the terrific desert heat, intensified by the rock walls of Black Canyon.

One man has died of heat prostration on the job. A great many laborers have been dismissed on doctor's orders. Approximately 1,100 men are on the pay roll of Six Companies, Inc., builders of the dam, and the turnover was reported to be "considerable."

Aside from possible direct serious effects on the men, the heat is believed to make possible an unduly high accident rate through lowering the efficiency of men not accustomed to the Arizona-Nevada climate. Much of the dam labor has been recruited from a large camp of unemployed, who established themselves on the river bank when first the promise of work lured them West. Many of these people, Government reports disclose, have been living on next to nothing, and are not in physical condition for the arduous construction work.

BOLIVIA TO RECALL ENVOY IN PARAGUAY

Relations Are Strained After Exchange of Notes in Boundary Row.

(Associated Press.)

The State Department was informed yesterday the Bolivian Minister to Paraguay would be withdrawn.

Bolivia's action followed a recurrence of strained relations surrounding the Chaco boundary dispute. The United States was one of five neutral nations extending their good offices in attempting to settle the disagreement.

Paraguay replied to a Bolivian note, which had been dispatched after the minister at Asuncion had been advised last Tuesday to hold himself in readiness to return to La Paz. The Paraguayan reply was understood here to have been considered unsatisfactory by Bolivia.

Bolivia's decision was not interpreted by the State Department, however, as an indication there would be hostilities between the principals in the Chaco boundary dispute.

The Bolivian-Paraguayan difficulties resulted from a recent exchange of statements by the representatives of the two countries in Washington. The Bolivian Legation issued a statement calling attention to Paraguay's purchase of two war vessels and to Bolivia's own action in reducing her military expenditures. Charge d'Affaires Ynsfran of Paraguay replied that Bolivia's military reductions were forced by financial necessity rather than by pacific intentions.

Bolivia demanded an apology for Ynsfran's statement, to which Paraguay replied the matter had been exaggerated, but indicated Paraguay was not to be intimidated by "threats."

Pope Grants Audience To 4 West Virginians

Vatican City, July 3 (A.P.).—Pope Pius today received in special audience Herbert C. Greer, of Morgantown, W. Va.; Mrs. Greer, their daughter, Jane, and a nephew, Thomas R. Sheffer.

The pontiff imparted the apostolic blessing upon the Americans who were presented by Cardinal Cerretti.

LLOYD GEORGE RAPS DESERTION BY SIMON

Excoriates Former Liberal in Vitriolic Speech in House of Commons.

London, July 3 (A. P.).—A startled House of Commons listened this afternoon as David Lloyd George hurled taunts and jibes at his former lieutenant, Sir John Simon, who recently severed his official connection with the Liberal party.

It is many years since Parliament members have heard a speech manifesting such personal virulence. Lloyd George received enthusiastic acclaim from the Labor side but from the Conservative benches came angry retorts.

Referring to Sir John's "intolerable self-righteousness," the fiery Welshman said: "Greater men have changed their opinions in the past, but at any rate they did not leave this slime of hypocrisy in passing from one side to the other."

He likened the dissident Liberal to a teetotaler who "looked with wrathful disdain on any one who had a drop of alcohol however diluted and suddenly, when he was approaching his seventh decade, took a drink and you saw him rolling from one side to another, and then he ended his career by entering into an inebriates' home."

Accusing Sir John, by implication, of seeking favors from the Conservative party, Lloyd George said the Conservatives would use his powers and gifts to the utmost "but when he ceased to be useful they would fling him out, or treat him as they treated a greater man, Joseph Chamberlain—fob him off with a second or third rate office and cheat him of the prize they had dangled before him."

Thunderous Labor cheers greeted the conclusion of Lloyd George's speech. When the House recovered from its shock, it proceeded with normal business which ended in passage of the third reading of the finance bill.

This bill implements Philip Snowden's budget and includes the land tax proposals which were the immediate cause of the breach between Sir John and the head of his party. The favorable vote was 274 to 222.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

An exceptionally attractive model is this, with freshness and charm, so beloved by youth.

The dress was developed in pale blue crepe silk with royal blue dots. There were narrow bindings at the neck and armholes. The jacket reversed the color scheme to carry out snappy contrast in royal blue with pale blue dots. The lighter tone crepe appeared again as trim on the jacket.

And it's so easily copied. And at a surprisingly small cost.

Style No. 314 is designed for sizes 16, 18 and 20 years; 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3⅜ yards of 39-inch material, with 2⅛ yards of 39-inch contrasting and 1¼ yards of binding.

Pastel flat washable crepe silk, stantung in plain or printed, linen, cotton meshes, wool jersey and shirting fabrics also suitable.

KIDNAPING TIPS KEEP POLICE GUARDS BUSY

Wealthy Professional and Theatrical Persons Held Menaced by Ring.

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—Tips from the underworld that a highly organized gang of extortionists has marked a list of theatrical and professional people for kidnaping had police on the alert today.

Detectives disclosed that among the wealthy persons who are under constant police guard to protect them from abduction is Frank Keeney, Brooklyn theatrical magnate and former Florida race track owner.

For more than a week Mr. Keeney was shadowed without his knowledge by detectives, who received information that kidnapers had marked him for their prey. Told of the precautions, he said he had received threats but was not worried.

Although Deputy Chief Inspector Sweeney, who assigned the guards, refused to divulge any other names, it is known that threats have come to wealthy persons—including hotel managers—recently. It was recalled that George Jessel, the comedian; Peggy Hopkins Joyce and Texas Guinan were assigned guards some time ago after they had been threatened while playing in Brooklyn.

Extortion on a mass production scale has been attempted by a band operating from Philadelphia, detectives said. Hotel managers have been receiving letters from this group, which is said to have sent out 10,000 threatening notes in the last few months. Although the headquarters has not been discovered, the methods were too crude to reap results, police said.

Existence of the Philadelphia band was made known by police today after the arrest and indictment here of John Krayanowski, of Philadelphia.

He was arrested specifically on the complaint of Roy Moulton, manager of a midtown hotel here, who said he received a letter charging the employes of the hotel had not been "treated with consideration by the bosses" and demanding $3,200.

Later, he said, Benjamin Wagofski, now in the Tombs awaiting trial, came to him and demanded the money. When he was arrested he was alleged to have said Krayanowski sent him to New York. Krayanowski said he did send him here, but merely to collect $100,000 won in a pool by Krayanowski's brother, Theodore. The charge against Krayanowski is attempted extortion.

Navy Not to Yield 8-Inch Gun Ships

Will Adhere to Program, Admiral W. V. Pratt Declares.

(Associated Press.)

The United States Navy was said yesterday by Admiral William V. Pratt to have no present intentions of sacrificing any of the eighteen 8-inch gun cruisers allowed it under the London treaty in favor of additional 6-inch gun cruiser tonnage.

The chief of naval operations added that in this regard there had been no deviation from the Navy's previous policy as expressed to Congress.

The United States now has eight 10,000-ton 8-inch gun cruisers built and seven under construction. Three more may be laid down, one each in 1933, 1934 and 1935. Under the treaty, however, the United States could substitute 15,166 tons of 6-inch gun cruisers for each of these three. The United States already is far below treaty tonnage in 6-inch gun cruisers and can build nine more of 7,500 tons each without exceeding it.

Cut in Grain Rates Effective August 1

I. C. C. Reduction Order to Affect Points in West and South.

(Associated Press.)

Lowered rates on grain shipped from producing points throughout the West, the Southeast, the Mississippi Valley and the Southwest yesterday were ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission to become effective August 1.

The rates were revised under the commission's investigation of the general rate structure of the country provided in the Hochsmith law. Originally they were to have become effective June 1.

The railroads, claiming the new schedules would cause losses running high into the millions of dollars, secured an injunction last May in Federal court at Chicago. This order stayed the rates until July 6. The injunction was vacated by the court several days ago.

The commission in its original opinion took cognizance of the complaints of the railroads that heavy reductions of rates on grain would cripple them.

Nation Seeks to Stop Loss in Duck Supply

(Associated Press.)

The Nation's supply of ducks has become endangered by the Northwest drought. As a result the Biological Survey, in cooperation with Canadian officials, has undertaken a study of the breeding range to determine what can be done.

A large decreaes in ducks was noted during the last hunting season. For several years drought conditions have been unfavorable during the breeding season in the Northwest. A good share of the wild fowl that spend the fall and winter months in the United States come from that area.

W. K. Phelps Will Wed Mrs. Muriel V. Church

Paris, July 3 (A.P.).—Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt tonight announced the engagement of her daughter, Mrs. Muriel Vanderbilt Church, to Henry Delafield Phelps, son of Edgar Morris Phelps, of Newport, R. I.

The wedding is to take place either in September or in October at Mrs. Vanderbilt's home at Manhasset, Long Island. Mrs. Church was married in 1925 to Frederick Cameron Church, jr., of Newport. They were divorced two years ago. Mr. Phelps is a Princeton graduate and a member of the Knickerbocker Club.

LIBERIA REFORMS BLOCKED

evildoing and threatening those in power. Like an avenging angel he apears suddenly in the most out-of-the-way places gathering evidence of fraud and graft which is duly published in the one or two little weekly four-page opposition papers. At one time he journey over 300 miles to Monrovia, in a dugout canoe to attend an election, thus surprising his opponent. Some of his feats seem miraculous to Liberians, who are notoriously short on energy.

Party Friendly to U. S.

The platform of the People's party favors a more friendly policy toward America, American citizens and American business, urges the conviction and imprisonment of all government officials guilty of complicity in the Fernando Poo "boy" traffic and the brutalities of the recent forced labor road program, asks the granting of concessions to foreign enterprises that Liberia may become economically developed and advocates the immediate reorganization of the judicial system which is now the laughing stock of Africa.

The platform is the work of Faulkner and the People's party is largely financed by him. Some people say he is merely an adventurer who loves the presidency of Liberia more than he does Liberia; his friends say he is the only man who can save Liberia. It is safe to say that a majority of the Liberians, outside the official class and its satellies and certainly most of the natives are for him. But the chances are that he made a poor showing at the polls in the recent May elections, the returns of which will not be published until the Legislature sits in December. The machinery of governmen has been in the hands of the True Whig party for so many years, and politicians in office are so adept at the art of obtaining majorities on paper if not in reality that their defeat will be a modern miracle.

In the 1928 election, when Faulkner opposed former President C. D. B. King, the True Whig machine was working in its usual excellent order. Indeed, the True Whig machine and the government lighthouse are about the only two things that do work in Liberia. Although only property owners enjoy the right of franchise in Liberia and not over 15,000 persons were qualified as electors, King received 243,000 votes while Faulkner got but 9,000! King's aid-de-camp alone delivered 100,000 votes from the interior. In one district, where there are but 9,000 electors, 40,000 votes were cast. In the town of Sinoe, with a total population of but 3,500 souls, the registrar of elections, who is allowed 2 cents for each vote registered, sent in a bill for $948!

Vote by Truckloads.

On that election day a high government official excitedly sought to borrow a truck for electioneering from the manager of the Firestone company. When refused, he remarked wistfully, "Oh, all right. I just voted a bunch of men down here (in Monrovia) and I wanted to rush them up country so I could vote them again before the polls close."

In Grand Cape Mount County, the True Whigs suggested and the People's Party managers agreed, that the polls should be kept open one hour for the Faulkner adherents, then an equal period for the King men, and alternate in this manner through the day in order to avoid clashes between enthusiasts of the two factions. The polls opened the first hour for Faulkner, but the rest of the day only True Whigs were permitted to vote. The forces of law and order upheld the True Whigs.

Hence, it is difficult to imagine that the election of this year to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of President C. B. D. King over the slavery revelations was any fairer than previous ones.

Filed Charges.

Indeed, in an indignant open letter to Acting President Edwin Barclay, dated April 14, 1931, Faulkner charged:

"(1) Your Excellency upon application has signed thousands of deeds in blank which have been forwarded to the various counties throughout the republic, and there they have been filled in with names of persons who declare themselves for the Whig Party. If they are suspected to be in favor of the People's Party, they are denied a deed. This is connivance to defraud in the election.

"(2) Further in reference to these deeds, they are offered for probation in the Monthly and Probate Courts and registered by the registrar for the county without the usual $1 revenue stamp as required by law, and thus the Republic of Liberia is cheated out of considerable revenue just to win this election. This is fraudulent. * * *"

Faulkner then charges that the Government (the true Whig Party) "has for twenty-six years enticed the natives with gin, tobacco and force to vote for it and is now failing to give them the necessary year's notice that they can not vote without a deed to land in their own name and fee simple."

"Registrars" Recalcitrant.

"Registrars," he continues, "have in many cases refused to administer the oath to electors when they apply for registration which is an open violation of the law. * * * A large percentage of registrars have entered names from lists handed them, not requiring deeds nor persons to be present, these names to be used to vote any person whom the boosters of the Whig Party present at the polling place on the day of election. These registrars have also refused to allow the inspectors of the People's Party to inspect the deeds and register so they might be informed if the persons were bona fide electors. This illegal registration of names from lists handed in is done solely for the purpose of swelling the number of voters for the Whig Party, and then fraudulently place the ballots in the box on the day of election to represent the names registered."

Faulkner on the basis of these charges "challenges and protests 99 per cent of the registration throughout the republic." He especially points out that the deeds in question, without which an elector can not qualify, are not only without stamps but there is no number of lot or boundaries set out on them. The open letter ends with the statement that if certain native tribes are prevented from voting they will refuse to pay their taxes and "stand to resist the government." President Barclay hadn't replied to the charges in Faulkner's letter at the time of my departure.

From the foregoing it would seem that there is slight chance of cleaning up the evils disgracing Liberia and retarding its progress by a political revolution. The old gang has everything sewed up tight. Only an armed revolt could throw it out of power. And while Charles King, former President King's son; Maj. Harper, the commandant of the frontier force, and Charles Eastman, controller of treasury, are now under indictment for embezzling the soldiers' pay, it is believed that the 369 soldiers in the army are well enough fed to stand by the government with their antiquated Krag Jorgensens and defective ammnuition in case of civil strife.

Stumps Foreign Reformers.

The bulk of foreign observers in Monrovia see no way to clean up the mess of slavery, forced labor, pawning, bankruptcy and inefficiency except by outside control. They argue that money and technical assistance are necessary to the development of Liberia into a modern state, and that the present government is hardly of such character to inspire confidence in the hearts of international bankers and concessionnaires.

Few believe that anything is to be hoped for from the League of Nations because Liberia is a member and nothing can be done without its permission and agreement. The chief and primary need in Liberia is the ousting of the present misgoverning gang, and it is not on record where politicians voted themselves out of office, particularly when they have no other occupation.

Beyond sending health experts to clean up Monrovia and fight the yellow fever menace, the League of Nations can do little except dispatch commissions to study conditions and make reports. It might arrange another loan for Liberia, but that seems remote.

The United States has always taken such a friendly interest in the affairs of Liberia and as the little republic is already known up and down the West African Coast as an American protectorate, there are some who think America should step in and straighten things up as she has in some small states nearer home. But there is no indication as yet that the United States is eager to become so deeply involved. It would perhaps at best be a thankless philanthropy necessitating expenditure of millions of dollars before Liberia became self-supporting and developed a superior class of governing officials.

Ruling Class In Saddle.

Meanwhile, the little, haughty, impecunious ruling class, perplexed over the future, but getting what can be extracted from the present, sits uneasily astride the backs of a million and a half sullen and dissatisfied aborigines. They can get labor for the grabbing, extra wives for the taking and plenty of food by requisition, but, lacking brains and money, they are incapable of developing the rich natural resources of their beautiful land or even of constructing decent roads to enable others to do so.

Cruel, unmoral, incompetent, they flock devoutly each Sabbath to their numerous churches, praying for salvation—and meaning another loan.

Site for Virginia Hospital to Wait

Veterans' Administrator Will Select Location Next Fall.

Special to Washington Post

Petersburg, Va., July 3.—Brig. Gen. Frank Hines, administrator of Veterans' affairs, informed Representative P. H. Drewry, of this city, in an interview in Washington, that he will not make an active study until next Fall of the location for a Veterans' Hospital in Virginia.

He says he is much interested in Petersburg's proposal to have the hospital located here. He assured Representative Drewry he will be notified before any steps are taken in consideration of the location.

Full opportunity will be given those interested in locating the hospital in this vicinity to present their claims in person, or in brief, when the time to make a full study of the hospital location arrives, he said.

Annapolis Fireworks Sale Is Given Impetus

Annapolis, Md., July 3.—While many other cities are clamoring about the storage, sale or discharge of fireworks within corporate limits, residents of Annapolis may celebrate the Fourth to their heart's content. This was indicated today by a notice issued by the mayor, which reads:

"The sale or use of fireworks will be strictly prohibited in the city after July 4th."

In consequence of this order, dealers who had been skeptical lest they come within the law as to sales, soon had big stocks on display and did a rushing business.

Wife, Babes Stay With Man in Jail

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., July 3.—A little family group—father, mother and two children—left the Howard County Jail in Ellicott City tonight after a 24-hour stay.

The father, Vincent Lehman, was locked up yesterday when he failed to appear for a hearing on a traffic charge, and his wife and children joined him at their own request. They spent the night with him in his cell, at liberty to leave if they desired.

Lehman was arrested at Elkridge, June 23, on a charge of driving while drunk. However, he was not well enough to be imprisoned then, so he was released for a hearing yesterday. Failing to appear, he was arrested in a crude shanty near Berwyn, Prince Georges County. A friend posted $250 bond tonight, effecting his release.

Man Slashes His Throat As Wedding Date Nears

Baltimore, Md., July 3 (A.P.).—Less than a week before his scheduled wedding at his former home at Logan, Va., Robert Foster, 35, slashed his throat with a razor today and was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Edward G. Foster, his brother, said they had planned to go to Logan today to prepare for the wedding. He said he could not explain his brother's act.

Navy Chief Orders Inquiry In Uniform Use By Police

(Associated Press.)

Naval uniforms will not be worn as a prohibition enforcement disguise if Secretary Adams of the Navy has anything to do about it.

Published reports of the use of a chief petty officer's cap and coat by Philadelphia police in obtaining evidence against bootleggers in that city drew an order from Adams yesterday to the commandant of the Philadelphia Navy Yard for an investigation.

Use of the disguise was revealed at a trial Thursday in Philadelphia, in which a policeman acknowledged wearing a uniform "similar" to that of a Navy petty officer. Two men arrested by the policeman were sentenced to six months.

In spite of the published statement that the navy yard commandant had already objected to use of the disguise, Adams ordered an inquiry to determine the degree of similarity of the disguise to a naval uniform.

Reminding that such a course was contrary to a Federal law which prohibits the wearing of a service uniform by any one other than those in the service, the Navy Secretary added the opinion it was "not a fair thing to do."

He indicated he would call the attention of Philadelphia police authorities to the law if the charges are substantiated and, if the conditions require it, would ask the assistance of the Department of Justice for prosecution.

Philadelphia, July 3 (A.P.).—Director of Public Safety Schofield refused to comment tonight on the investigation of the police department ordered by Secretary of the Navy Adams. Mr. Schofield said he would have nothing to say until the navy yard commandant or the Navy Department at Washington had officially communicated with him.

Rear Admiral Lucian Bostwick, commandant of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, also refused to comment. He said he knew nothing of charges against the local police except what he had seen in newspapers. He added that he expected to receive orders from Secretary Adams tomorrow and might make a statement after studying them.

Action of Secretary Adams was precipitated by trial of two accused bootleggers in quarter sessions court yesterday.

The defendants asserted they were arrested by three policemen, one of whom wore the coat and cap of a chief petty officer of the Navy. Judge MacNeille made no comment when the subject was mentioned. Patrolman Charles Lang is the man accused of impersonating the naval officer.

Several months ago it was charged that Philadelphia police were attempting to trap small bootleggers by disguising themselves in naval uniforms. At that time Rear Admiral

DISABLED VETERANS' WORK ROLL PLANNED

Federal Bureaus Will Take Job Census and Seek to Place Men.

First census of disabled World War veterans who are out of employment and a comprehensive drive to place them in jobs is to be undertaken at once, according to an announcement last night by E. C. Babcock, newly elected national commander of the Disabled American Veterans. During the day Commander Babcock was in conference with Veterans' Administrator Frank T. Hines and officials of the Department of Labor.

"Thus far the difficulty in attacking the problem of our jobless disabled has been that schemes have been too general," said the D. A. V. leader. "No one has actually known how many of our men have not been employed or who they have been, although all conceded that the number ran into the thousands. Gen. Hines and the Labor Department have each striven hard, but we feel that more will be accomplished under the new proposal.

"Briefly, the plan that is to be launched at once calls for a questionnaire going through the Veterans' Bureau to each of these men individually, seeking specific data. The individual having replied that case will then be turned over to the Department of Labor Employment Service for placement.

"The second particular feature of the plan will be the follow-up. The field offices of the department will not be allowed to handle the case in the usual manner but on each case developed there will be a periodical report every week, or two showing the exact status of each individual until permanent employment has been obtained.

Commander Babcock left last night for Huntington, W. Va., to address the State convention of the D. A. V. but will return early next week to commence a series of conferences with E. G. Dexter, representing the Veterans' Administration, and J. A. Shaw, representing the Department of Labor, in working out details of the plan which was agreed upon yesterday.

Health Official In Maryland Dies

Dr. William Keister Fails to Survive Operation at Walter Reed.

Baltimore, Md., July 3 (A.P.).—Dr. William S. Keister, Maryland deputy State health officer, former director of the board of sanitation and health of Alabama, died today at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, following an operation.

Dr. Keister for a time was connected with the Marine Hospital at Wilmington, N. C., and after his service with the A. E. F. in France in the World War, had a post with the Virginia department of health and then became professor of public health at the University of Virginia.

Later he was public health officer at Decatur, Ill.

Spanish Cabinet Discusses Riots

Catholic Press Denounces Government Attitude in Disorders.

Madrid, July 3 (A.P.).—The new anti-Catholic outbreak, which last night resulted in the burning of the Capuchin Monastery of San Jose, at Corunna, by a mob of 3,000 persons, was discussed by the cabinet tonight.

The government said that troops were patrolling the town today and order was maintained despite the tension. Three of the ten persons injured in the rioting, which was blamed on radical syndicalists, were in serious condition.

Meanwhile, the Catholic newspaper, El Debate, took the government to task for not preventing such attacks against the church and a petition from Bilbao protested against the methods of the authorities in handling such outbreaks. Other disorders were reported from the town of La Algaba, where enraged unemployed agrarians rioted and burned farm machinery. They were dispersed by police and four arrests were made.

Col. Riley, Annapolis Lawyer-Writer, Ill.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 3.—In failing health for several months, Col. Hugh R. Riley, lawyer and newspaper correspondent of Annapolis, is a patient at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, where he is undergoing special treatment. He was transferred to the hospital Tuesday, after being under observation at the U. S. Veterans Diagnostic Center for several days. He is said to be suffering from some organic trouble coupled with nervous disorder.

Col. Riley is a member of the Officers Reserve Corps of the Army. For a quarter of a century he served as an officer of the Maryland National Guard, and also saw service in the regular Army.

Father and 3 Children, Crash Victims, Buried

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., July 3.—Funeral services for Carey Brown and three of his five children, who were killed near Lynchburg Wednesday afternoon in an automobile accident, were held this afternoon at Monroe Baptist Church. Interment was at Amherst.

Two other children, Charles Brown, 4, and Haynes Tomlin, 10, hurt in the same accident, are recovering at Memorial Hospital here. J. Bryan Carroll, of this city, driver of the oil tank truck, which was in collision with Brown's car, has been bailed in $3,000 for trial July 14 before County Trial Justice W. H. Carter at Amherst. Carroll is charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Miss Bailey To Be Bride Of Mr. Davis

Wedding to Take Place July 16; Justice Butler's Son Marries.

DAUGHTERS and sons of the United States Courts seem to have selected July for their weddings. With the marriage on Thursday in New York of Mr. Kevin Butler, son of Justice Pierce Butler, of the United States Supreme Court, and Mrs. Butler, and Miss Martha Knox, and the selection of Thursday, July 16, for the wedding day of Miss Elizabeth Bailey, daughter of Justice Jennings Bailey, the members of the legal profession will have had by midsummer a gay round of festivities. Mr. Butler's bride is the daughter of Judge John Clark Knox, of the United States Court for the Southern District of New York, and Mrs. Knox.

Miss Bailey, who will be wed to Mr. Thomas Davis, will have as her attendant her sister, Mrs. Lionel Summers, formerly Miss Lucy Bailey, who will be the matron of honor. Mr. Davis will have his brother, Mr. Dean Davis, for his best man.

The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's father on Bancroft place, the ceremony being set for 4 o'clock, and will be attended by members of the two families. A reception will follow the ceremony, a few intimate friends having been invited.

The wedding of Miss Knox and Mr. Butler took place in the rectory of St. Patrick's Cathedral, the Rev. Father Francis Fadden performing the service. Only the families were present. A small breakfast at the Knox residence followed. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Butler will live at Westfield, N. J.

The bride is a graduate of the Lincoln School, class of '28 and attended Sarah Lawrence School in Bronxville, N. Y. Mr. Butler was graduated from Princeton in 1928 and is associated with the Northern States Contracting Company.

Justice Butler, Mrs. Butler and Miss Anne Butler, sister of the bridegroom, went up to New York for the wedding, where they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Francis D. Butler and Mr. and Mrs. Leo D. Butler, of St. Paul, brothers and sisters-in-law of the bridegroom.

Among those at the Ambassador Hotel in Atlantic City for the week-end are Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. S. Herschel Shipley, and Mr. and Mrs. James F. Babcock.

Mr. Jahncke In Altoona For Oration

Will Give Independence Day Address Today; Family Here.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Ernest Lee Jahncke, is in Altoona, Pa. today, where he will make an Independence Day address. With Mrs. Jahncke he returned on Thursday from New York, Mrs. Jahncke and their daughter, Miss Adele Jahncke, having just reached New York from a trip abroad. The Secretary went to New York to meet them from Boston, where he had taken part in the ceremonies arranged for the sailing down the ways of the reconditioned Old Ironsides.

Mrs. Jahncke will remain in Washington a few days and then will go to their home in New Orleans for a short visit, returning then to Washington. Miss Jahncke is in New York, where she will continue a visit with friends before joining Secretary Jahncke at their home here.

Mrs. Marie P. Fletcher has come from her home in Eugene, Oreg., and is at the Dodge for an indefinite stay.

Miss Ferguson Is Married to Mr. Koehler

Wedding Solemnized in St. John's Lutheran Church.

The weding of Miss Doris Virginia Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Ferguson, to Mr. George Franklin Koehler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Koehler, took place yesterday evening at 7 o'clock at St. John's Lutheran Church, the Rev. Dr. Wenchel officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, and wore a gown of ivory satin trimmed with lace and a long circular train. Her tulle veil was caught in a cap of lace and she carried roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor was Miss Vera Klier, a cousin of the bride, who wore a frock of peach taffeta with a large hat of green straw. She carried talisman roses in an arm bouquet.

The bridesmaids were Miss Audrey Klier, another cousin of the bride, and Miss Anna Graner. One wore a frock of pink taffeta with a large blue hat and the other wore blue taffeta with a pink hat. They both carried large bouquets of spring flowers. Little Lorraine Nicholson was the flower girl and wore a frock of yellow crepe and carried a baskat of mixed summer flowers.

The best man was Mr. Gordon Lester, of Auburn, N. Y., and the ushers were Mr. George Smith, Mr. Hern Pence, and Mr. Philip Pence, of Laurel, Md., and Mr. Edward Richardson of Warrenton, Va.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents after which Mr. Koehler and his bride started on a motor trip, the latter wearing a costume of brown crepe with accessories of white. They will be at home after July 15, at 3213 Connecticut avenue.

Culbertson Lunches With Vice President.

The United States Ambassador to Chile, Mr. Wiliam S. Culberson, who left Washington yesterday by air for St. Louis, had luncheon yesterday in Topeka with the Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, and Senator Arthur Capper. After a visit in his home at Emporia, Kans., the diplomat will fly to Brownsville, Tex., and then to Mexico City, Panama and Santiago.

The Minister of Bulgaria and Mme. Radeff motored to Bay Ridge, Md., early in the week to be guests at dinner of the financial counselor of the Roumanian Legation and Mme. Boncesco at the Baur House, where they are spending a fortnight. The other guests were the charge d'affairs of Egypt and Mme. Aly Ismail Bey, the counselor of the Bulgarian legation and Mme. Bisseroff, and Mr. and Mrs. Lord, of Baltimore, Md.

Miss Barbara Watson has left town on an extended trip to Alaska and the Pacific Coast. She will return by way of the Panama Canal and Cuba. Miss Watson was a member of this year's graduating class at Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, Va.

Official Folk Start on Ship For Europe

Swanson and Metcalf Are Among Them—Also Justice Wheat.

Bound for Europe is a delegation from officialdom in Washington. A general exodus has been staged in the Capital during the past week, with many leaving for mountain and seashore resorts in this country. Judging from the shipping news, however, the summer will see as many Americans traveling abroad as ever before.

Senator Jesse H. Metcalf and Mrs. Metcalf sailed yesterday on the France to pass some time in Europe. They have spent several weeks since their departure from Washington cruising on their yacht Felicia, which was anchored in the Potomac last summer, when the Rhode Island solon and his wife entertained on board. The Metcalfs made their home on the boat as soon as the weather grew warm, and almost every night cruised down the river to anchor for the night in cool breezes.

Sailing today on the Leviathan for Europe is Senator Claude A. Swanson, who will join Mrs. Swanson in Paris. Mrs. Swanson has been in the French capital for two months, acting as one of the assistant hostesses at the Colonial Exposition. Also sailing on the Leviathan are Chief Justice and Mrs. Alfred A. Wheat, the Secretary of the United States Embassy in London and Mrs. Eugene H. Dooman, who have been on a vacation in this country, and the United States Consul in Naples and Mrs. Charles B. Hosmer, who will go to Paris for a short visit en route to Italy.

Justice and Mrs. Wheat visit Europe every year. This season they will spend most of the time in Germany, with brief visits in England and France.

From Paris comes announcement of the engagement of Miss Allardyce Barclay, daughter of Mrs. Carlos G. Mayer, of 4 Rue de Chanaleilles, Paris, to M. Philippe Hottinger. Miss Barclay is a grandniece of the late Isaac Bell, jr., one time United States Minister to The Netherlands.

M. Hottinger is the second son of Baron Henri Hottinger and the late Baroness Hottinger. His father is head of the banking house of that name in Paris.

Plans for Departure Of Siamese Royalty.

Mr. Richard Southgate, of the division of protocol of the department of state, is in New York where he went on Thursday to attend to business of state regarding plans for the departure later on from this country of the King and Queen of Siam who are at Ophir Hall near Purchase, N. Y.

Miss Rebecca W. Smith of Fort Worth, Tex., one of the executive officers of the Kappa Delta Sorority, arrived in Washington yesterday and is making her headquarters at Wardman Park Hotel.

Will Visit in North

Underwood & Underwood.

MRS. JAMES E. FECHET, wife of Maj. Gen. Fechet, chief of Air Corps, will spend part of the summer with friends on Long Island.

Gordons Are Visiting Owen J. Roberts' Farm.

Justice and Mrs. Peyton Gordon are spending the week-end with Justice and Mrs. Owen J. Roberts at their country home Bryncoed Farm, near Kimberton, Pa.

Justice and Mrs. Roberts and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Roberts, closed their home in Georgetown early in June, and motored to their home in Pennsylvania. Both Justice Roberts and his daughter are ardent equestrians and spend much of their time while in the country riding.

Mrs. Roberts is the gardener of the family and devotes many hours to her fine gardens.

Becks Plan Summer in Maine Cove

Luncheon Given to Honor Mrs. C. E. Hart and Miss Hensey.

Mrs. William Hopkins Beck, wife of the Assistant to the Secretary of State, with Mr. Beck will leave Washington July 10 for Christmas Cove, Me., where they will spend three or four weeks. Mrs. Beck entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Shoreham in honor of Mrs. Charles Edward Hart, wife of Lieut. Hart, U. S. A., who came to Washington recently from Fort Sill, Okla. Sharing honors with Mrs. Hart was Miss Margaret Hensey, secretary to Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Governor of Porto Rico.

Lieut. and Mrs. Hart are here as guests of their aunt Mrs. Maude Howell Smith. Lieut Hart is awaiting orders from the War Department concerning his transfer to Honolulu. With his wife, he will sail either August 20 or September 3 from San Francisco for his new post. In the meantime he and Mrs. Hart will be guests of Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. Smith left yesterday for Charlottesville, Va., accompanied by Mrs. Grenville Hunt, to attend the Monroe memorial celebration at Ashlawn. She will return to Washington next week. Mrs. Rose Gouverneur Hoes, with her son, Mr. Lawrence Hoes, also left yesterday for Charlottesville to attend the celebration.

Miss Polly Wirgman, youngest daughter of Mrs. W. Wayne Wirgman, has gone to Camp Holton, Naples, Me., to spend the summer. Mrs. Wirgman and her subdeb daughter, Miss Atlee Wirgman, will drive to Maine in August and will remain there until the camp closes.

In abolishing the rotary left turn for automobile traffic the District Commissioners were doubtless influenced by the fact that the so-called center turn has become more or less uniform throughout the country. The national code on street and highway safety provides that left turns at intersections shall be made from the center of the street without waiting for a green light in the direction of the turn. Like all other plans for facilitating traffic through intersections this method has its advantages and its defects, but the fact that it has been so widely adopted is a commendation.

Washington has been loathe to give up its rotary left turn. Motorists have recognized its shortcomings. It is an enigma to strangers. Sometimes even residents are confused by the necessity of making a rotary turn at controlled intersections and a turn from the center of the street at other junctions. The swing around to the right lane of traffic and the extra wait for a green light have been annoying. Frequently when traffic is heavy the vehicles lined up to turn left block the way of through traffic and of motorists wishing to turn right. Nevertheless, the rotary turn has been found to be a safety factor, and traffic officials insist that it should have considerable credit for Washington's low accident record.

Whether the city can maintain its high degree of safety under the new regulation remains to be seen. An increase of accidents can be anticipated until the people are accustomed to the center turn, but when once it is firmly established it may prove to be no more hazardous than the present arrangement. The people will do well to withhold judgment of the new regulation until it has been given a thorough trial. Ultimately traffic safety is dependent upon the care exercised by drivers. Much depends upon whether or not the public takes advantage of the new regulation.

From the standpoint of facilitating traffic the new code will be welcomed. Waiting will be minimized. That provision allowing vehicles to pass to either the right or left when traffic is moving in "circumstantially continuous lines" will induce motorists to use all the street instead of crowding to the center. When traffic is as congested as it is in Washington some concessions must be made to facilitate it. All restrictions that make no contribution to safety could well be removed.

One feature of the left-turn regulation is confusing. Motorists wishing to turn left must yield to vehicles coming in the opposite direction, provided those vehicles are within the intersection or so close to it as to constitute an immediate hazard. But when these vehicles have passed the motorist turning left has the right of way, and other through traffic must yield to him. On a busy street this would mean that left-turning cars would constantly be cutting into the through traffic. Much confusion and many accidents can be anticipated from such an arrangement.

It may be found necessary on busy corners to let all left-turning traffic go through before the straight traffic begins to move, or to have left traffic wait until through traffic has passed on. This problem will be more apparent when the new system is actually in operation. The Commissioners will always be free to revise the code to meet Washington's specific needs.

STOP WATER POLLUTION.

With drought prevailing in some portions of the United States for the second consecutive year and with many fresh water streams running low, it is well to consider anew the dangers of continuous pollution of the streams from which cities are receiving their water supplies. Engineers and health officers have demonstrated that more disastrous diseases spring from polluted water and marshland than from any other source. It was the eradication of tropical disease by United States health service that made the building of the Panama Canal possible; that made the occupation of Cuba by United States forces tenable, and improved living conditions in Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands.

Polluted waters and marshlands are deadly enemies of human beings. Washington had its scourges of Asiatic cholera, bilious remittent fever and bilious dysentery in its very beginning, resulting from the marshlands in what is now Potomac Park. One epidemic of typhoid fever resulting from an impure water supply took health officers and engineers 25 years to eradicate.

Running streams of fresh water become low and too weak to purify themselves in times of drought and are, therefore, more susceptible to contamination. Human beings become weaker and more susceptible to disease through long, hot, dry spells. Hence, the dangers of sickness increase during these periods.

Congress did a great service to the country by enacting legislation to prevent dumping of refuse from ships in harbors and along shore lines where bathers are drawn during the hot summer months. The dumping of waste from factories into harbors is also prevented by law. But there still remains a great danger to human life through contamination of streams and other sources from which drinking water supplies for cities are derived.

THE ZIONIST CONGRESS.

True friends of the movement to establish a national home for the Jews in Palestine watch with apprehension the developments at the World Zionist Congress at Basle, Switzerland. Future leadership of the Zionist movement as well as the policies to be pursued are at issue. Dr. Chaim Weizmann, distinguished leader of the World Zionist Organization, has resigned because of a truculent attack upon his policies from a radical faction within the movement. Vladimir Jabotinsky, leader of the opposition, brought the fight into the open on the floor of the congress. If the organization should decide to accept his viewpoint the course of the Zionist movement would veer sharply to the left.

The disgruntled faction accuses Dr. Weizmann of compromising with the British government, which holds a mandate over Palestine. His policy has been one of cooperation, although he has taken vigorous exception to some of Premier MacDonald's policies in the Holy Land. The revisionists, on the other hand, demand a more vigorous policy. Mr. Jabotinsky insists upon "uncompromising leadership." Instead of parity with the Arabs of the Holy Land, he seeks the establishment of a Jewish state. Zionism, he declares, means nothing if it does not mean a Jewish state and a majority of that race in Palestine.

Immigration is the crux of the problem. The mandatory power has found it necessary to limit the migration of Jews to their "national home" because more people were crowding into the Holy Land than the country can support. The radical faction is demanding a Jewish state so that immigration might be unrestricted. Economic considerations and racial animosities are ignored in its zeal for a Jewish homeland.

Creation of a Jewish national home is not, of course, a simple problem. The Arabs of Palestine will not be dispossessed of their lands. The British government has recognized the conflicting ambitions of the two races and is trying to foster the national home project without jeopardizing the rights of the native population. If a drive is made for a Jewish state the Arabs will no doubt make counter demands. If the country is overpopulated racial clashes and civil strife can be expected. Under such circumstances the Jews would not have a national home, but a hot bed of riots and uprisings.

The more sober leaders of the Zionist movement are well aware of the necessity for caution and for steady development rather than cataclysmic changes. Their goal is the welfare of the Jewish race and not blind pursuit of an ideal that might bring the race to grief. It will be unfortunate, indeed, if this element is ousted from leadership of the Zionist movement.

ELECTRICITY IN HOMES.

An increase of 90 per cent in consumption of electricity is expected by 1940, according to Paul S. Clapp, managing director of the National Electric Light Association. The 1930 figures, showing 91,000,000,000 kilowatt-hours, Mr. Clapp says, in the current issue of the Magazine of Wall Street, will be virtually twice as large in another decade.

A glance at the history of electrical development makes this statement seem less startling. American population in the last ten years has increased only 16 per cent, while the number of new electric customers shows a gain of 98 per cent. A more important feature of the expansion, however, is that the consumption per domestic customer has increased 62 per cent. This shows the possibilities for development in the field of present electricity users as well as new prospects.

Of the 29,000,000 homes in the United States 20,000,000 are already electrified, while 5,000,000 are on farms and in isolated districts where electric power can not be supplied. This situation might appear to indicate that electricity is reaching the saturation point. The fact that a house is wired for electricity, however, does not mean that it is truly "electrified." The number of homes that employ light and power in thoroughly modern ways number less than 5,000,000.

The potential market for domestic electricity has been but partially developed. The American home today uses about 550 kilowatt-hours a year for lighting and other housekeeping processes. Judging by the amount of current used in homes with more complete electric installation, experts believe that eventually the average home will use from 1,000 to 5,000 kilowatt-hours annually. This potential market, in addition to current used for commercial and industrial purposes, provides electricity with an almost unlimited field.

STUDYING DISTRICT NEEDS.

Senator William H. King has left for Utah after spending several months in a study of District affairs. He has given attention to the schools, to the District government, to municipal building projects and other problems that may come before Congress at its next session. A number of bills have been prepared under his direction to give the District the benefits of his investigations.

Foremost among these bills is one to extend the authority of the District Commissioners. Senator King does not propose to enumerate the subjects which should come under control of the commissioners, but to empower them to make all regulations and ordinances that may be necessary for control of the municipality. The Commissioners would become the active directing force behind the District government, and Congress would be less called upon to serve as a city council.

Under the existing arrangement the District is frequently left without needed legislation because Congress is too busy to give its affairs attention. Many of the details that must now be decided by Congress might well be left to Washington's administrative officials. The commissioners are appointed by the President. There is slight chance that any additional authority lodged in them would be abused. And there is much hope that the administration of local affairs could be improved if their authority were extended.

This is only one of several District measures that Senator King will bring up for consideration of Congress. Certainly his suggestion is worthy of careful study. Other of his bills may not meet with general approval, but the public will nevertheless appreciate the time and energy he has given to District affairs. If all senators and representatives who are assigned to duty on the District committees would emulate this example Washington's interests could be more intelligently conserved.

ABUSE OF PSYCHOLOGY.

The care or discipline of a child by its parents has become in several recent cases national news. Criticism of the methods employed has given rise to the idea that because the mother or father had studied psychology and the children were not, by reason of such study, models of conduct, psychology was at fault. This attitude has done much to discredit the standing of child psychology among those unfamiliar with its accomplishments.

Like all arts and sciences, psychology can not be applied correctly or successfully by every one who studies it. Even more than sciences it requires a profound knowledge of human nature, patience and tact to be used properly. No amount of study could fit some persons to carry out its teachings. There are, however, physicians and teachers of psychology whose sympathy and understanding have straightened many warped lives. Great fears or perversities in little children have been traced to their origin and then smoothed out. These factors might otherwise have ruined the happiness and well-being of the child as he grew up.

In his autobiography Freud warns the layman never to venture into the field of psycoanalysis. Only a trained expert should exercise this advanced branch of psychology. While other lines of the science may not lead laymen into unfortunate blunders, there is much chance of misapplication. The results of applied psychology can not properly be judged by the cases in which amateurs have tried unsuccessfully to employ it.

IMPROVING THE MOVIES

From the Christian Science Monitor.

"Motion pictures can not be made good by the use of scissors." This phrase, occurring toward the end of a report by the department of research and education of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America dealing with public relations methods of the American film industry, points toward a constructive new attitude of social organization for film betterment.

For years State censorship boards have been snipping out this and that scene to bring the films into conformity with a list of State "don'ts." Seldom can two boards agree precisely on what should be omitted, apart from certain large indiscretions which the producers have agreed not to commit. The total result of this scissors censorship has been to make some producers exercise ingenuity to put over the locally forbidden material in fashion so subtle that the censors either do not notice the objectionability of the disguised incident or regard it as sufficiently covered up to be allowed to pass.

The Federal Council's committee recognizes that this deviousness is only deferring the day of a more generally commendable type of film play, a type that can only result from "a more refined demand at the box office." The report declares that the religious and social agencies have been at fault in becoming too much preoccupied with "cuts" and "eliminations." Such omissions do not perform the needed service of lifting the tone of the picture thus edited. What is needed is that these social forces shall put the weight of their educational and moral influence behind the better elements manifested in motion pictures, to the end that "the industry should be made to feel a demand for more socially useful pictures."

Here, indeed, is a constructive attitude toward the films, an urging of more than the negative snipping out of the bad in motion pictures. This changed method would mean a positive putting in of the good. Persons who understand the values of such social forces, having seen them at work in settlement houses and in civic enterprises designed for the benefit of the whole community, know that the most lasting improvements come from striving to make the whole body of community thought healthy. Cutting out an objectionable detail here and there has little effect upon the quality of the whole, for that makes no improvement of the point of view that first made the objectionable things possible. A wholesome attitude toward the entire problem, on the other hand, tends to work in relation to the whole good of the community. Undesirable tendencies assume their rightful minor relation with the whole when thus considered. From such a point of view the crime film becomes an anomaly, a misrepresentation of the life of the whole people, since the large majority of the people are law-abiding.

Such an effect would, in its practicality, displace the present piecemeal and unrelated attempts of social groups to improve motion pictures. Will H. Hays, speaking for the film makers, remarks pointedly that "motion picture producers can not live by advice alone." Clearly, the issue has been defined as a public responsibility, and the time is coming when social forces must recognize in an organized and positive fashion, as the council's report states, that "as a great agency both for instruction and entertainment the motion picture must become the purveyor of all that is best and richest in our culture, and the ally of the uplifting and refining forces of community life." To help it do that the public and the social agencies must do more than wield the scissors.

Must we beware of those bearing gifts of oratory, too? At least Premier MacDonald's tribute to American greatness came after the fact of President Hoover's generous proposal.

Restoration of the standard Hoover left turn is ordered for Washington traffic and the whole world is adopting the Hoover right-about on pessimism and depression.

Vice President Curtis says the Farm Board's wheat is a black cloud over the market and thinks none of it should be sold under 85 cents a bushel. Senator Watson wants to wait for dollar wheat, but Senator Borah regards the surplus as a sword of Damocles demanding suspension of sales until wheat reaches $1.25. Who'll bid $1.50?

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE—The great tragedy of life is that you are all worn out and ready to die by the time you learn how to live.

It isn't a necessary tragedy, however, for you can learn while you are young if you aren't too hard-headed or too simple.

I want you to have all the joy life can afford, and I know you can't do it unless you have good health. Therefore I beseech you to lend me an ear, and in exchange I'll promise you a long life and a merry one.

Do you know what causes most of the ills that make life miserable? The answer is eating.

Adult humans are the only creatures in the world that don't know how to eat. And their ignorance keeps the doctor busy while they live and gives the undertaker a job many years ahead of schedule.

You have heard people say: "I couldn't live on bread and milk. I need solid food." They seem to think that meat swallowed in chunks is used by the body without further treatment. And because a liquid looks thin, they think it can't be very nourishing.

But your body doesn't use solid foods. Any food you eat must become liquid before you can use it. And the particles in that liquid must be so fine that a blood cell much smaller than the point of a needle can pick them up.

And that, my dear, is what your teeth are for.

When you were a tiny tot, and hadn't yet learned to trick nature, you couldn't swallow anything until you munched on it long enough to mix it with saliva.

The saliva made it alkaline; and when you got it in that condition, little glands at the back of your tongue gave the O. K. signal and you swallowed automatically.

Later on you learned to gulp food unchewed, as all adults do, but the natural and right way is to chew everything until saliva has made it an alkaline paste.

Eaten that way, every food becomes a "liquid diet" and one is about as easy to digest as another.

A man named Fletcher learned that in middle life, after the doctors had told him to write his will, and he lived to make athletes ashamed of their little endurance.

If you'll learn to eat that way, you'll never know what digestive troubles are. If you don't—if you think you need "solid" foods and expect your stomach to do the work of your teeth, you'll join the great army of pill-buyers in a few years and begin talking about symptoms.

Love, DAD.

PRO AND CON

The Vice President's Pay.

Topeka Capital.

Vice President Curtis replies to E. Haldeman-Julius that what arrangement he may have for living at Washington is nobody's business but his own and that of his landlord. Vice Presidents, says the Vice President, have received their board and lodging free sometimes at Washington.

When Mr. Coolidge went to Washington as Vice President it was reported that $35,000 would cover all his belongings and property. He had been a member of the Massachusetts Legislature, lieutenant governor and governor of the State and was regarded as qualified for Vice President or President, as he afterwards proved to be. He never served out his vice presidential term, or would perhaps have been a poorer man than when elected. His immediate predecessor, Vice President Marshall, of Indiana, was said to have gone to Washington reasonably well off, to the extent perhaps of $200,000, but after serving out two terms he had little property remaining for his old age.

These things are of more consequence than what the Vice President pays for board and lodging at Washington. The Government lays heavy political and social obligations upon him in keeping with his office and position as the second citizen officially of the Nation.

Of more interest than the question how much a Vice President pays for residence in Washington, particularly when he accepts his social and political obligations fully, is the question when Congress will provide adequately for this office. It has been picayunish in dealing with Vice Presidents.

Fess For a Target.

Atlanta Constitution.

The statement of Senator Fess that he is to hold on to the chairmanship of the Republican national committee until he may be displaced at the national convention a year hence, is good news for the Democrats.

There is very little question over the country, in either Republican or Democratic circles, about Senator Fess being the most conspicuous misfit in his chairmanship job that either party has ever known. But he is a senator of the United States from the now politically important and dubious State of Ohio. To ask him bruskly to resign the chairmanship, or to give him a regular old-time saloon grand bounce, would be a perilous move for the administration.

Senator Fess is a famously fanatical "bone dry," the beneficiary of the solid backing of the Ohio Anti-saloon League, and he is their "white ribbon" hope to restore Ohio's dry prestige in 1932 that was so badly shattered in 1930 by the election of Buckley, a wet Democrat, to be his colleague in the Senate.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Dr. Henry Ward Bleacher Says a Mouthful in a Short Sermon to Men Who Have Forgotten They Are Boys.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: No doubt baseball may be enjoyed with a grave face and a silent tongue, but as the great mass of fans will testify, in order to get the full benefit of the game, dignity should be left behind as soon as you pocket your rain check.

Without bothering about how it may have been in the past, I have an idea that in these days our feelings are often hid from the world at large by too thick a veneer of dignity.

It is the chief glory of the national game that it furnishes a remedy for this. It gives the natural man a chance to break through and cut loose. As a wholesome vent for primitive emotion it is good for the commonweal.

In addition to our statesman group, there are no doubt many Washingtonians, doctors, lawyers, business men and ordinary Government officials who, without feeling that there is much reason to regret it, get glum and gruff under the restraint of dignity. To such I would say:

Are you sometimes tormented by the fear that you do not look as wise as you feel? Do the unpremeditated antics and wisecracking of healthy boys and girls give you a pain? If so, are you glad you are not a boy again? After a night's repose do you get out of bed refreshed by that admired feeling? Have you a suspicion that your official prominence is much more than worth the effort to look the part? If the answer to any of these questions is yes, the cure is simple. Go out to the ball yard, yell with the fans, roast the umpire, and get acquainted with the boy you used to be.

HENRY WARD BLEACHER.

Articles on Liberia Recall the Existence of Peonage in Many Other Lands.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The articles by Mr. Schuyler on Liberia indicate the need of widespread reforms. The exploitation of native tribes by rapacious Liberian officials is merely one of the exploitative methods which are almost world-wide in extent. In countries like Mexico and several other Latin-American republics peonage and semipeonage are still very much alive. The sale of vast haciendos, populated by peons, carry with the land large numbers of people who are practically in the same position of the villeins under feudalism.

The English exploitation of the native tribes in South Africa is infinitely worse than anything Mr. Schuyler has reported in Liberia. The English people claim to represent the highest existing civilization, yet South Africa stands for the most revolting cruelty against native races known to modern times.

When the Mississippi arose in its wrath a few years ago and overran thousands of miles of territory, it brought to the full view of the world from remote sections of the delta districts hordes of black laborers, hardly anything but peons.

Much of the trouble in Liberia is due to a lack of currency. Men who owe debts pay them in labor when they lack other means of settlement. An officer of the Liberian Constabulary, who served two years in the hinterland and is now a resident of Washington, told me that the vital need of the people is a currency adequate to the needs of trade.

Political reforms are undoubtedly needed, and will eventually come, even if the people who believe in good government have to resort to force. THOS. H. R. CLARKE.

Citizen Who Alleges He Was Abused by Police Is Urged to Seek an Investigation and Damages.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If the story P. A. Clark tells in his letter to The Post on June 30 is true, Mr. Clark has been the victim of outrageous abuse by police authority. It seems to me that Mr. Clark has excellent ground for demanding that the superintendent of police investigate his story with a view to disciplining the offending police officers. It also seems to me that Mr. Clark has good ground for bringing civil suits against the offending officers, asking heavy damages for his apparent unwarranted detention. As a citizen, it is his duty to proceed against the officers by every means at his command.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

JULY THE FOURTH.

My country, O my country, another year has gone
Since first Thy radiant banner the sunlight fell upon!
And down the distant ages brave men have died for you,
For brotherhood and freedom, and still there's work to do.

The dreams of men have followed the banner down the years;
With every generation the need for faith appears.
As higher rise thy children the wider grows the view;
The more we gain in vision, the more we find to do.

God grant us strength and courage to build the better way,
To see the new tomorrow beyond the present day,
To sacrifice the pleasures our little moment brings
That those who follow after may know the larger things.

My country, O my country, for us have brave men died,
That we might live in freedom they put their joys aside.
And may our generation as true and stalwart be
In building for tomorrow we can not live to see.

THE well-marked trail of air entertainment will be deviated from several times today for presentation of special features in connection with the celebration of another anniversary of American independence.

The first out-of-the-ordinary program will be an exchange of greetings between Japan and the United States early this morning (WRC, 7 a. m.).

Secretary of War Hurley will make an address during the annual Independence Day exercises (WMAL, 10:15 p. m.).

Because of the serious illness of his wife in Switzerland, Ignace Jan Paderewski, Polish composer and statesman, will be unable to participate today in an international broadcast honoring his late friend, Woodrow Wilson.

An attempt will be made, however, to rebroadcast addresses by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, United States Ambassador John N. Willys, Gen. John J. Pershing, Gutzon Borglum and Polish spokesmen at a festival in connection with the unveiling of a statue of the war President, erected by Paderewski in Old Posen (WRC, 11 a. m.).

The unveiling has been proclaimed "a national manifestation" celebrating the efforts of Wilson which aided in the restoration of Polish independence.

AN Independence Day program of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission from Independence Hall, Philadelphia, will occupy an hour over WRC at 11:30 a. m. Speakers will be Representative Sol Bloom, New York, and Mayor Harry Mackey, of Philadelphia.

Patriotic airs, broadcast from the French Colonial Exposition in Paris, will add an international touch. American listeners will hear the Garde Republicaine Band during the hour playing American and French airs (WRC, 3:30 p. m.).

A commemoratory program marking the 100th anniversary of the death of James Monroe, fifth President of the United States and author of the Monroe Doctrine, will be broadcast from the University of Virginia campus (WRC, 12:30 p. m.). The chief address will be made by William Richard Castle, jr., Undersecretary of State.

Floyd Gibbons will take upon himself the breaking down of well-established traditions built about the signing of the Declaration of Independence in his regular broadcast tonight (WRC, 8 p. m.).

Other speakers to be heard during the day will be Secretary of Agriculture Hyde (WRC, 12 noon); Hon. James Grafton Rogers, Assistant Secretary of State (WMAL, 7:30 p. m.); Secretary of Labor Doak (WMAL, 8:30 p. m.), and Gov. Albert Ritchie of Maryland (WMAL, 10:45 p. m.).

The reception which the National Press Club will tender Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, around-the-world fliers, in the Washington Auditorium on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, will be broadcast by both NBC and CBS. Robert P. Lamont, Secretary of Commerce, will represent President Hoover.

Tonight Hank Simmons' Show Boat will celebrate its third anniversary on the air. One of the oldest features of the Columbia Broadcasting System, Show Boat has retained most of its original cast throughout this period. Harry C. Browne, its creator, curiously enough, never has been aboard a real show boat.

Val and Ernie Stanton, comedy songsters; Georgie Lyons, the singing harpist, and Gladys Rice, soprano, comprise the guest stars assembled by Charles King for Club Valspar tonight (WRC, 8:30 o'clock). William Wirges and his orchestra complete the bill.

Hawaii is radio-minded. Since the inception of broadcasting in 1929, it has been importing sets at the rate of 4,000 per year.

Connections are made by the Honolulu Broadcasting Co., Ltd., by RCA short wave and by telephone through A. T. & T. facilities to the mainland with NBC and Columbia.

THE song of the nightingale in the leafy bowers of England's countryside was heard recently over the length and breadth of Australia, through 3AR, Melbourne, to the amazement of the residents of this 12,000-mile-distant member of the British Empire. American audiences have heard the song of the nightingale on several occasions.

The striking of Big Ben continues to be a novelty in Melbourne and Sydney.

Residents of New York Desert City for Holiday

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—All avenues led from New York today as it became the deserted city of a holiday week-end.

Exiting automobiles made black ribbons of bridges out of Manhattan, travelers crammed the railroad stations and the town yawned in expectancy of a quiet Fourth, here where a firecracker's pop is strictly banned. Railroads doubled and trebled their services to draw hundreds of thousands of pavement-weary citizens into the week-end resorts.

Ann Interprets the Mode

New York, July 3.

EVEN if I didn't know fur values—which I do, I assure you—I'd know that something very special was going on in the fox fur world from all the letters I am getting from my deah public! Wei-l-l-l, as fox pelts have never been so inexpensive, nor so beautiful, as they are right now, I think the best thing I can do is to sit right down and give you again the information so many of you have been asking for.

Fox furs, one finds after being the proud owner of one for more than a couple of years, can be their own special kind of problem. What to do with them in winter—how to keep them just clean in summer—what to do with them after they are unrecognizable as furs, are only some of the worries of fox fur owners. For all of which problems, Dah-ray has a solution!

First of all, any fox at all, whether new or old, has no business being thrown on any old closet shelf when not in use, so that its temperamental little soul can come into hard contact with other unsympathetic articles of feminine wearing apparel; neither should it be hung by its little mouth to an obscure nail. What then? It should be kept in a sachet-scented bag especially designed to keep it from the dust and the sun, and harsh contact with other articles, and give it at the same time freedom to shake itself a bit and fluff up!

This bag should, under no circumstances, be moth-balled or anything like that because it is for every-day spring use and not winter storage. For winter storage there are specially prepared paper bags, which are much more practical and less expensive, and which are treated to keep moths from being too inquisitive.

Secondly, fox fur should never be sent to a cleaner, but always to a furrier. As to white foxes, when not in use they should be kept in an air-tight box and simply saturated with white cornstarch, or French chalk, which is thoroughly shaken out before they are to be worn. This cornstarch has a pleasing way of taking dust and dirt with it.

And last and not least, when a fox is no longer what a well brought up little fox should be, it still has the possible refuge of becoming all that a well brought up little collar can be, if unkind Nature has precluded the possibility of buying another tail to make a new fox fur out of it!

* * * * *

And all prepared as we are to learn about foxes from Dah-ray, how would you like to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for an illustrated leaflet telling you exactly how to make a bag in which to keep your fox, so that he will live a much longer and more useful life?

* * * * *

Now that the hot weather's here, it is a good opportunity to use the gay little short-sleeved or sleeveless blouses we have gazed at longingly, and wondered about for so long! Cotton fabrics in white or colors are perfectly adorable with your suits and ensembles in warm weather, and a-h-h-h-h, really quite inexpensive! Yellow batiste is a reigning favorite for these chic blousettes, and flowered organdie that stands out in frilly collars and sleeve caps. And, my darlings, you who are clever with a needle, get right busy—for hand embroidery, hand run tucks and hand crocheted lace are positively the most perfect things on blouses of this kind—not to mention fagoting and featherstitching, and hand drawn work! And if you think blouses with this hand work are inexpensive, just price them! And take the spiritual ammonias along to hasten your recovery from shock!

And tomorrow again, you should look for Dare's weekly fashion letter in The Big Sunday Post.

Au revoir.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

"Pauline Moir" means "Little Big." "Luis Firpo" means "Famous-Battle Lover-of-Horses."

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

THE family name "Stribling" is of English origin. It was obviously first given as a nickname since it is merely a variation of "stripling."

The family name "Schmeling" may be traced back to two quite different sources. If it is derived from the Germanic "smithaz" it means "the son of the blacksmith." In many cases, however, it is a variation of the German adjective "schmal," and means "the little person" or "the insignificant person." Common variations of this name when it has its secondary meanings are "Schmaling" and "Schmaeling."

The family name "Sharkey" is of Celtic origin. Its source is the Irish "O Searcaigh," which means "the descendant of Search." The personal name "Search" means "loving," so "Sharkey" may be translated "the descendant of the loving man." There is evidence that in some cases "Sharkey" is derived directly from the adjective "search," and was first given as a nickname. In such cases its translation is "loving" and "amorous." This name appears to have originated in Tyrone, but it is now common in many parts of Ulster and Connacht.

The family name "Tunney" (also spelled "Tunny") is of Irish origin. In most cases it is the modern form of the original Irish "O Tonnaigh," which means "the descendant of Tonnach." The personal name "Tonnach" means "glittering." This name appears to have originated in Sligo. In a few cases "Tunney" is derived from "O Tuine," which is a corruption of "O Tuile." "O Tuile" is a shortened form of "Mac Mhaoltuile," which means "the son of the man devoted to the will of God."

Boil sugar and water two minutes. Cool and add rest of ingredients. Freeze in sterilized freezer.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

THE ladies and gentlemen of the press who have reviewed Mr. Ziegfeld's latest edition of his celebrated "Follies," it seems to me, are permitting themselves to be lashed into a superfluous frenzy and pretending unnecessarily to stand aghast at the fact that the good Dr. Zieggy has permitted the twenty-third production in its line—or is it the twenty-fourth?—to be all smudged up, in certain spots, by the sooty jests of the smoking rooms. As I look back over the complete line of "Follies," it seems to appear that only during the last half of their history have the Ziegfeldian gaucheries become so chaste, and that they have never been so objectionable as they have been clever and gorgeous.

There never was before and probably never will be again a revue so utterly refreshing, even to the most sophisticated and blase audiences of its period, as the original "Follies of 1907." Not only did this epochal production venture upon untrod fields in the daring of its cutaneous display, but it emphasized the fascinating artistry of its nudity through the medium of numerous "plants" scattered through the audience, whose expertly timed ejaculations added to both the novelty and the hilarity of the performance.

And what of that later "Follies" in which Ina Claire—if memory serves correctly—sang that blistering parody, "Marie Odile," fashioned by Rennold Wolf and Channing Pollock to poke a deal of breezy fun at Miss Frances Starr's immaculate performance in the title role of the Belasco production of the Knoblock play of that name?

So in this year of our Lord 1931 I should say that Mr. Ziegfeld has not so much launched his "Follies" on a new and virgin path as that he has merely permitted it to revert to those sprightly qualities that have always made the "Follies" foremost in distinction among American revues.

And since we have gone back to that first "Follies of 1907," what a coast young Mr. Florenz Ziegfeld assembled for the first of that royal line of revels! George Bickel, Harry Watson, Johnny Powers, Grace La Rue, Nora Bayes, Valeska Suratt, Mlle. Dazie and scores more—in their day the Helen Morgans, the Ruth Ettings, the Harry Richmans and the Jack Pearls of the musical comedy stage.

Having just this minute returned from the theater, I am prepared to say that the new issue of the Fox Movietone News, currently on the screen, is one of the most interesting in many, many months.

Among various other shots, you will see King George and Queen Mary at the Ascot races; Johnny Weissmuller in some fancy diving; "Corny" Vanderbilt explaining in a perfectly sweet way why Reno, Nev., is a swell place to live and shoot mythical bullets out of a hypothetical revolver at an evanescing target; Al Smith pointing out New York to King Projadhipok of Siam from the top of the Empire State Building; the wonders of West Yellowstone Park; the first parachute jump from an autogyro plane—ending in the broad Atlantic Ocean, by the way; Mrs. Gatty and her three charming youngsters following their daddy on his world flight by means of a convenient globe, and, finally, the tumultuous welcomes that greeted Wiley Post and Harold Gatty upon their arrival in Cleveland, Ohio, and a little later in New York City.

Not a dull minute in the entire reel, and if you are still interested, the wheels of the horse-drawn barouche in which King George and Queen Mary drive to the royal box still turn backward!

And while I think of it, Walter Hiers, at one time one of Paramount's star light comedians—although, paradoxically, he must weigh close to a ton—has one fleeting bit with George O'Brien and Sally Eilers in "A Holy Terror," the first time he has been seen in years. Not that it matters.

Anything for a Broadway novelty. There is now in course of production, under the direction of Jeanne Stevens, a Wild West revue called "Bad Land Nights." As if a stageful of Indians and cowboys would not be unusual enough in a New York summer fol-de-rol, the performance will not begin until 10 p. m., and even then will last only an hour and a half, at the end of which time the audience will join the players in general dancing.

Now there's a swell idea! Can you think of anything you'd rather do on a hot August night than dance with some nice squaw all done up in chicken feathers and a heavy blanket and whispering sweet "ughs" in your ear?

Instead of William Haines in "Just a Gigolo," Marion Davies in "Five and Ten" is to follow Norma Shearer in "A Free Soul," at the Columbia.

It is reliably reported that Howard Dietz and Arthur Schwartz, authors of "The Band Wagon," a current Broadway hit, are already at work on another musical show that will be radically new in form. It will not, however, be ready for some months to come. Maybe not dietz year!

And who remembers when the big noise Fourth of July night used to be down the Avenue toward the Peace Monument and Chinatown put on a show that sounded like the Battle of the Marne?

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me if calceolaria is a perennial and how should it be cared for when it is through flowering? MISS E. O.

The calceolaria is an annual and when through flowering should be discarded. After the flowers are gone the plant invariably becomes the prey of red spiders, which, if encouraged will attack your other plants.

Can cyclamen be cared for so that they will bloom another season?

BERTHA B.

Yes. Better write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a circular we have prepared for readers on this subject.

Please give me a list of five or six perennials which will not grow very tall. I want to plant some which will not grow over three feet. I want only varieties which I can set out in September or later.

MARY Q. D.

Aquilegia (columbine), height two and one-half feet; aster, one-third foot; gaillardia, three-fourths to one foot; sweet williams, two feet, and verbena, one foot. Any of the above may be planted in the fall.

I am ambitious to start a blue garden, not all at once, but gradually. So far, as a beginning, I have larkspur, lupine, several varieties of forget-me-nots and annual lobelia. Can you suggest four more easily managed varieties? I am an amateur who, last year, had most wonderful luck, so am willing to go farther.

MRS. SALLIE T. P.

Baptisia (false indigo), gentians, mertensia, polemonium and platycodon will add materially to the beauty of a blue garden. These varieties are easy of culture.

Please tell me if peonies show a tendency to bud blast; whether liquid manure or even well rotted manure will have a tendency to increase the trouble. Last year was my first experience with the disease and my gardener says had he used only bonemeal he believes we would have had all the blossoms open normally. Is he right?

MRS. HALLOWELL, H. P.

Peonies are, unfortunately, subject to a pernicious bud rot. Many plants which do not seem able to mature their buds are affected by this malady. It may be prevented by keeping manure away from the crowns of the plants and by spraying weekly from the first sign of spring until sometime in May. Bordeaux mixture is the best spray to use.

I have been given some cerastium, which I have planted in the sunniest place I had empty. Will it grow in so much sun? PEGGY S. F.

It should, as it is not particular, growing in any soil provided the roots are kept damp.

My rock garden is finished. I want some flowers while I am waiting for perennials to take hold. Can you tell me of some annuals which will make a showing this year?

AN AMATEUR.

The following will bloom from seed sown the first year: Ageratum, alyssum, calandrinia, candytuft, dianthus, godetia, lobelia and verbena. As, however, it is late to attempt to sow seed, I would buy a few started plants and set them out at once. In this weather they will immediately take hold, if you keep them well watered.

What Today Means to You

"CANCER."

IF July 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:10 a. m to 10:45 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 8:15 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger hours are from 11:10 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 5:30 p. m. to 7:45 p. m.

Many complications are foretold for July 4 and the planetary aspects denote unexpected domestic troubles. Women are under better influences than men and are promised a happy realization of some of their hopes and desires. In the evening the conditions will improve and favor all social or recreational activities.

Children born on this July 4 will develop into stubborn characters. They, once an opinion has been formed by them, will never change. Hence, no very great success on their part can be anticipated. Their natures will be affectionate, but not at all demonstrative.

Born on July 4, you are very versatile and quick-witted. Your intellect is a nimble one, and you can change your views or your plans to fit in with any opportunity or demand. You are not very sincere, although you impress new acquaintances with an exalted sense of loyalty. The impression thus created does not, however, "stay put."

Your horoscope indicates that many good chances will come your way. Some of them you will take, but you will not be sufficiently persistent to make good on many. Your moods are as changeable as the Atlantic Ocean. At times you are charming, entertaining and interesting, but at other times you are indifferent, dull and boring.

You only seek the companionship of those who are in as good or better circumstances as your own. You seek, rather than give, help. Your life is guided very much by convention and usage. You rarely care to be your natural self, and lack all spontaneity. It can not be said that you are a shirker; as you work well and intelligently, but not consistently.

Your affections are strong, but not lasting. You are more a victim of violent infatuations than the beneficiary of a deep love. You should not marry until you know you can "settle down" and keep "settled down" permanently.

Successful people born July 4:
Nathaniel Hawthorne, author.
Calvin Coolidge, former President U. S. A.
Sophie Irene Loeb, social worker.
George M. Cohan, actor and manager.
Mrs. Lucy Scribner, philanthropist.
Felix Angus, soldier and journalist.

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson

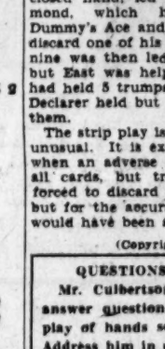
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

STRIPPING THE HAND OF SUIT CARDS.

WHEN playing a hand at Contract, if the Declarer finds that he is approaching the rocks of unfavorable distribution, which have been the scene of many a Contract wreck, it behooves the navigator to study his chart closely. There may still be a way of escape from impending disaster. I have heretofore pointed out the dangers inherent in some distributions, even with all the safeguards that may be provided in the bidding. Expertness in play permits the partnership to bid the hand up to the full limit of its trick-taking power. On the other hand, it is unwise for the inexpert to contract for tricks, which he will find impossible to make, not because they are not in the hand but because he will not know how to get them.

A leader among American Contract players both in developing the theory of play and in its application at the table, is Mr. Harold S. Vanderbilt, the skipper of the yacht Enterprise which recently successfully defended the possession of the America's Cup, the prize trophy of lovers of this sport. His contributions to the game of Contract have been as great, or greater, than to yachting. He developed the present system of scoring and was a leading factor in standardizing and popularizing the game. He is the donor of the Vanderbilt Cup, emblematic of Contract team-of-four supremacy. His skill at the Contract table is well known. The hand herewith furnishes a beautiful example of the manner in which he met an exceptional situation and triumphantly solved it.

West—Dealer
N-S vulnerable



Mr. Vanderbilt

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1♠ (1)
3♦	3♠ (2)	Pass	4♠ (3)
Pass	Pass	Dbl. (4)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—South's Fourth Hand Opening bid does not comply with the standards laid down in the books, but Mr. Vanderbilt loves to take a chance. In any event, he was not using the Culbertson System of bidding, but his own "club convention" and the fact that he bid one spade rather than one club disclosed to his partner that he did not hold three quick tricks.

2—North has a questionable Raise, but the possession of three trumps including two honors and an entire lack of defense in the diamond suit adversely bid, decides him in favor of supporting his partner. In addition, the length in clubs may prove of value.

3—Having opened the bidding, Mr. Vanderbilt felt that he might as well play the hand at a game contract. His partner's Assist makes him hope for honors in one of the side suits that will prove of value to him.

4—East's Double is fully justified. He holds five trumps, the Ace of hearts and a half chance of making a trick in clubs. If his partner had played only a little more accurately, the contract would have been defeated one trick.

The Play.

West cashed 2 diamond tricks, but instead of continuing the diamonds and giving East an overruff he decided to lead the heart Knave through Dummy's King. East refused to win and South returned the hearts, finessing the 8, which East won and returned his last heart, which was won in Dummy. Now Mr. Vanderbilt led the spade ten, which East refused to cover and South also permitted to hold. Next the club Knave was led from the Dummy and East refused to put up his King. This was followed by the play of two more rounds of clubs. Now Mr. Vanderbilt, from the closed hand, led his remaining diamond, which he trumped with Dummy's Ace and East was forced to discard one of his trumps. The spade nine was then led from the Dummy, but East was helpless. Although he had held 5 trumps originally and the Declarer held but 4, he made none of them.

The strip play is both beautiful and unusual. It is exceptionally unusual when an adverse hand is stripped of all cards, but trumps and then is forced to discard one of these, which, but for the accuracy of the Declarer, would have been a winner.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

DOWNTRODDEN WIDOW!

DEAR Frances McDonald: Will you please try to help me as you have helped others? I am a widow, 30 years of age and considered very good looking. A good dancer and also a good dresser. If I meet a man at a party or a dance I have a lovely time and a date is made, always a roadhouse. I would rather go to a dance or a movie. Isn't there a social club some place where a real lonely person can go for an evening of honest, decent fun. I do not look down on any girl that wants to go to roadhouses if they like that kind of fun. Why isn't there one man who doesn't think that first thing to suggest is a roadhouse, then a lot of petting when near home. I am not a prude, but why is it men think because a woman has been married she has nothing to lose (as they say). I like to pet, yes, but not with every Tom, Dick or Harry. The result is there is never a second date! This is rather plain, but the truth. Can you solve this "Why?"

A DISCOURAGED WIDOW.

P. S.—I am not looking for another husband, just a true blue pal.

Widows, like other women, are worshiped when they know that they have only to expect it. But if any woman, widow, maid, wife or what have you takes an attitude that man is out to make her life a burden, man, as ever, helps her! Why are some women being forever followed from trolley cars and trains by strange men? Why are some women slaves while others rule? Ask the men. They will tell you that a woman gets just what she is expecting to get—and never one bit more.

For instance, you say you love to dance and have a good time—but when the man suggests a roadhouse, you go to a roadhouse. Will you tell me in the name of sense—why the choice is yours. Why do you accept a choice that is not yours? It probably is not the man's choice either. And it happens to give him the wrong impression of you.

If you will once and for all stop thinking that all men are out to make widows wish they were dead, and will state brightly and happily that you love music and want to go to some place—naming some definite place—you will find that the man will be only too happy to take you. And the same goes for petting. The man begins to think of petting when the woman begins to wonder whether he is or whether he isn't.

Accept this fact. Men like to please us. If we give them half a chance they will outdo themselves in their efforts. But can you blame them for giving up when we pretend to like the things we do not like—and then blame it all on them!

Express yourself, and men worth the name will meet your expectations.

Islip, N. Y., July 3 (A.P.).—Representative George S. Graham, chairman of the House judiciary committee, was in a coma at his summer home here tonight, following a stroke of paralysis. His physicians said there was little hope he would live for more than several days. He is 81 years old.

Blackmer Attacks Law on Contempt

(Associated Press.)

Harry M. Blackmer filed two petitions in the Supreme Court yesterday attacking the validity of the law under which he had been held in contempt of court for refusing to testify in the Fall and Sinclair cases.

Blackmer, who now resides in Paris, was fined $30,000 for refusal to appear as a witness in the criminal proceedings against Harry F. Sinclair, oil operator, and Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, which grew out of the Teapot Dome oil cases.

Asserting that the act under which he had been served by the United States Consul in Paris with a summons to appear as a witness was designed to reach him specially and was passed in a period of national excitement, he declared it in the public interest that the highest court should pass on its validity.

Reading, Pa., July 3—(AP)—Herbert W. Fischer, of Omaha, Nebr., was today elected president of the Luther League of America.

John G. Kurzenknabe, Harrisburg, Pa., and Alvin H. Schaediger, North Bergen, N. J., were named vice presidents. Miss Iva Peeler, Salisbury, N. C., was retained as recording secretary, and Charles W. Fuhr, Pittsburgh, as treasurer.

Mrs. Samuel T. Peterson, Chicago; Miss Winnie Butt, Charleston, S. C.; Austin Howard, Frederick, Md.; Ray Anderson, Glendale, Calif.; and Harold Sundberg, Battle Creek, Mich., were elected members of the executive committee.

Detroit and Springfield, Ohio, are seeking the 1933 convention.

Union Service to Hear Massachusetts Cleric

The second in the series of twelve union summer Sunday services which began last week, will be held in the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church tomorrow morning. Participating in these union services are the Mount Pleasant, the National Memorial Universalist and the All Souls' Unitarian Churches.

At the service tomorrow the preacher will be the Rev. Klein K. Haddaway, minister of the Broadway Winter Hill Congregational Church in Somerville, Mass. Dr. Haddaway is a native of Baltimore, a graduate of Johns Hopkins University, and of Union Seminary, New York. He was a delegate to the International Congregational Council in England last year, and is minister of the leading Congregational church in the suburbs of Boston.

Takoma Park Baptist Services.

Sunday evening services at Takoma Park Baptist Church have been discontinued until autumn. During July, the pastor, the Rev. William E. LaRue, will preach a series of sermons "emphasizing the peace-giving, comforting teachings of the Scriptures."

MORMONS TO HEAR CHURCH PRESIDENT

Heber J. Grant Will Speak at Conference Tomorrow in Auditorium.

President Heber J. Grant of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will be the principal speaker at the annual conference of the Washington branch of that organization, to be held in the Washington Auditorium tomorrow at 11:45 a. m. Rudger Clawson, president of the Council of the Twelve, has also journeyed from Salt Lake City to take part in the services. Several hundred members of this church who are living in Washington, in addition to visitors, will be in attendance.

President Grant was in Washington last week also in connection with the chapel which the "Mormon" Church is building at Sixteenth street and Columbia road. The foundation for this new structure, which will cost approximately $400,000, is being laid, and it is expected to be ready for use within ten months. Authorities of the church recently decided to use Utah marble in the construction, which will make this new "Mormon" religious center one of the most attractive churches in that neighborhood.

It is understood that one purpose of the present visit of these church leaders is to start a campaign to finance the new building.

Metropolitan Baptist Preachers Announced

Dr. John Compton Ball, pastor of the Metropolitan Baptist Church, leaves for his summer vacation after the services tomorrow. During his absence the following ministers will officiate in his church:

July 12, the Rev. Weldon M. Wilson, of Terre Haute, Ind.; July 26, the Rev. Rolvix Harlan, Richmond, Va.; August 2-9, the Rev. Henry Tiffany, Norfolk Va.; August 16, the Rev. Hinson Howlett, West Chester, Pa.; August 23, the Rev. J. E Balderson, of Petersburg, Va.; August 30, the Rev. A. V. Joyner, North Carolina; September 6, the Rev. R. E. White.

Methodist Protestant Ministers Assigned

In the assignment of the Methodist Protestant preachers, several new pastors were sent to churches in Washington. The Rev. F. W. Siffrin comes to Mt. Tabor, the Rev. C. L. Dawson to First Church and the Rev. H. G. Hager to Fort Myer.

Among the old pastors, the Rev. H. A. Kester was returned to Congress street, the Rev. H. L. Schlincke to North Carolina avenue, and the Rev. R. Y. Nicholson to Rhode Island avenue.

Dr. Dudley to Preach At Calvary Methodist

Dr. Mark Depp, pastor of Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, will be absent from the city tomorrow, and his pulpit will be filled in the morning by Dr. H. M. Dudley, of the American University, and in the evening by the Rev. J. Turnbull Spicknall, pastor of Chevy Chase Methodist Church.

Dr. Depp will return to the city and be in his pulpit next Sunday.

Dr. Daugherty to Preach At United Service

Dr. S. B. Daugherty, pastor of the First United Brethren Church, will preach at the union service at Lincoln Road Methodist Episcopal Church tomorrow evening.

Southeast Will Hear Rev. Freeley Rohrer

The Sunday evening union service in the southeast will be held in the First Methodist Protesant Church on Fourth street between E and G streets. The Rev. C. L. Dawson is the new pastor of the church.

The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Freeley Rohrer, pastor of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church.

Workers in Petworth Plan Summer Course

Five of the Church School workers of Petworth Methodist Episcopal Church will leave Monday morning for Carlisle, Pa., to take a ten days course at Dickinson College Summer School of Religious Education.

They are: Miss Elma Lank, Lowell Hetzell, Mrs. Nellie Miner, Miss Estelle Moore, and Miss Nellie Riddle.

Evening Bells Program Announced by Church

In the place of a regular worship hour, the National City Christian Church will hold an "Evening Bells" program at 7:40 o'clock, when the tower chimes will play.

This will be followed at 8 o'clock by a short organ recital and a period of meditation, to which visitors are cordially invited.

Fort Myer Chaplain Is Preaching on Jesus

Chaplain Ralph C. Deibert, of Fort Myer, who is supplying the pulpit of the Albright Memorial Evangelical Church, Fourth and Rittenhouse streets northwest, during the absence of the pastor, Dr. George E. Schnabel, is giving a series of talks on Jesus.

Chevy Chase Churches To Have Lawn Service

Chevy Chase Protestant churches will hold their usual union service tomorrow evening on the lawn of the Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Edward O. Clark, pastor of the Baptist Church, will preach. The service begins at 7 o'clock.

Adams Named on Waterways Body.

(Associated Press.)

The appointment of John T. Adams, of Dubuque, Iowa, to the advisory board of the Inland Waterways Corporation was announced yesterday by Secretary Hurley, of the War Department. The appointment, effective July 24, is to fill a vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of S. S. Thorpe, of Minneapolis.

Sentence Sermons

By the REV. JOSEPH R. SIZOO, D. D.
(Minister of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church).

1. Confessions of Sin

We hear a good deal these days about confessions of faith. We hear but little these days about confessions of sin. We shout ourselves hoarse from the housetops proclaiming our convictions, but we are not disposed to become blatant about our shortcomings. The world is very vocal about its assets. It is silent about its liabilities.

There is one impressive thing which comes to me again and again in reading the Bible. As you study it rather carefully with this question before you you find that there are but few confessions of sin recorded—there are only seven instances of personal admission of wrongdoing. Only seven times in the whole book will you come upon men who have said, "I have sinned." What is so striking about them is that they all fail but one. Nothing came of these confessions of sin except in one incident. May I suggest one of these confessions of sin and ask what came of it, what it reveals and what it teaches the modern world?

The story of the Pharaoh of Egypt, who forgot Joseph, makes dark reading. It is the tale of cruel bondage and insufferable serfdom. Humanity has not often lived through days of galling slavery like that. In these periods of relentless suffering and pain, time and again there came the petition, "Let my people go." But each time the heart of the Pharaoh was hardened against the entreaty. Then follow stories of the plagues in three series of three each. The seventh plague came when darkness was upon the land and angry green clouds surged through the heavens. Rain and hail pelted down every living thing. Lightning zigzagged through the heavens bringing death and desolation. It was a terrifying experience and Pharaoh, unnerved by it all, broke under the strain and asked forgiveness. But as it often happens, it was only a pronouncement of the lips. So follows the eighth plague when the skies grew dark again, not by reason of clouds, but by the onrushing of the locusts. What the hail did not destroy, the locusts bit down and devoured. Then came Pharaoh to Moses, saying, "I have sinned this time, I and my people are wicked." It is the first confession of sin recorded in the Old Testament. What does it reveal? What lies behind it? There are some very interesting elements in this confession of sin, three in all.

1. The confession repudiated personal responsibility. There he sits with a mask of grief and regret. You can almost hear him say, "I and my people are wicked." Can't you actually observe the emphasis he put upon the words, "My people." If the kind of pepole over whom he ruled had not been as they were, this thing would never have happened. He could not help himself. It is the pushing of blame out of his own life. After all, the fault was not his. How that repudiation of personal responsibility runs through the whole Bible. Adam calls out to God: "The woman Thou has given me." Cain suggests, "Am I my brother's keeper?" Elijah lifts the plaintiff call, "I, even I only, am left," with the inevitable inference that the people were to blame. Moses said it was a stiff-necked people which caused him to err.

It is still so today. Behaviorism has very cleverly given men to believe that the fault of transgression is not theirs. We are the victims of circumstance: mere helpless pawns in the hands of chance. Man has done no wrong. Man has been wronged. Man does not owe God confession but God owes man an apology. "I and my people are wicked."

2. This confession of sin repudiated the sense of sin. Notice his own language: "I have sinned this time." He conceived sin to be an act, not an attitude. He thought of it in terms of deeds, not devotions. He regarded wrong as an incident in life and not a temper of life. He failed to realize that deeds are the fruits of the tree of wrong living. A black deed runs back to a black heart. What I do fades before what I am. It is not a question of, do I wrong, but, am I wrong?

3. This confession repudiated the sense of God. Nothing is said about the Almighty. There is no inference that he had wronged God. He is greatly grieved because he had been caught. He is not greatly disturbed because he is guilty. He forgot that sin involved a holy God. That idea comes from religion. The reformer is always talking about vice, transgressing the laws of society; the jurist is constantly emphasizing crime, a disregard of the law of society; but religion emphasizes the concept of sin which involves not only society, but God.

What is so strange about this confession of sin is that nothing comes of it. It utterly fails.

Cowardice Topic in Petworth Church

Rev. Mr. Wood Will Answer Question as to Who Was the First.

Who was "the first coward?" The Rev. Robert Louis Wood, pastor of Petworth Methodist Episcopal Church, will answer this question in his sermon tomorrow evening. It is the first of a series of character studies on well-known Old Testament characters.

This service is held in the lecture room of the church. It lasts one hour. It begins at 7:30 o'clock and opens with a song service of patriotic songs and hymns under the direction of the Epworth League, with Elma Lank and Raymond Robinson in charge. Everett and Murrell Lank will render a trumpet duet. After a brief address by Raymond Robinson, the minister will speak.

Church Receives 504 New Members

Luther Place Is Believed to Have Set Record in Capital.

Before leaving for his vacation, the Rev. Carl C. Rasmussen, pastor of the Luther Place Memorial Church at Thomas Circle, announced to his congregation that the parish records show that 504 persons were received into the membership at Luther Place from April 1, 1930, to July 1, 1931. This is about as many as were received during the previous 20 years of Luther Place history. It is believed by the members of the church council who have studied the statistical church history of the churches of the National Capital, to be the largest number of new members ever recruited in a similar period in Washington church history.

The work is still going forward during the absence of Dr. Rasmussen at Columbia University, and on his vacation. It will be under the direction of the Rev. Frank A. Clutz, the assistant pastor. He has already received the names of a number of people who plan to become members on the last Sunday in July.

Vacation Bible School Opens Its Sessions

The Vacation Bible School of the Central Presbyterian Church is now in progress, having opened last Wednesday. An excellent attendance was reported on the first day of the school. In the school Bible, hymns of the church, missions, handwork, basketry, sewing, carpentry, paper work and drawing are taught. One feature of the school is the Bible memory work, which is conducted both in the opening exercises for the entire school and for the various Bible classes.

The playground in connection with the school is open, and slides, seesaws and a very large sandbox are provided for recreation. The Vacation Bible School is meeting in the new Sunday school building.

Dr. McDowell to Preach At Covenant Tomorrow

Bishop W. F. McDowell will preach tomorrow morning at the Church of the Covenant for the minister, Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, who will preach at the same hour at Eastern Point, Conn.

In his youth in Denver Dr. McCartney attended Denver University, a Methodist institution, of which Bishop McDowell was president, and when he was installed in his present pastorate at the Covenant-First Church Bishop McDowell was one of the officiants.

Fifth Baptist Class Plans Anniversary

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the organization of the Bible school of the Fifth Baptist Church will be celebrated on July 12 with an imposing program. C. C. James will give a brief history of the school and J. H. Ingram will discuss its aims for the future.

SCHOOL FOR CLERICS WINDS UP SESSIONS

Laymen's Conference Opens at Frederick; Will End Today.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 3.—The course for clergymen at the sixth annual Blue Mountain conference of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Hood College, in session five days, adjourned today. Fifty-oine ministers were enrolled. Instruction was given by the Rev. F. R. Barry, St. Mary's, Oxford, England, and the Rev F. W. Pitts, rector of St. John's Church, Roxbury, Mass. A number of clergymen will leave to fill their pulpits tomorrow, but many will return for the final sessions next week.

A laymen's conference began today under direction of the Rev. Chauncey E. Snowden, rector of the Memorial Church of St. Paul, Philadelphia, and will continue two days.

The song service on the steps of Coblentz Hall this evening was in charge of the Rev. Walter C. Klein, assistant rector of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, New York City. It was followed by a chapel meeting, at which the Rev. Robert S. Chalmers, Baltimore, outlined subjects to be discussed at the general convention of the church in Denver this fall. Tomorrow evening's song service also will be led by the Rev. Klein. The Rev. Philip J. Jensen will make an address at the evening meeting on war and peace.

The enrollment today reached 235, about 71 more than last year.

Tomorrow afternoon will be devoted mainly to rest and recreation. A number of delegates are expected for the laymen's conference. One of the features is the children's conference under direction of Miss Elizabeth P. Frazier, director of religious education, St. Asaph's Church, Bala, Pa.

The children are housed in the infirmary and are graded in groups. Miss Charlotte Chester is in charge of the primary group and Miss Hilda Shaul is the junior group leader. Recreational activities are held on the campus morning and afternoon under direction of Miss Helen McHenry and Miss Helen C. Washburn, Philadelphia.

BAPTISTS COMING TO CROWD CAPITAL

Young People's Union Will Hold 40th Convention Next Week.

Washington will be filled up and running over with Baptists next week, when the Baptist Young People's Union holds its fortieth annual national convention here, beginning Wednesday and lasting through the following Sunday. All the meetings will be held in the Washington Auditorium.

Just how many young people are coming no one seems to know, but there will be thousands of them, for they are a numerous clan in the religious world of America. They represent every part of the land, every Baptist congregation, and are the very cream of the youth of this denomination.

For months and months the unions of the District of Columbia have been making preparations for this gathering, and they have their plans about complete, so that when the first train-load comes in, which will be on Tuesday, they will be ready for their guests.

Elite to Be Here.

Nothing has been overlooked in arranging the program. The elite of the Baptist Church, North and South, is on the program for addresses and sermons and for round tables and for music and for varied entertainment.

Among the notables who will speak is Dr. George W. Truett, of Dallas, Tex., pastor of one of the great churches in the Lone Star State. A native of Clay County, N. C., a typical mountain man who has developed through education and other cultural contacts, he is one of the outstanding preachers in the South. Every year, without fail, he returns to his native hills and holds a revival under the brush arbor at Franklin, which is as much of an institution in western Carolina as the Indian ball games at the Cherokee Reservation close by.

Dr. Truett will give the coronation address on Sunday evening of the convention. His subject will be: "I Will Follow."

Among the women speakers on the program there is one whose address is anticipated with a good deal of interest—Mrs. George Caleb Moor, of New York. She is the wife of a busy city pastor, and the teacher of a large class of young ladies.

Nation Is Covered

As president of the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society, she has an enviable reputation as a denominational leader. Through more than three hundred and fifty consecrated workers, the society is ministering to the spiritual needs of people in all parts of the United States, in Alaska, Mexico, Central America and Porto Rico.

Mrs. Moor will speak on the "Perils and Privileges of the Pathfinders." This address will be given at the Thursday morning session of the convention.

The three morning Half-Hour Devotional periods, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, of the convention are to be under the direction of the Rev. Theodore F. Adams of the Ashland Baptist Church, Toledo, Ohio. Dr. Adams was until recently president of the Ohio State B. Y. P. U., for two years, and for a much longer time a member of the board of managers of the Baptist Young Peoples' Union of America. He will speak on "Living Your Best," "Using Your Resources" and "Making Your Life Count."

Lexington Bishop Evensong Preacher

Dr. Abbott at Peace Cross During July; Speakers for August.

Announcement was made yesterday at Washington Cathedral that beginning tomorrow the special preacher at the people's evensong service at 4 p. m. at the foot of the Peace Cross on Sundays in July, will be the Right Rev. H. P. Almon Abbott, Bishop of Lexington. His sermon tomorrow and the hymns sung will be appropriate to Independence Day.

As the former rector of Grace and St. Peter's Church, Baltimore, Bishop Abbott frequently visited Washington churches and has many friends in this city. He served as dean of Trinity Cathedral in Cleveland, Ohio, earlier in his ministry. A cordial invitation is extended to visitors to the city as well as residents to attend these open-air services on Sunday afternoons.

Among the other special preachers at the Peace Cross will be Capt. Frank Mountford, organizer of the Church Army in the United States, for the first three Sundays in August, and the Right Rev. John Newton McCormick, Bishop of western Michigan, for August 23 and 30. Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, former Secretary of Labor, will deliver the address on labor Sunday, September 6.

Will Conduct Healing Service.

The next healing service to be held at St. Stephen and the Incarnation, Sixteenth and Newton streets northwest, will be Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The Rev. Clyde Brown rector of St. Mathews Episcopal Church, Hyattsville, will conduct the service in the absence of Dr. Dudley.

CHAIRMEN FOR BAPTIST CONVENTION

The chairmen for the various committees now working on the final preparations for the "magnetic fortieth" Baptist Young People's Unions Convention which will meet here in Washington next week are (left to right), front row—T. Edgar Petty, Alice Speiden, Mrs. Franc Caskey, John Ruthven, Thomas R. Wilson, Elgin Smith, Z. C. Hodges, jr., Mrs. Gladys Wilson, Mrs. Hazel Braugh, Hugh Wingard. Back row, left to right—Francis Ladd, Lynn Fellows, Jordan Bentley, Horace L. Stevenson, the Rev. C. B. Austin, Dr. H. W. O. Millington, Frank H. Spencer, B. Edward Prescott and Clifford Jenkins.

Dr. H. T. Stevenson To Address Masons

Bethany Church Pastor to Preach Tomorrow at Temple Heights.

The customary open-air religious service will be held on Temple Heights at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, under the direction of the Rev. Dr. John C. Palmer, grand chaplain, and the address will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Hugh T. Stevenson, pastor of Bethany Baptist Church. Music will be directed by J. Walter Humphrey, junior warden of Harmony Lodge No. 17.

The special guests will be the officers and members of the following named Blue Lodges, and also chapters of the Eastern Star: National Lodge, Joseph F. Stibor, master; George C. Whiting Lodge, Reuben A. Bogley jr., master; Arminius Lodge, John Gredlein, master, and Petworth Lodge, James E. Redman, master; Fidelity Chapter, Mrs. Melba K. Taylor, matron; Harry C. Manvell, patron; Miriam Chapter, Mrs. Iva L. Pickett, matron, Clyde H. Hogan, patron; Treaty Oak Chapter, Mrs. Dorothy Carroll, matron, Herman A. Meyers, patron.

These open-air services are nonsectarian and are open to all Masons, their families, and the public generally.

Fifth Baptist Summer Preachers.

Mrs. J. M. Dewson, of Waco, Tex., will preach at the Fifth Baptist Church on July 19. The supply preachers for the month of August will be: Dr. J. H. Haywood, of New Bern, N. C., Dr. Weston Bruner, of Portsmouth, Va., and Dr. W. R. Flannagan, of Richmond, Va.

Gospel Team to Lead Central Mission Service

Under the leadership of James Pritchard, the "Gospel Team"— a group of young people from all the churches of Washington—will conduct the service tomorrow night in the chapel of the Central Union Mission, 613 C street northwest.

Miss Patricia Bond, of the group, will sing.

The Rev. E. M. Bowman to Preach.

The Rev. Earl M. Bowman, of Roanake, Va., will preach at the Washington City Church of the Brethren tomorrow morning. Mr. Bowman is a former pastor of this church.

Dr. Sizoo En Route For Travel in Europe

Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, minister of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, left this week for a travel journey in Europe and will be gone all summer. During his absence his pulpit will be filled by the associate minister, Dr. Andrew M. Brodie.

During July and August the evening services will be discontinued, but the Christian Endeavor will continue to meet as usual at 7 o'clock.

FEW EMINENT MEN DIE IN WASHINGTON

Bryan, Taft and Wilson Only Ones Buried Here in Recent Years.

It is astonishing how few prominent and distinguished persons die in Washington and are buried here. Within the memory of this generation there are not more than three such persons who can be called offhand—William J. Bryan, Woodrow Wilson and William H. Taft. Mr. Bryan did not die here, but he is buried in beautiful Arlington, according to his wish, for he was a volunteer soldier in the Spanish-American War. Mr. Wilson and Chief Justice Taft died here and are buried here, the former at the St. Alban's Cathedral and the latter at Arlington.

There are yet residing here and holding active pastorates the ministers who conducted the funeral services of these distinguished men. In the biographical sketch of Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, minister of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, to be found in "Who's Who in America," it is set down to his credit that he officiated at the funeral of William J. Bryan.

Buried in Cathedral.

President Wilson was also a Presbyterian, member of the Central Presbyterian Church; and although he is buried in an Episcopal Cathedral, his funeral was participated in by his pastor, Dr. James H. Taylor, assisted by Bishop James E. Freeman. Every year at the cathedral there is an anniversary service in which Dr. Taylor also appears.

Judge Taft was a Unitarian; and although buried with military honors, the simple funeral service at his church, All Souls' Unitarian, was conducted by his pastor, Dr. Ulysses G. B. Pierce.

There is one other pastor in Washington who in the long ago conducted the funeral service of the most prominent Negro, perhaps, who has lived in this country—Fred Douglass. That minister is Dr. Hugh T. Stevenson, pastor of Bethany Baptist Church, then a young minister and now a young-old minister.

Most Die at Home.

If it should be asked why this situation is as it is, the answer must be that our most distinguished men usually die at home, and their homes are not in Washington, for this is only the temporary home of the Nation's political elect. And again the American public man is much imbued with the Roosevelt spirit, which is the pioneer spirit: "Where the tree falls, let it lie." This led Col. Roosevelt to bury his son Quentin, in France, where he fell before the enemy's bullets, and it caused his family to bury him at Oyster Bay, the home he loved so much.

When the Congressional Cemetery was laid out more than 100 years ago, it was with the idea that it would contain the tombs of the Nation's great men; and to that end the ugly stones you see in the old cemetery were set up and properly marked, even during the life of those so remembered. But that entombing ground does contain the bones of many noted characters: William Wirt, John Gadsby, Pushmataha and David Herold, Booth's accomplice in the assassination of President Lincoln.

HONESTY

Honesty is the foundation upon which our social and industrial structure is erected.

If the foundation fails the building can not stand. Countless forces are at work today undermining this foundation of honesty.

There is no middle ground in honesty. A man, woman or child is either honest or dishonest.

An employe who wastes his employer's time is dishonest, not only to those who are paying him, but to himself.

His own best interests suffer, if he permits himself to be dishonest in small or large things.

Children should be taught honesty by precept and example, particularly in small things, because the habit is one which grows easily from small to large things.

Evasions, cheating at play, failure to look issues in the face can easily lay the wrong kind of a foundation for a future.

The first hint of dishonesty causes associates to become suspicious and progress is almost prohibited.

Honesty is not only the best policy, it is the only policy for one who wishes to succeed.

BEACH HOME OFFERS REAL INDEPENDENCE

Freedom From Hot Summer Weather Is Promise Post Gives.

Independence Day, being celebrated today, may have a double meaning to Washingtonians if they participate in a bargain proposition which The Washington Post is offering them in the Woodland Beach summer home development on South River, in Maryland.

Every one strives for independence of some sort, financial, religious, business or family. Here in Washington residents seek also an independence from discomforts of the city in the summer months

Woodland Beach offers every Capital resident an opportunity to enjoy just such independence when the warm months arrive, and at a price well within the reach of the moderately fixed family. It is the answer to the thoughts of many who have longed for a summer residence but have always found the cost prohibitive.

Start along the road to independence today by taking the family out to Woodland Beach. Start the car along Defense highway toward Annapolis, turning right at Camp Parole, on Maryland State highway No. 2, cross the South River and then turn left to Mayo road, which will lead you directly to the beach. If you go by electric car, get off at Camp Parole and climb into one of the buses which meet every car and carry passengers to the beach.

Let one of the salesmen guide you over the wide expanse of Woodland Beach until you have seen all its vantage spots. Then make a selection and begin to plan for a summer cottage. Think of all the fun you and the members of your family will have, disporting in the cool waters of the South River, or lolling in the shade. No more sweltering in some stuffy apartment when the summer months arrive and even if you have to spend the day in the city, it requires only a short time to reach the beach and a good night's sleep.

Remember, too, as you look around, that each lot at Woodland Beach costs only $93 and of that amount only $9 and the price of a subscription to The Washington Post are required before you lay claim to a lot. The remainder of the amount may be divided into monthly payments of $3.50.

CAPITAL SOCIETY EVENTS

Dr. and Mrs. George Horton, with their daughter, Miss Nancy Phyllis Horton, will spend the summer at the Saunders House, Saunderstown, R. I.

Dr. Horton was for many years consul general and diplomatic agent of the United States at various cities in Europe and Asia, and is the author of numerous books of fiction, folklore and travel.

Miss Nica Sacpole, who has been staying with the Hortons for the past two years, has sailed for London where she will visit her cousin, Lady Crossfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Swanson, of Minneapolis, are at the Dodge during their brief stay in Washington.

Miss Caroline Walker, who has been spending June at the home of her father, Capt. Hugh Walker, U. S. N., Jasmine Hill, in Augusta, Ga., will continue her visit there until the latter part of July, when she will join Col. and Mrs. Harrison Dodge, and Mrs. Elvin R. Heidberg, for a motor trip to Maine. They will return to Washingon in September.

Miss E. Josselyn Griffin will leave about July 18 to spend the summer at Mountain Lake Park in Maryland.

Miss Edna Betty Andrews is the guest of Miss Julia Lewis, niece of Mrs. Wilfred M. Barton, at their cottage in Epping Forest, for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Bourke, and their son, Evans, accompanied by Miss Margaret Lynam, left yesterday for Ventnor, N. J., where they will remain until September.

Miss Branham to Wed Mr. E. G. Howe.

Mrs. John Henry Bell anounces the engagement of her granddaughter, Miss Katherine Caperton Branham to Mr. Edward Gilman Howe, of Philadelphia. The wedding will take place in the home of Mrs. Bell on July 18.

Miss Branham is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Bell Branham, former teacher of Central High School. She is a graduate of Mount Holyoke College in South Hadley, Mass. Since her graduation Miss Branham has done graduate work at George Washington University, The National University of Mexico, Mexico City, and at the Instituto de las Espanas in Madrid. She is a member of the Abigail Hartman Rice Chapter of the D. A. R.

Mr. Howe is the son of Mrs. Willard B. Howe of Burlington, Vt. Following his graduation from the University of Vermont, he was an instructor in that institution for two years. At present Mr. Howe is the meter specialist for the Mid-Atlantic District of the General Electric Co. He is a member of the Sigma Phi fraternity.

After their marriage they will live in Germantown, Philadelphia.

Miss Katherine Fechet and Miss Mary Fechet, daughters of Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of Air Corps, and Mrs. Fechet, are at Gibson Island for the week-end where they are the guests of Col. and Mrs. Clifford Corbin, of Chicago, who are spending the summer there.

"I CAN TAKE CARE OF MYSELF IN YOUR MAN'S WORLD!"

"I'll travel my own road!" she cried. "I want to be free to do as I please—to live as I please—to love as I please!" And then she found that her kind of freedom cost more than it was worth—that men might play at this game without being hurt but that a woman can't get away with it!

She knew it was madness when she started. But little did she realize that for him it would end with a bullet—for her—?

Three men—three loves—three conflicting desires. And she tried to satisfy them all.

VON ELM SHOOTS 69 TO TAKE ONE-STROKE LEAD IN OPEN

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

SEVERAL items of interest in connection with the big league pennant races have struck this column full in the countenance and it is noted that:

The three-and-a-half game lead which the Athletics hold over the Nats is in reality a much more substantial margin in that the Macks have lost five games less than Washington. And to teams playing at a better than .500 pace, a defeat figures greater in the percentages than a victory.

The double-header between the Nats and the Yankees today in New York holds two prospects for Manager McCarthy. A double victory will implant him solidly in the race for second place and give him a fighting chance to climb higher. A dual loss, which would leave the Yankees nine and a-half games behind the Nats would ruin McCarthy's aspirations. A split in the twin bill will still leave the Yanks on the treadmill.

Connie Mack yesterday made the first move toward bolstering his pitching staff by claiming Waite Hoyt from the Tigers on waivers.

On the theory that a change of scenery has benefited many a big league pitcher, there is belief that Hoyt will turn in some winning games for the Mackmen.

But the theory didn't ring true in Hoyt's case when he was transferred from the Yankees to the Tigers. After a brief flash, the Brooklyn undertaker couldn't win consistently for Detroit.

Maybe Clark Griffith erred in not claiming Hoyt. Not that the Nats were in such dire need of pitchers, but because it may have been wise to spike the efforts of Mack to strengthen his pitching.

The Nats had prior claim to Hoyt, according to the major league code which gives the team lowest in the standing of the clubs first right to exercise waiver claim.

Bucky Harris had phenomal success with veteran pitchers he claimed.

There was Stanley Coveleskie in 1925 who became the league's leading pitcher after he joined the Nats following a poor season with Cleveland. Harris claimed Dutch Ruether the same season and the two pitched the Nats to the 1925 pennant.

Alvin Crowder blossomed into a winner with the Nats last year after failing dismally with the Browns. He won fifteen games for Washington after June 15, after losing eight and winning one in St. Louis.

The Robins are again a menace in the National League. The team has climbed steadily from the cellar to fourth place, a half game behind third and five games behind the lead. As they have been saying for seventeen years, remember the Braves of 1914.

Joe Cronin's batting slump in the West removed him from the leaders in hits and runs. Cronin set the pace in hits from the start of the season but could manufacture few after reaching 90. He has not yet attained 100. The first to reach that mark was Earl Combs, of the Yankees. But Simmons is now on top with 103. Averill, Klein, Combs and Haas also top 100. Cronin is still in his nineties.

Something reminiscent of that old saw having to do with class will tell is seen in the home run standing of the leaders. Babe Ruth has forged ahead steadily until he is tied with Gehrig at 19 for the American League lead. Although Klein, taking full advantage of Baker Bowl, tops the National with 21.

Names like Arlett and Vergez figure among the leading home run hitters in the National, but the American sees the same old clouters setting the pace—Gehrig, Ruth, Foxx, Averill, Goslin and Simmons.

Earl Webb, of the Red Sox, is still shooting at the two-base hit record of 64 set by George Burns, old Cleveland first baseman. He has already clouted 30 two-baggers in 66 games and if he maintains that pace will have registered 70 by the end of the season.

Bill Hunnefield's release by the Braves to the Giants marks that young man's four major league affiliation in his comparatively brief big league career. He spent three seasons with Cleveland, one with the White Sox and early this year was waived out of the league to be signed by the Braves.

Legionnaires to Vie In Miniature Golf

A miniature golf tournament, open to members of the American Legion, will be held at the Central Golf Course, Eighteenth and Pennsylvania avenue, from July 27 to 31 by the District chapter of the legion.

A trophy, donated by the Bond Clothing Co., will go to the winner. Entries may be made at legion headquarters in the ShSoreham Building.

Court Restrains Bets At New N. H. Track

Exeter, N. H., July 3 (A.P.).—A temporary injunction to stop betting at the Rockingham Park Race Track at Salem, N. H., was granted by Chief Justice William H. Sawyer of the New Hampshire Superior Court today. The petition was filed by the county solicitor upon the order of the attorney general.

The track opened two days ago after a lapse of many years in horse racing in this vicinity. Betting was conducted during the first two days under a system similar to the pari mutuel.

The petition was filed upon information gathered by five sheriffs of Rockingham County who said they went to the track and each invested $2. Four of them claimed they received nothing in return while the fifth won $15.

SubparRound Puts Detroit Ace on Top

the rough to get a 5 on the par 4 eleventh. He scored a par on the next, and then his dramatic skit of golf began in earnest. Whacking his approach shots with uncanny accuracy and putting with great skill, he snared a deuce on the thirteenth, a birdie 3 on the sixteenth, a par on the seventeenth and a birdie 3 for a clincher on the final green, where his second shot nestled 6 feet from the pin for an easy Von Elm putt.

Burke Goes Out In 34 Strokes.

Burke, who proved his game in the Ryder Cup matches at Scioto last week, turned in a sweet nine-hole round himself to keep up in front. Near the leaders with a 73 yesterday, Burke sank a chip shot for an eagle 3 on the ninth hole to get a 34, 1 under par. He slipped with a 38 coming back, but while it stopped his assault on par, it gave him a score of 72 for the day and a 144 total. Williams, one of the dark horse quartet yesterday with his par 71, proved his nerves by clicking off a par of 37s for a 74 to tie Burke. He missed several fine chances to trim his score when his putter failed him.

Two other members of the first day's dark horse quartet didn't equal their first-round tallies of 71, but they did get 75s, good enough for a tie for fourth place. They were Herman Barron, of Portchester, N. Y., who scored 35—40, and Charlie Guest, of Deal, N. J., who did just the opposite, going and coming today with a 40—35.

Guy Paulson, a newcomer to national open warfare, from Fort Wayne, Ind., came in with a fine 72 to add to his first round total of 74 to tie the veteran MacDonald Smith, of New York, for the next spot in the standing with a 146.

Diegel Among Five Tied at 148.

Five others were tied at 148, including Diegel, whose ace came on the 146-yard thirteenth. The others were Walter Hagen, who scored another 74 after a great start on the outward nine with a par 35; Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Calif., who tied for the lead yesterday with a 71 and who came back with a 77; Johnny Warrell, who jumped back into the running with a 70, the second best round of the tournament, and Joe Turnesa, White Plains, N. Y., who had rounds of 73—75. Diegel's rounds were 75—73.

Gene Sarazen and Armour, the two hand-picked candidates to succeed Bobby Jones, fared badly on their tours over the Inverness traps and narrow fairways today. Sarazen scored a 78, which added to his 74 of yesterday, gave him a 152 total, eight away from Von Elm, while Armour, visibly tired, got a horrible 83, which boomed his score to 158, the qualifying border line. Sarazen did have some tough breaks today, but Armour just didn't play his usual game.

Play-Off Sunday If Necessary.

Sixty-three qualified at Armour's 158 total for the right to play in the final 36-hole round tomorrow. Rounds of eighteen holes will be played in the morning and afternoon. In case of a tie at the end of the regulation 72-hole distance, a play-off would be held Sunday over 36 holes.

Such a play-off looked dangerously apparent tonight.

Out of the thirteen foreign stars who started the battle yesterday, only five remained tonight, and none of them were granted a chance to win in the final drive. They and their 36-hole totals were: Percy Alliss, Germany, 153; E. R. Whitcombe, England, 155; Auguste Boyer, France, 155; Billie Davies, England, 156, and Syd Easterbrook, England, 158. All of them fell by the wayside today, especially Davies, who followed up his first-round score of 73 with an 83 today.

The broiling sun, which has baked the championship Inverness layout for the past week, relented today, but in its stead came a brisk wind, which did a lot of fancy tricks with the new balloon ball.

Wood Given Wimbledon Net Title

Shields Decides Not to Risk Injury at Wimbledon.

By FRANK H. KING.

London, July 3 (A.P.).—Sidney B. Wood, jr., not yet 20 years old, tomorrow will become Wimbledon tennis singles champion without lifting a racquet, succeeding to the title renounced by William Tatum Tilden 2d.

Wood's old Roxbury schoolmate and doubles partner, Frank X. Shields, today announced he would not contest the title with Sidney because of an injury to his knee in his semifinal match with Jean Borotra Wednesday and aggravated yesterday by his play in the doubles.

The injury, a strained ligament, is not serious, but specialists called in by Shields' Davis Cup captain, Samuel Hardy, advised against putting any more strain on the damaged leg for fear of causing some permanent injury.

That reason and the prospect of facing the English and then the French in the interzone and challenge rounds of the cup play without Shields was enough to set officials both in England and at home to urging Frank to withdraw.

With a week of rest and then a gradually lengthened series of workouts, the specialists guaranteed Shields would be back in good shape for the serious business of attempting to return the big silver bowl to the United States.

Shields' withdrawal and the playoff of the women's singles title today leaves Wimbledon with only four matches tomorrow, the last semifinals of women's doubles, then the finals of that phase of play, and the finals of mixed doubles and men's doubles.

Cilli Aussem, who was carried off the center court in this same tournament last year with a twisted ankle, defeated her fellow countrywoman, Hilda Kramwinkle, in the women's singles final, 6—2, 7—5, to take the title to the fatherland for the first time.

Germany's slightly built No. 1 completely dominated the play against her tall, sturdy adversary, and at the finish had so exhausted Miss Krahwinkle, the latter had to stretch out on the turf and take a rest before posing for the cameramen.

George Lott, jr., and John Van Ryn advanced to the finals of men's doubles, and Lott and Mrs. L. A. Harper to the finals of the mixed doubles.

Lott and Van Ryn, leading American combination and seeded No. 1 in the draw, disposed of G. P. Hughes and Fred Perry, British pair, 6—4, 11—9, 8—6, and will meet Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, of France, in the finals.

Lott and Mrs. Harper had a walkover in the mixed doubles, Perry and Miss Mary Heeley defaulting while leading by one set and 4—3 in games when Perry injured his ankle as he crashed into the stands after a ball. Like Shields, Perry wanted to continue play but was prevailed on to default and save himself for the coming Davis Cup matches.

England still must meet and dispose of Czechoslovakia before the interzone final with the United States. The Americans will meet Ian G. Collins and Joan Ridley in the finals.

The women's doubles may be an all British final, with Mrs. D. C. Shepherd-Barron and Phyllis Mudford already qualified and Betty Nuthall and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall playing the French pair of Doris Mextaxas and Josene Sicart in the first match tomorrow to determine the other finalist.

Miss Nuthall and Mrs. Whittingstall today eliminated the last American pair, Mrs. Harper and Mrs. John Van Ryn, 3—6, 7—5, 6—3.

Allison Will Go Abroad Should Shields Be Idle

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., probably will be sent abroad to take Frank Shields' place on the United States Davis Cup team if Shields' injured knee does not respond to treatment, Holcombe Ward, chairman of the Davis Cup selection committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, said today.

Allison is playing now in the National Clay Courts championships at St. Louis and is in good condition

Mr. Ward said he did not believe it would be necessary to send Allison abroad, as Samuel Hardy, the Davis Cup captain, had advised him by cable that the doctors guaranteed Shields would be in shape to play in the interzone finals and the challenge round if the United States should go that far.

Macks Sign Hoyt, Released by Tigers

Philadelphia, July 3 (A.P.).—Announcement was made today that Waite Hoyt, Detroit pitcher, has been released to the Philadelphia Athletics by the waiver route. He will join the "A's" in a few days.

Grandmother Advises Stribling to Fight

Dallas, Tex., July 3 (A.P.).—Mrs. C. H. Stribling, 82-year-old grandmother of young W. L. Stribling, predicted today he would knock out Max Schmeling in the seventh round if he follows her advice.

"I intend to wire him to get in there and fight and not run around the ring like a dancer as his father has taught him to do," she said. "If he follows this advice he will beat Schmeling."

YANKS HOSTS TO NATS IN 2 GAMES

Jones, Brown Hurl Today in Holiday Bargain Bill.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Washington Post).

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 3.—Manager Walter Johnson and his Nationals pulled into the metropolis early this evening following a long, dreay ride from St. Louis, where they ended their second Western invasion of the year with a record no better than "50-50." Despite this the Nats are not discouraged, for they see a ray of sunshine in the fact that the leading Mackmen also slumped, the result being only a loss of one game in the race.

These slumps, it might be mentioned, were only to be expected, for neither the Nationals nor Athletics reasonably could be expected to travel for a long period at the pace they set during their last home stand.

"We've had our slump and still are only three and a half games back," said Skipper Johnson tonight. "The season-ending is a long ways off, and I look for my boys to start another long winning streak as soon as they get home. You know we have always been exceptionally good in our own park. While I don't want to be handing out any alibis, I blame much of our poor work out West, and that of the Mackmen, too, for that matter, on the extreme heat. We were cooped up in small, hot hotel rooms and could not get our sleep at night, while hopping from city to city in overheated Pullmans did not help any either.

"We tackle the Yankees in two games here tomorrow and then go home for one of the longest stays a Washington team has enjoyed in the last two or three seasons. I confidently look for us to overtake the leaders during this coming stay."

As the Yankees have not been going much better than have the Nationals since they left home, both Johnson and his men are hopeful of taking both ends of tomorrow's Independence Day bill. "Sad Sam" Jones, who has always been effective against the Yankees in the past, will do the flinging in one game, with Lloyd Brown toiling in the other.

The Nationals, who were leading the league in batting when they left home for the West, hit at but a .274 clip during the jaunt just ended, with only two of their regulars having an average of better than .300—Ossie Bluege, with .328, led the pack, with Sammy West's .322 putting him second. Two of the most disappointing features were the hitting of Joe Cronin and Buddy Myer.

It has been the custom to say that "as Cronin goes, so go the Nationals," and this, perhaps, explains why the team was unable to do better than to break even, for the shortstop had to be satisfied with a .263 rating, with Myer hitting only .209. Of the other regulars, Manush hit .271; Kuhel, .283; Spencer, .288; Sam Rice, .286, and Dave Harris, .265.

ROUND ONE—Stribling danced in his corner and he raced out, snipping a left to the face as he shot over the first punch. Schmeling grinned, backed the challenger to the ropes and hooked his left and right to the chin. Schmeling lunged in with a left hook that missed and he laughed. Stribling came in close, clinched and rapped three short rights on the champion's head. He drove both fists to the head again, but Schmeling chased him to the ropes. Stribling cracked a right uppercut to the chin, but Schmeling nailed him on the ropes with a short left and right to the head. Schmeling spun the challenger around with a left and right to the head ,but Bill came back stabbing with a left to the mouth. The challenger whipped a fine right to the jaw and Max backed away as the bell sounded.

ROUND TWO—The champion crouched, but Stribling straightened him up with a left hook to the head and they fell into a clinch. In close the tall challenger belted the champion about the body and flicked a short right to Schmeling's face as they came away. Schmeling whipped a hard left hook to the head, but Bill poked the champion on the nose with two straight lefts. The champion crowded the challenger and grazed his eye with a hard right. He hooked a hard left to the chin. Stribling drove the champion into the ropes with two sizzling left hooks to the head and whipped both hands to the body. They wrestled their way clear and Schmeling landed a left hook to the chin before they fell in close to tug and haul in a clinch. Stribling clipped the champion on the chin with a hard uppercut as the round ended.

ROUND THREE—Stribling, a tall, lean greyhound compared to the dogged, crowding champion, boxed carefully. He stabbed Max's head with a straight left and then found an opening for a whistling right square to the chin. Schmeling smiled but he was stung and he backed carefully away. Stribling stepped into him with a smashing right uppercut to the chin and dropped another hard right as they wrestled in a clinch. The challenger drove his right to the champion's mouth, but Max beat a tattoo on the challenger's body at close range. With his back to the ropes Schmeling hounded at Bill's body and the challenger held him. Schmeling took another hard right to the head just before the bell, but he was still grinning and slugging to the body as the referee waved them to their corners.

ROUND FIVE—Schmeling snapped a short left into Stribling's bleeding nose. They swapped long lefts and the champion hooked his left short to the head. The champion smiled again as he missed with both hands and Schmeling drove a hard right into his side. They punched madly in a clinch and Schmeling twisted the challenger around and Schmeling nearly pushed the challenger over the middle rope. They boxed cautiously, sticking almost entirely to a duel of long left jabs. Stribling stepped in with a right uppercut to the jaw, but the champion plowed across the ring after him, pumping both hands to the body. Stribling retreated carefully and they seemed to be talking casually to each other as the bell found them punching to the body in a clinch.

ROUND SIX—They started clinching, but Schmeling stepped back when Stribling asked him to and came right back in with a short left hook to the jaw. Stribling missed a right uppercut and seemed to be getting careless and tired. The champion nailed him with a hard right to the jaw, but the Southerner hooked a nice left to the head. Stribling jabbed the champion's face, hooked him once with a left, and then crossed his right full to the jaw. The champion grunted but never faltered. He tore right back at Stribling, smashed over two rights to the Southerner's head and though Stribling laughed he held on desperately and seemed hurt. Schmeling tore after the challenger, but Bill crossed a hard right to the head as the bell rang.

ROUND SEVEN—Apparently growing stronger as the fight went on, Schmeling ripped from his corner and was on top of the Georgian almost before Stribling was off his stool. He did no damage, and they wrestled in the challenger's corner. Stribling shot two straight lefts to the champion's face, made Max miss with a left hook and drop short with a right. Schmeling drove his right to Stribling's head, but the Georgian rallied fiercely and smashed his left and right to the champion's head on the ropes. As the champion drove forward doggedly and punching continually, Stribling missed with both hands and clinched desperately. He did his best to pin Schmeling's arms to his sides, but the champion hammered both hands into Bill's body. Stribling came out of a mixup on the ropes bleeding from a cut over his right eye, while blood trickled from his nostrils.

ROUND EIGHT—Stribling jumped to close quarters with a left hook to the ear and tied the champion up. The challenger jabbed and held as the blood trickled faster from his nose and mouth. Stribling whipped a left and right to the chin and made the champion miss as they fell to close quarters. Schmeling charged forward as the challenger retreated all the way across the ring before he brought Max up sharply with a right uppercut to the head. He whipped a left hook to the champion's head and glanced another right uppercut off Max's face. As they came out of a clinch Schmeling's back was red with blood from Stribling's face. Stribling whipped a left hook to the champion's head, crossed his right straight to the jaw, and was belting the champion about the body when the bell clanged

ROUND NINE—The champion marched into a clinch and they backed away, fencing carefully. Stribling drove both hands to the champion's head, forcing him into a corner, but Max crossed a right to the head and cuffed the challenger about the body. Stribling's knees sagged as Schmeling caught him with a hard right to the chin. Stribling backed away and the champion drove after him, whaling both hands into the Georgian's sides. Stribling, apparently tiring, rallied fiercely, nailing the champion with a right uppercut to the head, but Max was upon him again. Taking his right uppercut without a quivver to pound in close at the Southerner's body. They were punching solidly in close at the bell.

ROUND TEN — The champion charged all the way across the ring to meet Stribling with two straight lefts to the head. The challenger clinched and as they wrestled along the ropes Max shot Stribling's head back with a fierce right uppercut. Schmeling never stopped punching, driving both hands to the body, driving Stribling's head back with a left to the chin Stribling's face was bleeding badly again and he shook his head desperately as Schmeling laid both hands to his head. Stribling's knees sagged as the champion smashed him on the head. Stribling held desperately and the champion nailed him with a right to the head. Stribling reeled weakly at the champion's attack and he staggered to his corner at the bell ,badly dazed, bleeding from the eye, nose and mouth, about at the end of his rope.

ROUND ELEVEN—Schmeling charged out cooly and confidently, mercilessly smashing at Stribling's body. In a clinch Schmeling whipped both hands to the head, but Stribling cut loose in a desperate rally. He bounced both hands weakly off Schmeling's head, but the champion battered his body. A right caught Stribling on the chin and he wobbled. He staggered under another right to the chin as Schmeling followed him carefully measuring each blow. Stribling's face was a mass of blood as the stolid German worked carefully on him, shooting murderous punches to the head and body. Two right uppercuts smashed Stribling's head back, but he had enough left to drive an uppercut to the champion's head. The challenger shook his head to clear his dazed brain as Schmeling rapped him about the head in close. Stribling was weaving and dodging to escape punishment at the bell.

ROUND TWELVE—Again Schmeling was on his feet almost before Stribling could get out of his corner. He blasted the challenger's head with a short left hook and Stribling held on. Schmeling drove the Southerner across the ring cracking both hands to the head. And Stribling gamely took everything he had. They clinched and Stribling drove a right to the body, but Schmeling buried both hands to the challenger's ribs. Stribling walked backward dodging, blocking, using every bit of the boxer's art to continue in the fight, but he was taking a merciless pounding. Stribling was so weak that Schmeling could easily break his holds in a clinch and he hammered the Southerner's head. A left and right banged on Stribling's jaw and he wavered. The bell stopped Schmeling's next charge.

ROUND THIRTEEN — Stribling jabbed at the champion's face, but he had no defense for Schmeling's solid body jolts as they fell into a clinch. The Georgian threw a long right into Schmeling's side and tried to keep the champion away by poking long lefts as he retreated around the ring. Stribling stepped in with a left hook to the chin, but missed another and stumbled across the ring. Max countered short with both hands to the head and again the challenger's face was a mass of blood, bruises and bumps while the champion's features were unmarked but for a slight swelling over his eye. Stribling weakened again as the champion bore steadily into him, cutting at him with short left and right hand punches to the head and body. All Stribling could do was shoot occasional punches, hold when he could, and take his beating like a man when he could not ROUND FOURTEEN — Stribling swung his left in a wide arc to the champion's head and stepped into a clinch. Stribling wavered under a right to the chin. He held weakly, his knees sagging as Schmeling battered him at close range. Schmeling chased the challenger around the ring, cooly watching for an opening for the finishing punch, but Stribling held desperately. Stribling's knees bent again. A left hook to the head and another to the body and he hung on to the champion. He tried firing long, frantic right-hand punches to the body, but Schmeling stepped inside and slashed at his body with short, jolting punches. Stribling held on desperately as Schmeling hammered his sides, but he was still in there bravely taking his beating as the bell sounded.

ROUND FIFTEEN—Stribling came up weakly for the final round, breaking from the hand shake as Max hounded after him. Stribling loosed one looping right to the body. Te got in a glancing right uppercut to the German's head, but Schmeling beat him about the head with short right-handed punches. As Stribling held, Schmeling tried to throw him off and measure him for the final blow. The Georgian was too clever, despite his desperate plight, and he draped himself all over the champion. Stribling went down in his own corner from a right to the head.

Stribling was up at nine and held desperately. Stribling reeled before Schmeling's attack. The champion appealed to Referee Blake to stop the slaughter as Stribling stumbled from one side of the ring to the other and wound up hanging helplessly to the ropes in his own corner. The referee stepped in and awarded Schmeling the fight on a technical knockout 2 minutes and 46 seconds after the start of the round.

Bout Stopped by Referee With Georgian Staggering After Taking Nine-Count

Dealt Only Knockout of Career 14 Secs. From the End.

RINGSIDE, Cleveland Stadium, July 3 (U.P.).—With only fourteen seconds remaining in the fifteenth round, Referee George Blake topped stepped in and awarded Max Schmeling, of Germany, victory by a technical knockout over Young Stribling, of Macon, Ga., in their world's heavyweight title bout here tonight.

Hopelessly beaten and out on his feet, Stribling was a pitiful figure as he staggered to his corner. It was the first time in his career of 277 bouts Stribling had ever been knocked out.

With the last round almost over, Schmeling floored Stribling with a short right to the chin. Stribling dropped to the floor and was hardly able to stagger to his feet at nine.

Schmeling rushed into finish the challenger and hit hi mat will with both fists. A short left hook knocked Stribling's mouthpiece out of his mouth. Then a right to the head almost put the Georgian down again.

After two minutes and forty-six seconds o fthe last round, Referee Blake stepped between them and raised Schmeling's hand in victory. Bleeding from the nose, mouth and cuts above the eyes, Stribling was unable to find his way to his corner.

Schmeling, strong and fresh, picked Stribling up and carried him a few feet and sat him on his stool.

Ringside Well Filled For First Bout.

The 40 rows of $25 ringside seats, constructed on a raised, wooden platform built at a cost of $30,000, over the turf of the baseball diamond, were fairly well filled as Frank Cawley, Pittston, Pa., and George Panka, Cleveland heavyweight, began belting each other in the first preliminary. Panka was a sparring partner for Schmeling, while Cawley served as a punch catcher for Stribling. Cawley won the decision.

While Cawley and the big Clevelander were tossing punches at each other, Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, strolled into the arena to sit his 200 pounds in a choice ringside seat. Tunney wore a gray suit, with blue tie and a Panama hat. He greeted old-time friends with a warm shake in answering the calls of "Key, there, Gene."

While the first preliminary was in progress, two huge blimps, evidently from Akron, Ohio, came out of the south and floated lazily high above the stadium, the occupants watching what was going on below them. The navigation lights of the blimps were ablaze and save for a glow from these tiny lights and the lights in the cabins, the blimps were black as the night as they hung in the sky.

Stribling and Mother Motor to Arena.

Stribling, accompanied by his mother, his brother, Herbert, and a friend from his home town in Macon, Ga., motored to the stadium a few minutes after 9 o'clock. The challenger immediately went to his dressing room while Ma Stribling went to her ringside seat. Watching her son in a fight is no new experience for the challenger's mother, as she has seen him battle his way to victory innumerable times.

Pa Stribling was busy at the ringside, handling preliminary boxers.

George Pavlik, lanky Cleveland light-heavyweight, gave Frank Morris, New York heavyweight, a thorough beating to win the decision in the second five-rounder. Pavlik knocked the New Yorker down for a nine count with a right to the chin in the first round and nailed him repeatedly with rights in every session thereafter.

Morris was badly cut about the face, but managed to keep going. He weighed 181½; Pavlik, 173½.

Battling Bozo Wins Over Natie Brown.

Pa Stribling's clown light-heavyweight, Battling Bozo, from Birmingham, wallowed through five rounds to win the decision over Natie Brown, one of Schmeling's sparring partners, in the third preliminary that entertained the slim crowd mightily but brought out little fighting.

Bozo cuffed Natie with both hands and tied him up tightly in the clinches, leaving him rather helpless most of the time. There was not a hard blow in the five rounds. Bozo weighed 182; Brown, 187.

Frankie Simms, clouting Cleveland heavyweight, knocked out Joe Vincent, of Boston, in 2:04 of the first round in the next preliminary. A couple of lefts and a pair of rights to the chin ended the affair abruptly.

Hunt Outpoints Corri In Ten Rounds at Laurel

Special to The Washington Post.

Laurel, Md., July 3.—Babe Hunt, Oklahoma heavyweight challenger, outpointed Pietro Corri, New York heavy, here tonight in a fast, hard-hitting ten-round bout, the feature of the opening card of the Mid-City Boxing Arena. Corri showed unexpected courage in resisting Hunt's relentless attack in the last two rounds, as the big Westerner strove for a knockout.

About 2,000 saw the fights.

PAULINO RULES 5-4 FAVORITE OVER BAER IN BOUT TODAY

15,000 Crowd Gathering At Reno

Dempsey Show, Gambling, Speakeasies Lure for Fans.

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND.

RENO, Nev., July 3 (A.P.).—On the outskirts of this bustling city, where 21 years ago Tex Rickard promoted his first big heavyweight battle, the man whom Rickard later built his million-dollar spectacles around, tomorrow will bring to Reno its first important fight since those days of long ago.

Jack Dempsey, one-time wearer of the championship crown, will promote the fight tomorrow, that will roll up the pugilistic curtain again for Reno. Paulino Uzcudun, swarthy Basque, and Max Baer, young giant from California, are the principals in a bout that is billed as a "prize fight" and is scheduled for twenty rounds.

It will be held in an open-air arena laid out half a mile from the site of the wooden pavilion where Jack Johnson successfully defended his title against the comeback rushes of James J. Jeffries July 4, 1910. That fight was Rickard's first heavyweight promotional enterprise.

Reno Host to Big Crowd.

Promoter Dempsey's offering lacks the color and importance of his famed predecessor's. The gate may fall $200,000 short of the 1910 battle. But Reno at least is host to the biggest crowd of visitors in 21 years. Trains, automobiles and airplanes today unloaded the bulk of what local officials believe will total close to 15,000 newcomers.

The fight alone is not the lure, but rather the fight, horse racing, gambling devices of every description and the chance to loiter in comparative freedom in a municipality where speakeasies operate unhampered by State law.

Those interested in the forthcoming battle have installed Uzcudun the favorite at odds of 5 to 4 here. Preliminaries will begin at 11 a. m., Pacific standard time, and the main bout will start about 12:30 p. m.

Movie Stars Entrain For Reno.

Hollywood, Calif., July 3 (A.P.). Max Baer and Paulino Uzcudun will draw a trainload of prominent support from Hollywood for their fight tomorrow at Reno.

Aboard a motion picture special train, 108 film personalities left tonight for Jack Dempsey's extravaganza. Most of the women are boosting for Baer, while the men are putting their money on Uzcudun.

From the list of comedians, there ought to be a riot of laughter at the ringside. Eddie Cantor leads the parade, followed by the four Marx brothers, Buster Keaton, Charley Chase, Jimmy Gleason, Benny Rubin, Jack Oakie and W. C. Fields.

Actors and actresses included Ann Harding, Robert Armstrong, Eddie Quillan, Lew Cody, Ralph Graves, Edward Robinson and Harry Gribbon.

The Island of Bali, Dutch East Indies, has such fertile soil that metal telephone poles are being substituted for wooden ones, to keep them from sprouting and spreading into trees. Volcanic conditions are the cause of this rich earth, for valuable fertilizing chemicals are contained in the ashes and mud tossed up during eruptions. Rains wash these chemicals over the sloping lands, constantly renewing the soil, and enabling Bali natives to raise three crops a year with scarcely any labor.

—Arlington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

ARLINGTON PARK, Chicago, July 3.—The Stars and Stripes Handicap, a grueling nine furlong gallop, for three-year-olds and upward, will feature the first Saturday of racing at the Arlington Park course tomorrow. This event, which carries an added purse value of $20,000, has attracted seventeen of the gamest routers in training to contest the valuable prize.

Supporting the main attraction, the Yankee Doodle Handicap, a sprint at six furlongs for three-year-olds and upward, and the Star-Spangled Banner purse, an allowance affair at one mile, will bring out some high-class thoroughbreds. Two allowance races, one for three-year-olds at six furlongs and the other for juveniles at the five-and-a-half furlongs distance, together with two claiming events will comprise the week-end program.

The Audley Farm's GALLANT KNIGHT, fast-stepping son of Bright Knight—Ethel Gray, has been assigned to impost of 126 pounds, but he has shown ability to carry weight over a distance, and should repeat his victory in the Peabody Memorial Handicap. SILVERDALE, in receipt of twelve pounds, and following his brilliant triumph in the seven furlongs of the Inaugural Handicap, figures to furnish stern opposition. SATIN SPAR, from the Bill Bee Stable, appears best of the others for the minor award.

MY DANDY is favored over his seven rivals in the six furlong dash of the Yankee Doodle, third event on the card. This speedy Reichart six-year-old has shown improvement in recent efforts and appears ready for a winning attempt. C. V. Whitney's color-bearer, MAGNIFICO, flattered at one mile last start after setting the pace. At the shorter distance, here, he should last to gain the place, with the Coe entry of BLACK MAJESTY and CARUSO, as the show possibilities.

FIRST RACE—SEB, from the H. B. Swope string, is dropped into a nice spot in the 6 furlongs of the opening number, which brings together eleven 3-year-olds. In this allowance affair the Swope racer on his New York form appears the best bet of the entire card. This clever 3-year-old forced the pace for 6 furlongs in the Inaugural, then weakened. CANFLI has turned in some fair efforts and is the one to fear. TRED AVON should hold the others safe.

SECOND RACE—Ten juveniles are scheduled to start in the 5½ furlongs of the second. TELLICO has shown the most consistent form of this band of 2-year-olds and gets the call. ANUBIS displayed a high turn of speed last start, but tired. With this effort as a tightener, the Mrs. K. E. Hitt youngster should furnish the opposition. SUN'S SON has been freshened up by a brief rest, but is reported ready.

FOURTH RACE—Another field of ten milers will match strides in the fourth, The Star-Spangled Banner Purse, with NOSTAW, coupled with GALAHAD as the Watson and Reuter entry, favored to gain the honors. Chief opposition should be furnished by BEST MAN. This speedy Mad Hatter colt scored easily in his previous outing, covering the 6 furlongs in 1:11 3-5. JOEY BIBB, a sluggish beginner, would favor a longer route, but nevertheless appears beat of the other starters.

SIXTH RACE—TOTEM has the edge over his seven opponents in the mile and an eighth of the next to closing event, which is fashioned for 3-year-olds and up platers. This clever Broomstick colt in the A. Pelleteri stable turned in a brilliant victory last start and figures to repeat. HIS LAST, from the Mrs. M. J. Hertz string, is attaining his best form and will contest the issue. DARK ENTRY is well suited by the conditions and should get into the money.

SEVENTH RACE—Nine platers will be dispatched over the mile and a half route in the final number. LADY BIENVILLE has displayed staying qualities and is favored to gain the award. LADRONE will favor the distance. The L. V. Bellew, jr., gelding is given the place call, with ENGLEWOOD, from the L. Harris stable, as the show selection.

44TH DISTRICT TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP PLAY OPENS TODAY

Bob Considine To Defend Crown

Field of 93 Seeking Coveted Title on Public Courts.

Double Due to Get Under Way Tomorrow Morning.

NINETY-THREE netmen, ranging from 4 feet tall to 6 feet tall, from almost nothing to almost too much weight, from the veriest beginners to the hoariest vets, will strike out today in the preliminary rounds attendant to the forty-fourth District of Columbia championship. More than a dozen entries for the tournament came into the hands of Washington lawn tennis officials too late for classification.

Play this morning, beginning at 10 o'clock, will be spread out on three sets of public courts—Henry Park, Potomac and Rock Creek. Rock Creek will see the largest section of the playing, 47 players being scheduled to see service on these courts. Included in this crop of netmen are Dooly Mitchell, seeded No. 1, and Eddie Yoemans, seeded No. 4; Bud Markey, seeded No. 6, and Bob Elliott, seeded seventh.

Bob Considine, defending champion, seeded No. 2, will play at Potomac Park, with Clarence Charest, seeded No. 8, as a counter attraction. Tom Mangan, seeded No. 3, is scheduled to play at Henry Park, but will shift the scene of his activities to Columbia Country Club. Frank Shore, seeded No. 5, also will play at Henry Park.

Charest Threatened By Buchanan.

All seeded players have comparatively easy matches in the morning round, excepting the veteran Clarence Charest, four times winner and four times runner-up of the event, must meet Bill Buchanan, hard-hitting young Montrose player, who may score an upset. One of the other stern battles on tap tomorrow will be the clash between Maurice O'Neill and J. C. Moorhead, who last year made a name for himself by advancing to the quarter-finals over such players as Bill Seidel and Alan Staubly.

Play tomorrow and Monday, with its rapidly diminishing field, will converge at the Rock Creek courts. When the field has been reduced to eight players, the rest of the matches will be held at Columbia Country Club. It is planned to stage the final round a week from today.

Up for competition are the Dumbarton trophies, for singles and doubles. Both singles cup and doubles vases must be won thrice for permanent possession. Three names are carven on the singles bowl, Maj. Robert C. Van Vliet, Clarence Charest and Bob Considine. The doubles vases are engraved with the names of Maurice O'Neill and Hal Fowler, and twice with the names of Bob Considine and Tom Mangan.

Stars Entered In Doubles.

The doubles of the tournament, which start tomorrow, promise to steal the show from the singles. Entered in the doubles are prominent Leech Cup stars from both Army and Navy. The No. 1 Army team of Flying Cadet Do!f Muehleisen and Lieut. S. K. Robinson, is entered, as is the team which last year was a runner-up to Mangan and Considine, Commander C. C. Gill and Lieut. Gerry Smith, besides the 1929 runners-up, Ensigns Jimmy Farrin and Bill Howard.

YANKEES GET TALENT.

The St. Paul Club has sold Jack Saltzgaver, second baseman, and John Murphy, right-handed pitcher, to the New York Yankees for cash and players not yet named. The sale of Saltzgaver to the Yankees followed a personal inspection by Manager Joe McCarthy, who viewed the infielder in action on June 23 at Columbus. In the game that day Saltzgaver hit a home run and a single.

NATS AT NEW YORK FOR DOUBLEHEADER

nents the Nationals outscored, outhit and undererrored them, but lost several close games and won several with runs to spare. Johnson's men scored 89 runs to 68 for the enemy, led in batting, 145 to 134, while they were charged with but nine errors to 24 for their foes.

Immediately after tomorrow's holiday double-header, the Nationals will board a train for Washington where they open their long home stay Sunday against the leading Mackmen. Three games are scheduled with the world's champions and it is possible that the league lead can change hands during this set, depending upon how the two teams fare tomorrow, and, of course, how the Nats perform against the champions.

"Rube" Walberg, who has beaten the Nats twice this season, likely will oppose them in the Sabbath contest with Fred Marberry doing the slab work for the home team. Both Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw are expected to perform in this series, as Connie Mack intimated to some friends in Chicago that he expected to use his three stars even if he had to start rookie flingers against the Red Sox in tomorrow's double bill to make this possible.

With the teams more or less settled down and the handwriting on the wall indicating that another two-horse race between Washington and Philadelphia is likely until the finish, this series looms of utmost importance to both teams and some "dog eat dog" battles are promised.

MAKE A. A. U. MARKS SWAY

Once again it appears the West is to sweep a national track meet. The Los Angeles Athletic Club is virtually conceded the team championship in the National A. A. U. games July 3-4 at Lincoln, Nebr., due to its enrollment of such performers as Herman Brix, shot-pusher extraordinary, and Jess Mortensen, all-around "handy man." However, other athletes will have something to say. George Spitz, New York youth, for instance, who holds the world's indoor record in the high jump.

79, WITH ONE HAND, SHOT BY VON ELM

Business Man Golfer Makes Good on Odd Boast.

(Associated Press.)

GEORGE VON ELM is a pretty fair one-handed golfer. He has been incapacitated for several weeks with a dislocated thumb on his left hand, but has spent much time at golf clubs around Los Angeles waiting for the thumb to heal. Recently at Rancho a friend was boasting of a round he had played the day before.

George was interested, but not convinced.

"Why, I can beat you with one hand," he challenged. The match was made on the spot. His opponent was in the low 80s, but the business man golfer turned in a fine 79, using only his right hand.

It was too bad Leo Diegel was not at Rancho that day, for Leo is the best one-legged golf player in the game. Leo won many bets by offering to play fairly good golfers, standing on one leg as he made all of his shots. He could break 80 any day and probably can do it yet.

At a Southern club years ago the lowest handicap man in the club challenged the highest for a match in which the star would use only one club and let his opponent name the club.

A left-handed niblick was the club named, but the good player won the match just the same, chipping within a foot of the cup for a par four at the home hole.

Frank Hunter made a hole-in-one at the Midwick Country Club, near Los Angeles, when he sent his tee shot straight into the cup at the 128-yard thirteenth, one of the trickiest holes of the sporty layout, where polo rivals golf in popularity.

Of course holes in one are made somewhere every day, but this was no common, or garden variety, hole in one. Mr. Hunter is 68 years old. He used a No. 6 iron and played from the championship tee. It was his first ace, but he plays in the middle seventies consistently.

Another veteran, Frank Smith, who is 71 years old, recently turned in a 77 at the difficult course of the Rancho Club. These sterling golfers ask no handicaps on account of age.

Not in many a long golf moon possibly will a foursome again compile an aggregate score of 12 on a hole where the par for four perfect players is 20.

It happened recently at Midwick at the long and treacherous twelfth, 460 yards, mostly uphill, far five.

Fred Morrison and Willie Hunter were playing Elmer Vice and Scotty Armstrong. Morrison, former Midwick pro, and Willie Hunter, now a pro, but once British amateur champion, are well known pros on the Pacific Coast. Vice was Morrison's assistant and now is the Midwick pro, Morrison moving to Fox Hills. Armstrong is a crack California amateur.

Vice and Armstrong each scored eagle threes for their side on the hole, Hunter had a birdie four and Morrison holed his spoon shot for a two, a dodo or what have you. To better this will take a bit of doing.

20,000 Seats for Game Go on Sale Tomorrow

In anticipation of a record crowd, President Clark Griffith of the Nats, yesterday announced that seats would be installed in the outfield at Griffith Stadium tomorrow when the Nats return from their Western trip to meet the league-leading Athletics.

The portable seats will be placed adjacent the bleacher wall from left field to the scoreboard in right center, as was the case last July 4 when a record-breaking crowd of 35,000 fans saw the Nats play New York. Twenty thousand unreserved seats will go on sale Sunday morning on a "first come, first served" basis, Griffith said.

SPEEDY WORK BY TWENTY GRAND

Races 1¼ Miles in 2:02 2-5 in Trial for Dwyer Stakes.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Twenty Grand turned in one of the most sensational works that clockers and horsemen have seen in years when he reeled off a mile and a quarter in 2:02 2-5 at Belmont Park yesterday morning, and in so doing probably scared all competition out of the Dwyer Stakes, which will be run at Aqueduct track Saturday.

Prior to the amazing trial of the son of St. Germans, Mate, which beat him in the Preakness, looked like a probable starter, but after the work, A. C. Bostwick, the colt's owner, was undecided whether Mate would go to the post. His trainer, Big Jim Healy, declared, however, the Prince Pal colt would pass up the Dwyer. This matter will be decided definitely today when Mate works.

The Greentree Stable's Golden Tornado's speed was amazing over the Belmont Park track, when in his final prep for the Dwyer he worked a mile and three furlongs in 2:16 3-5, being eased up at the end.

With Marshall Lilly in the saddle, Twenty Grand stepped the first quarter in 0:23 3-5; the half in 0:48; five-eighths in 1:00; three-quarters in 1:11 4-5; the mile in 1:36 4-5; the mile and an eighth in 1:49 2-5, and the mile and a quarter in 2:02 2-5. This was faster than most horses run.

Trainers were astounded by the display of speed. Dick Thompson, trainer for Col. E. R. Bradley, who developed such great horses as Bubbling Over and Blue Larkspur, said that he never had seen anything like it in his life.

Diamond Dust

The Capitol Heights Athletic Club will meet Ross Council, J. O. U. A. M., today at 3 p. m., on the Seat Pleasant Field, as a warm-up for its game tomorrow with Saks on the South Ellipse at 3 p. m. A win tomorrow will give the Capitol team the championship of Section B of The Post's unlimited class of the Capital City League, while a loss will just about knock them out of the running.

The dinner bell will sound promptly at 11:30 o'clock this morning for all members of the Olmsted Grill team, who are requested to appear at the grill at this time. Following luncheon the team will journey to Rockville for a game with the Rockville Athletic Association. Following the game a chicken dinner, will be served at Griffith's roadhouse on the Potomac.

The Alpha Delta Omega team of Alexandria would like to book a game for today at 4 p. m., to be played on Baggett's Field, Alexandria. Teams interested should call Manager Ralph Schrivener at Alexandria 1700.

The Skinker Bros. Eagles, who play Del Ray on the latter's diamond today, are without a game for tomorrow and would like to book a strong unlimited team. Teams interested should call Manager Clipper at Cleveland 1282-W.

The Hayes Playground tossers swamped Steurt yesterday by a score of 22-1. Mike "Dizzy" Eslin starred for the winners with four hits, including a home-run, in as many times at bat.

Manager Hager's Palisades A. C. is without a game for this morning and he would like to hear from any strong unlimited club. It is necessary to play at 10 a. m. Hager can be reached at Cleveland 2133-J. All members of the Palisades are requested to report to the field at 9:30 a. m.

All members of the Majestic Radio team are requested to meet at Fifteenth and H streets northeast today at noon before proceeding to Laurel where they will engage the home team in a double-header. The first game will get under way at 2 p. m.

All members of the Griffith-Blue Coals are requested to report at the clubhouse, 7 Fourth street northeast, at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow before proceeding to Congress Heights for a game with that team at 3 p. m.

100 TO ENTER ALEXANDRIA CARNIVAL

ALEXANDRIA, Va., July 3.—Independence Day will be celebrated here tomorrow with an elaborate water carnival at the municipal swimming pool, located on the 1500 block of Cameron street.

The events will begin promptly at 3 o'clock and according to J. Prex Wilson, recreation director, more than 100 will vie for the various awards. Races will be divided into four divisions, boys under 15 years and over 15 years, and girls also.

Events listed for the swimmers follow: 60 feet, 50 yard, fancy diving, under water swim, and obstacle, relay and crocodile races. One of the features of the affair will be the duck race. A live duck will be placed in the pool and the swimmer catching the duck will be declared the winner.

The lifeguards of the pool, Chunky Travers, Frank Backus and Dave Henderson, will officiate as judges. It is expected a large crowd will see the affair.

Robert P. Whitestone was elected as president of the Del Ray Athletic Club at a meeting held at the residence of Ted Miller last night. Other officers chosen were Jeff Williams, vice president; Babe Clark, treasurer; Richard Cannady, secretary, and Ted Miller, manager of the baseball team.

Tomorrow the Red-Birds will meet the Skinker Eagles in the July Fourth attraction. On Sunday the Del Rayans will travel to Bayliss (X) Roads for a game with the Virginia White Sox.

Bill Hammond's Colonial Athletic Club will meet the Mt. Vernon A. C. tomorrow on Guckert's Field. Sunday the Colonials will entertain the Nation-Wide Store team. Both games will start at 3 o'clock.

The Nation-Wide Storemen will mix with the Indian A. C. tomorrow afternoon on Haydon's Field at 3 o'clock.

Manager Johnny Travers, of the Virginia Jrs, today announced his club would meet the Woodmen of the World in Saturday's attraction on Hunton Field. The game will get under way at 2:30 o'clock. Francis Gorman or Dickie Cliff will pitch for the locals.

J. C. C. to Have Active Summer Sports Season

The Jewish Community Center is entering upon its most active athletic season, both at its new recreational field in the 6400 block of Georgia avenue and at the center, Sixteenth and Q streets.

Starting tomorrow there will be a free swimming week at the center's pool. The water will be open to the general public. An expert Red Cross instructor is available, and the pool is considered one of the best in this region. On Thursday at 2 o'clock, a boys' athletic carnival will be held in which all the various clubs of the city will participate.

Under the direction of Jim McNamara the summer program includes a track meet, baseball games, tennis matches and other athletic events. The tennis courts will be formally dedicated with an exhibition match between Dooly Mitchell and Bob Considine.

Outboard Races Today At Edgewater Beach

The dozens of entries in the various outboard races to be held today at Edgewater Beach, on South River, under the auspices of the Chesapeake and Potomac Power Boat Association, give promise of a thrilling day's sport for the onlookers.

Among the entrants are Roland Geary and Paul Holtzman, of Baltimore, who will force the many local entrants to their utmost. These two drivers, late entrants, have entered every event for which their crafts are eligible.

The Coast Guard cutter Apache, under command of Capt. McCaber, will be the official boat and the captain has agreed to act as chairman of the patrol committee, which guarantees a clear course and safety to visiting boats.

The drivers will be entertained by the sponsoring association and the fireworks display after the regatta, it is planned, will be the greatest of its kind ever produced in this vicinity.

ANDERSON IMPROVED.

Rochester, Minn., July 3 (A.P.).—Headaches from which Coach Heartley Anderson of Notre Dame University has been suffering two months, have abated somewhat, his physicians said today. Otherwise his condition has changed little. Anderson is suffering from meningitis and will be here several weeks for treatment.

GIANTS MEET NORFOLK NINE

Brooke Grubb's Howitzer Giants will play the Norfolk City Gas Co. team today at 1 p. m. on the Kensington diamond. The gas house gang is recognized as the champion sandlot aggregation of Norfolk, and has made the trip north with the intention of adding the Giant's scalp to their impressive list. The Giants consider their opponents as just another ball club and are confident of taking the decision, and for that reason Mr. Grubb would like to book a strong team for tomorrow. He can be reached at Silver Spring 117-W.

Shelton Retains Pro Doubles Title at Winchester.

Special to The Washington Post.

WINCHESTER, Va., July 3.—Ties by champions and runners-up whetted interest at the outset today of the thirty-second annual tournament of the Virginia Trapshooting Association at Rouss Spring Park. Over a hundred shooters registered for the day's events from all sections of Virginia and also from North Carolina, Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and other States and the District of Columbia.

An additional hundred was expected to shoot in the concluding program tomorrow. Prizes aggregate $1,500 in cash and trophies of the American Trapshooters Association.

The first tie occurred in the opening event, the singles, 16-yard rise and 50 targets. H. C. Dodge, Tazewell, State champion, and R. Burnette, Roanoke, tied for high gun, each with 237 out of a possible 250. The tie will be shot off before the meeting closes.

F. F. Candler, Roanoke, won the doubles championship with 47 out of 50. W. F. Anderson, Winchester, and P. G. Fletcher, Richmond, tied for second with 45. Dr. Robert Snaveley, Hagerstown, Md., won the nonresident doubles championship with 45.

Shelton, Roanoke, Retains Title.

In the doubles for professionals, P. M. Shelton, Roanoke, won with 45. He has been Virginia's professional champion twice.

The five-man team race was won by Roanoke No. 1, with 237 out of 250. On the winning squad were L. G. Richards, A. P. Jones, Harry Cox, F. F Candler and A. J. Wright, Tazewell, No. 2, won second with 235, shooters being H. M. Hayter, W. C. Harry, W. J. Skews, W. A. Crawford and E. E. Crockett. Winchester, with 231, placed third. Members were Claude B. Stickley, Francis W. Pingley, Arthur Seabright, E. E. Cuthbert and W. F. Anderson. Other teams were: Fourth, Roanoke, No. 2, 230, composed of E. C. Watson, R. Burnette, C. C. Richards, K Swain and J. Fitzpatrick. Fifth, Richmond and Tazewell, No. 1, tied, each having 223, the Richmond team being composed of P. G. Fletcher, J. F Crenshaw, H. E. Pearsall, M. D. Hart and J. A. Robinson, while shooting for Tazewell were T. R. Perry, B. W. Stras, jr., L. O'Keefe, H. C. Dodge and William Walker. Sixth, Newport News, 218, team consisting of A. G. Mosley, jr., C. C. Vellin, J. Biggins, C. I. Shackleford and George Settle. Seventh, Roanoke, No. 3, 215, team composed of J. J. Barry, Dr. A. B. Hunt, W. H. Bratton, A. M. Dillam and A. L. Spence, and eighth, Cavalier Club, Virginia Beach, 213, shooters being R. H Bush, T. J. O'Connor, R. L. Bell, Thomas Talbot and J. P. Thompson.

Local Trap-Shooters Visiting Winchester

July will be travel month for the members of the Washington Gun Club, whose traps are pitched on Benning road near the P. E. P. Co. power house. Today the regular Saturday afternoon shoot will be canceled in order that it will not conflict with the Virginia State championships, to be held at Winchester. The club will send a delegation to the event.

On July 18 the club team will journey to Annapolis for a match against the Annapolis Gun Club. Besides these two treks there will be a watermelon shoot July 11 (with the melons used as prizes, not targets), and a special trophy shoot for July 25.

Hile Loft Bird Wins In 600-Mile Race

A bird from the Hile loft, averaging 1,113.90 yards per minute in a 600-mile flight from Attalla, Ala., yesterday captured first prize in the last early summer old-bird race of the National Capitol Concourse Association. More than 390 birds, representing 41 lofts, competed.

Races will be resumed next fall by the association. A recapitulation shows that C. H. Darr wins the percentage diploma with 70 per cent; W. R. Pennington wins first diploma for average speed, with H. C. Hile second and W. S. Hixson third.

Yesterday's results, in speed per yards minute:

Hile, 1,113.90; Pennington, 1,046.00; Neitzey, 997.75; Riley, 987.00; Hixson, 952.30; Neitzey, 943.50; Sprosser, 931.26; Pennington, 901.20; Pennington, 893.50; Darr, 884.00; Fitzgerald, 872.20; Foster, 851.30; Diamer, 849.04; Parker, 843.90; Buddington Loft, 840.60; Moore, 833.98; Woodside Loft, 832.85; Burke, 813.86; Ferguson, 810.70; DeAtley, 809.40; Worch & Schriver, 803.08; Voith, 802.20.

Archie Campbell, the Columbus right-hander, was suspended indefinitely without pay last week for insubordination and violation of training rules.

PURDY SLUGS BALL.

Pid Purdy, Columbus outfielder, had a heavy afternoon at bat in the twin bill against St. Paul, June 24, getting eight singles in nine trips to the plate.

81 in Takoma Marathon Today as Agee Is Choice

BOASTING as fine as it is possible to secure in thiss ection of the country, the annual Takoma Park modified marathon will be run today from the District Building to the Takoma Park Playgrounds, a distance of 7½ miles, where it will serve as one of the features of a five-event track meet to be held on the playgrounds under the auspices of the Takoma Park Citizens Association and the District Playground Department.

Bill Agee, Baltimore's nationally known distance runner, will lead a sterling delegation of Monumental City runners to the marathon. He remains a strong favorite to win his third leg on the Stap Cup, which he has won forthe last two years.

Sanctioned by A. A. U., the marathon has attracted a field of 81 starters, including many local satellites.

Agee also is entered in the 880 event at the playgrounds, and looms as a strong favorite to cop the "sprint," despite the stratin of the marathon. Other features of the playgrounds end of the cinder program are a 100-yard dash, in which 22 have entered; a 440-yard run, in which 20 are entered; the 880, which drew a field of 26; the running high and running broad jumps, in which 25 will compete.

Baltimore athletes dominate the entire bill.

The marathon course will begin at Thirteenth street and Ohio avenue, thence out Thirteenth to Iowa avenue, thence to Vermont avenue, New Hampshire avenue, Georgia avenue. Out Georgia avenue to Ashton street, and over to Fourth street to the playgrounds and once and a half turns around the cinder track.

BOB FETZER INJURED.

Morehead City, N. C., July 3 (A.P.).—R. A. Fetzer, athletic director of the University of North Carolina, was painfully injured when his motorboat struck a sand dune here yesterday. Fetzer was hurled through the windshield.

National Open Divots

Toledo, Ohio, July 3 (A.P.).—Leo Diegel's hole in one on the thirteenth was the first ace ever scored in a national open championship. Jock Hutchison turned the trick back in 1921 while playing in the British open at St. Andrews on the 146-yard eighth.

Bob Grant, of Detroit, played one of the most weird rounds of golf ever exhibited in a national open. He had 6's for the first twelve holes of his round, then broke out with a rash of birdies and took only 18 strokes for the next six holes. Despite his sensational finish, he failed to get in the select circle of qualifiers.

Billy Burke drew some wild applause on the ninth when he holed his 30-yard chip shot for an eagle three. Al Espinosa missed an eagle on the same hole when his pitch struck the flag.

Johnny Farrell, the first player to give Old Man Par a licking at Inverness, shot steady golf all the way around. At the eighteenth his drive was well down the fairway and he used a mashie-niblick to lay his approach dead for a birdie three.

Hagen missed a 72 today when two of his putts rimmed the cup and came to rest on the lip. On the eleventh he almost holed his approach from the side of a bunker, the ball stopping inches short of the hole.

INSECT NINES WILL IDLE TODAY

Saks-Capitol Heights Game League Feature Tomorrow.

COMING as it does on a Saturday this year, the nation's birthday has worked a hardship on the teams entered in all sections of the Capital City League. The trek of ball players to nearby summer resorts for the week-end has left many of the team managers with a mere handful of substitutes, and rather than force the clubs to carry on under such a handicap the schedule maker deemed it advisable to postpone games in certain cases.

All games in the Insect section for today are postponed for one week when the second half will get under way. Tomorrow, two games in the unlimited class, two in the senior, and one in the junior classes have been called off. All of the teams involved will be obliged to play the games at the conclusion of the regular Capital City League schedule.

Despite the postponed games the sandlotters' menu for tomorrow is still a tempting one. Heading the list is the battle for the leadership, and possibly the championship of section B unlimited class, which brings the Saks Clothiers and Capitol Heights together at 3 p. m. on the South Ellipse.

Capitol Heights Can Clinch Title.

A victory for the Heights nine will give it the championship, while should Saks triumph it will still face the Army Medicos before winning the right to meet the Dixie Pigs for the city championship. Should the Medicos down their rivals a tie would exist between Saks and Capitol Heights.

The Foxall-Army Medico game, which was originally carded for tomorrow but which has been postponed, will be played either next Saturday or July 19. In section A, the champion Dixie Pigs have two games with the St. Joseph's club remaining which may be played next Sunday. There is a possibility that the clubs may desire to extend the season in this section by playing only one game next Sunday and one the following week. Congress Heights also has a pair of contests with the Griffith-Blue Coals remaining, one of which will be played tomorrow on the Congress Heights field.

Columbia Heights and Ciro's Villagers conclude their 1931 Capital City League seasons tomorrow when they meet at 3 p. m. on diamond No. 3 of the Monument grounds.

Rain Delays Matches In Clay Court Tennis

St. Louis, July 3 (A.P.).—All matches scheduled for today in the National Clay Courts Tennis Championship Tournament here were called off this afternoon because of rain and postponed until tomorrow.

The singles semifinals scheduled for today, will be played tomorrow and the finals Sunday. The doubles finals also are scheduled for Sunday.

Berkeley Bell, Davis Cup Team aspirant and former University of Texas star, who rules a strong favorite for the championship as a result of his defeat of George Jennings of Chicago yesterday, is to meet Ellsworth Vines, tall California State champion, in one of the semifinals matches.

CAPITAL TRIO FADE FROM INVERNESS

Special to The Washington Post.

INVERNESS COUNTRY CLUB, Toledo, Ohio, July 3.—Washington's three hopes in the national open championship passed quietly from the picture here today.

Al Houghton, who led the trio in the first round with a 77, rose to 82 with a bad second nine of 44, and J. Monro Hunter, who had 78 yesterday, took 81 today. The 159s were quite definitely out of the picture.

Freddy McLeod, the veteran of many national opens, improved on his first round score of 82, but only by two strokes.

All of the Washington entrants had trouble following the air line and were erratic on the greens.

STOCKS AGAIN RALLY ON PARIS DEBT NEWS

Price Gains Become General as Buoyancy Aids Recovery of Losses.

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—The New York security markets did their best to make the Fourth glorious. Buoyed by expectations of a successful termination to the debt discussions, stocks rallied consistently. The advance was attended by no such enthusiastic demonstrations as marked the first stages of the Hoover plan, but professional and other traders evidently thought the list was entitled to a further rally on the basis of the Paris and Washington dispatches.

Cotton jumped $1.50 a bale, but the grains, affected by weather news, sagged, so that the day's improvement on financial exchanges was not quite unanimous.

The debt meetings have been uppermost in Wall street's mind all week. Nervousness over the outcome was momentary, however, for the prevalent feeling was that too much was at stake to permit failure.

Day's Sales Larger.

However, the reassuring advices coming over the cables and telegraph wires today prompted considerable jubilation, partly at the expense of the shorts. Sales of 2,100,000 shares on the stock exchange were 800,000 larger than yesterday's turnover.

U. S. Steel provided strong leadership, rising to 105¾, just a point over its previous recovery top. The final quotation was 105, making the net gain 2¾ points. Westinghouse, American Telephone, American Tobacco "B," Union Pacific, Rock Island and Eastman Kodak rose 3 to 4½ points and a large number of shares gained one to two and more. The most conspicuous exception was National Biscuit, off as much as 3 points at the lowest and down 1½ on the day. There was nothing definite to account for the decline in this investment issue, although the weakness was ascribed in brokerage circles to such factors as increased competition smaller earnings and investment trust selling.

A continued rise in commodity prices was noted by the leading indices. Bradstreet's July 1 index showed a gain of 1.5 per cent over a month previous, the largest advance since October 1, 1927, and the second advance in twenty months. The other occurred last April. Dun's weekly index registered the third consecutive rise.

Trade Stimulated.

Retail trade, according to the industrial reviews, was stimulated this week by the weather and the holiday. Dun's said the "recuperative influence of the favorable developments of the past week is gaining momentum," and that the improvement had found reflection in distributive channels as well as in primary markets. "Definite indications of industrial betterment are shown," it stated, "although the interests helped are somewhat scattered."

The demand for holiday currency throughout the country was estimated at between $60,000,000 and $75,000,000, somewhat smaller than amount withdrawn in more prosperous years. Money markets showed no effects of the withdrawals and call funds at 1 per cent "outside" were virtually as plentiful as ever.

Foreign exchanges were dull and firm. Far Easterns rose with silver and sterling cables advanced slightly.

Losses in wheat ranged from ⅜ to 1⅛ on improved Canadian weather and reports that the Canadian pool might be liquidated. Corn eased ¼ to ⅜ of a cent, in response to beneficial rains in the Southwest.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, July 3 (A.P.).—Record breaking shipments of new wheat, Southwest, with harvest operations extending rapidly into more central territory, pulled grain prices downward today. The bearish influence of lower rail rates due July 15 and expected to divert much wheat from Southwestern markets to Chicago, was also apparent. Unlooked for downturns in Liverpool quotations to within a fraction of the lowest point this season were ascribed to heavy offerings of Russian wheat at prices equivalent to 56¼ cents a bushel for United States wheat, Gulf of Mexico delivery.

Wheat closed unsettled ½@1⅛ cents lower; corn, ¼@⅜ down; oats, ⅛@½ off, and provisions at 2 cents to 7 cents setback.

Almost 20,000 cars of new domestic wheat were reported arrived at various market centers during the last five days. Arrivals today showed a material increase over yesterday, which in turn had outdone the day previous. Faced by prospective still heavier receipts next week, and no let up in sight for some time, traders paid little heed to bullish factors.

Russia was reported supplying the bulk of European demand for wheat, including a sale of 1,000,000 bushels to Great Britain. Argentina was also selling wheat freely to Europe, whereas North American export business was negligible. Bears contended that with Russia a heavy competitor and with approximately 900,000,000 bushels or more of domestic wheat in sight, price downturns were inevitable, despite crop deterioration in Canada. Closing prices at Liverpool were only 3 cents a bushel over Chicago, an unusually slim difference.

BANKING INSTITUTE SEEKS NEW HOME

District Association Names Committee to Get Larger Quarters for Classes.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The District of Columbia Bankers Association moved yesterday to begin a search for larger quarters for Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, junior banking organization. Among the first committees named for the new administrative year by President Edward J. McQuade, of the bankers association, is a committee on new quarters.

The chairman of this group is vice president and cashier George O. Vass, Riggs National Bank, and its membership includes President Francis G. Addison, jr., Security Savings & Commercial Bank; President Lanier P. McLachlen, McLachlen Banking Corporation; Secretary Frederick P. H. Siddons, American Security & Trust Officer Aubrey O. Dooley, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., who is president of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking.

The importance attached to the committee's mission is reflected by the appointment of two officers of the bankers association to serve on it, Mr. Vass being second vice president and Mr. Siddons, secretary.

Present Quarters Congested.

The need of larger quarters for the chapter's growing classes was officially brought to the attention of the bankers' body by Frank M. Perley, American Security & Trust Co., latest past president of the chapter, at the recent convention at Hot Springs, Va. He informed the assembled bankers that the present center of chapter activities, the third floor of the Becker building at 1318 F street northwest, is very congested.

Discussing these quarters, Mr. Perley in his annual report said "The interior walls are not sufficiently soundproof, frequently resulting in one class disturbing another, to say nothing of the objectionable traffic and other noises reaching the classrooms from the street."

Members of the bankers association which also has headquarters on the same floor of this building are well aware of these conditions, it being said that only Thursday, while meeting there to discuss a proposed securities sale law for the District, they were obliged to close all windows and swelter through the discussion.

Dual Powers Indicated.

It is even indicated that the committee on new quarters may have a dual function and seek not only larger quarters for the institute chapter but a different headquarters for the bankers association. Earlier tentative plans contemplated holding the bankers headquarters in the Becker Building and selecting some vacant residence not too far removed from the central part of the city as a suitable school and meeting place for the chapter.

President McQuade also announced appointment of the following to represent the association at fourth Pan-American commercial conference to be held in Washington October 5-12: Robert V. Fleming, president, Riggs National Bank, representing the national bank group; Lanier P. McLachlen, president, McLachlen Banking Corporation, representing the State bank group; Francis G. Addison, jr., president, Security Savings & Commercial Bank, representing the savings bank group; Edward L. Hillyer, vice president and assistant trust officer, Union Trust Co., representing the trust company group. Mr. McQuade, president of Liberty National Bank, will represent the association.

For the budget, a standing committee, President McQuade has selected the following members: C. H. Pope, vice president, Munsey Trust Co., chairman; Albert S. Gatley, executive vice president, Lincoln National Bank; George O. Vass, vice president and cashier, Riggs National Bank; Frederick P. H. Siddons, secretary, American Security & Trust Co.

Montgomery Ward's June Sales Decrease

Chicago, July 3—(AP)—June sales of Montgomery Ward and Company were $19,219,335, a decrease of 19.88 per cent compared with $23,989,300 for the same month of 1930. The May sales had been $18,547,245 for a decline of 25.9 from May 1930. Sales increased each month of the second quarter this year.

The six-month sales total was $107,791,365 against $130,185,103 in the first half of 1930, a decrease of 17.2 per cent.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, July 3 (A.P.).—Trading in cotton was comparatively quiet during the greater part of the day, but became active later when October contracts sold up to 10.53, making a net advance of 34 points and closed at 10.51, with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 31 to 34 points.

The opening was steady, 12 to 20 points higher in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. There was some irregularity during the morning, with prices showing slight reactions at times owing to rather an unfavorable interpretation of some of the earlier news regarding the Paris conferences. Reports of continued high temperatures in the South had little effect but offerings were well absorbed, and the market firmed up again during the afternoon when buying was evidently stimulated by the advance in the stock market and the encouraging news as to prospects for an early agreement on the moratorium proposals.

Prices for all months reached the highest levels of the day in the late trading, with July selling at 10.17 and December at 10.75, or within 14 to 20 points of the best prices touched at the close of last week. Final quotations were within a point or two of the best.

Two more of the private end-June crop reports were published during the day, one of which pointed to a decrease of 11 per cent in acreage, making the area under cultivation 41,120,000, while the other pointed to a decrease of 11.1 per cent in acreage, and placed the condition of the crop at 70.2 per cent. These figures were without apparent effect on the market and trading was so quiet during the greater part of the day that prices were sensitive to comparatively small orders either way.

Liverpool cables said trading in that market had been much restricted pending a French decision, but that continental buying had absorbed liquidation. Exports today, 11,054, making 6,681,607 so far this season. Port receipts, 8,464. U. S. port stocks, 2,991,427.

Curb Review

New York, July 3 (A. P.).—The curb market ended the week today with a brisk upturn and a marked quickening of trading, in response to cheering reports regarding the war debt negotiations.

A little profit taking in advance of the holiday tomorrow caused some recessions from the best levels in the last few minutes, but on the whole, the market closed with a strong tone. Utilities and oils led the upturn.

The day's turnover aggregated 390,000 shares, or 130,000 more than yesterday's. The session was the most active since Monday's.

Electric Bond & Share rose 2 points in a large turnover, and closed up 1½ net. Similar advances were recorded by American Gas & Electric, American & Foreign Power Warrants, Brazilian Traction, and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore. Niagara Hudson and United Light A gained fractionally.

In the oils, Gulf advanced 2 points, Indiana and Vacuum nearly a point. Cities Service recovered after an early setback, and closed up ¼. Coppers also pointed upward. United Verde gained 2 points, and Newmont 1.

In the higher priced industrials, Aluminum Co. gained 6 points, and Mead Johnson 4. Ford, Ltd., Pitney Bowes and Deere were among issues gaining a point or so.

Woolworth, Ltd., remained an active speciality, closing ½ point higher.

Standard, Vacuum Oil Merger Meeting Called

New York, July 3—(AP)—Special meetings of stockholders of Standard Oil Company of New York, and Vacuum Oil Company have been called for July 30 to act on the proposed merger of the two companies.

The notice sent out by Standard asks stockholders to vote on the change in name to Socony-Vacuum Corporation and also on an increase in authorized capital to 40,000,000 shares of $25 par from 18,000,000 shares to provide for the exchange of stock incident to acquisition of the Vacuum property. The remainder of the increased stock will be issued from time to time to acquire other properties and for other corporate purposes.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Sensuky

CLEVER, THESE CHINESE!

THE CHINESE CLAIM CREDIT FOR THE IDEA OF ALARMS TO AWAKEN SLEEPERS. THE METHOD OF THE CHINESE COOLIE FOR CENTURIES HAS BEEN THIS: HE TAKES A LONG PIECE OF PUNK, WHICH HE KNOWS FROM EXPERIENCE WILL BURN FOR A CERTAIN NUMBER OF HOURS. THEN HE LIGHTS ONE END AND PUTS THE OTHER END BETWEEN HIS TOES. WHEN THE PUNK BURNS DOWN HE KNOWS IT IS TIME TO GET UP. THERE IS NO DANGER OF OVERSLEEPING.

VINEGAR AND PEARLS

A MYTHICAL STORY ABOUT CLEOPATRA DISSOLVING A PEARL IN VINEGAR STARTED THE BELIEF THAT PEARLS WILL DISSOLVE IN VINEGAR, BUT THEY WON'T.

UNLUCKY

THERE IS AN OLD LEGEND THAT THE MAGPIE IS THE ONLY BIRD WHICH DID NOT GO INSIDE THE ARK WITH NOAH. THEREFORE, THE MAGPIE WAS REGARDED BY OUR ANCESTORS AS BEING UNLUCKY.

DIETS FOR CHILDREN.

THE Michigan Dental Society bulletin gives the following diets for children 5 to 7 years of age.

BREAKFAST.

Fruit of any kind.
1 egg.
1 slice buttered toast.
1 small serving of cereal with milk and sugar.

NOON.

Tender meat, fish, chicken or liver.
½ cup buttered vegetables.
2 leaves of lettuce or other raw food.
1 slice bread and butter.
Simple pudding, ice cream or fruit.

SUPPER.

Milk soup with vegetable, milk and butter.
Egg, cottage cheese, custard or liver.
1 slice bread and butter.
1-3 cup of fruit.
8 ounces of milk.
4 to 6 ounces of milk should be given in the afternoon or at bedtime.

Diet for an average child 7 to 16 years old:

BREAKFAST.

Fruit of any kind.
1 slice of toast, buttered.

NOON.

Tender meat, fish, chicken or liver.
1 medium-sized potato.
2-3 cup buttered vegetable.
1 slice bread and butter.
Lettuce, celery or other raw food.
Simple pudding or ice cream or fruit.

SUPPER.

Egg, cottage cheese, liver or meat.
Potato, rice or spaghetti.
2-3 cup buttered vegetable.
1 slice bread and butter.
Large serving fruit.
8 ounces milk.

A glass of milk in the afternoon or at bedtime. The average child should eat daily: One quart of milk, at least one egg, one serving of meat, chicken, fish, or liver; two vegetables, one fruit or tomato, one teaspoonful cod liver oil, six teaspoons butter. These are to be divided up among the meals as indicated above. Children should not eat between meals except they be given a fruit or a glass of milk.

Foods that children should not eat are: Spices, condiments, coffee, tea, pop, pickles and rich pastries. Sweets may be eaten as a part of a meal but not between meals.

Raw vegetables should be carefully cleaned before being served, otherwise they may carry the eggs of worms and various other parasites, and the bacilli of typhoid and intestinal disorders. The possibility that arsenic will be found on raw vegetables and fruits must not be overlooked. It is customary for farmers to use insect sprays and these contain fairly insoluble poisons.

Fruits should be well washed and peeled. Both poison from sprays and bacteria from dirt are apt to be found around the stem.

THEY ARE NOT RELATED.

S. J. A. writes: Will you write an article on the disease known as herpes, giving the cause, cure and its relation to eczema?

REPLY.

There is no relation between herpes and eczema. Among the herpetic disorders are fever blisters, cold sores and shingles. This disease is due to an infection of nerve roots with virus, or with some other infecting agent. The ulcers may appear on any one of several places.

It is a self-limited disease. Cold sores get well of themselves, as you know.

YES, IF PROPERLY DONE.

L. F. writes:

1. Is the removal of superfluous hair by electrolysis permanent?
2. Does such treatment cause cancer?

REPLY.

1. Yes, if it is properly done.
2. No.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.

Under and by virtue of a certain deed of trust executed by Frank M. Salisbury and Mary E. Salisbury, his wife, and Eugene Goff and Katharine F. Goff, his wife, the twelfth day of February, 1926, and recorded in Deed Book 234, at Page 462, one of the land records of Arlington County, Virginia, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness described in the said deed of trust and at the request of the holder of the said indebtedness the undersigned substituted trustee will offer for sale, at public auction, for cash, in front of the Court House of Arlington County, Virginia, on Saturday, July 11, 1931, at 11:00 a. m. of that day, the following described pieces, parcels or lots of ground, together with the appurtenances thereto belonging, situate, lying and being in Arlington County, Virginia, and described as follows:

PARCEL NO. 1.

"Beginning at the northwest corner of the Willette Heights tract, said point being about 35 feet east of the Alexandria and Chain Bridge Road; thence north 88° 28' 30" E. 1732.10 ft. to a point; thence South 3° 54' 30" E. 258.27 ft. to a point; thence south 39° 23' 30" E. 88.42 ft. to an iron bar; thence north 86° 05' 30" E. 343.66 ft. to a point; thence south 3° 54' 30" E. 175 ft. to a point; thence south 2° 19' 30" E. 446.44 ft. to a point; thence east 12 ft. to a point; thence south 29° 09' E. 875.26 ft. to a point on the north side of Miller avenue, which is the southeast corner of Willette Heights property; thence south 88° 52' 30" W. 578.28 ft. to the northeast corner of Miller avenue and Veitch street; thence with the eastern side of Veitch street, north 3° 7' 30" W. 1328 ft. to the northeast corner of Veitch street and Washington avenue; thence with the northerly side of Washington avenue; south 88° 56' W. 917.15 ft. to a point; thence south 89° 06' W. 477.34 ft. to the center of Alexandria and Chain Bridge Road; thence north 1° 16' 30" W. 120.21 ft. to a point; thence north 29° 46' 30" W. 330 ft. to a point in the center of said road; thence north 8° 57' 30" W. 76.55 ft. to the place of beginning, and containing approximately 36 acres, more or less, and being a part of the same property conveyed to the Willette Heights Corporation, in Arlington County, Virginia, by deed dated the 12th day of August, 1918, in D. B. 158, at page 202, in the Clerk's Office of Arlington County, Virginia, but it is understood that this conveyance is made by the boundary and not by the acre, excepting, however, from the above description lots numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 17, 20, 21, and 22, in Section No. 7, and lots numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, in Section No. 8, which have previously been sold to other parties, and are not included in this conveyance."

PARCEL NO. 2.

"Lot No. 16, in Section No. 2; lots numbers 9, 11, 5 and west half of 6, in Section No. 3; lots numbers 9, 12, 15, 16 and west half of 17, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35 and 36, in Section 4; lots numbers 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 11, 12 and south half of 13, in Section No. 5; lots numbers 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 26 and 29, in Section No. 6; according to map of Willette Heights Corporation made by Smith-Bradford & Co., engineers, and recorded in the Clerk's Office of Arlington County, Virginia, and being the same property conveyed to the parties of the first part by deed of even date herewith."

The above Parcels 1 and 2, constituting what is now known as Waverley Hills and Section 3, Waverley Hills. Less and except from Parcels 1 and 2 all conveyances of record.

TERMS OF SALE: Cash. A deposit of $1,000.00 will be required of the successful bidder on the day of sale and terms of sale to be complied with within twenty days from date of sale or property will be resold at the cost and risk of defaulting purchaser. Conveyancing and notary fees at the cost of the purchaser.

ROTARY LEFT TURN TO BE ABANDONED ON SEPTEMBER 15

Commissioners Set Date for Abolition; Regulations Are Announced.

MINOR CHANGES MADE IN CODE FOR TRAFFIC

New System Is Indorsed by William A. Van Duzer, Head of Bureau.

September 15 was fixed by the District Commissioners yesterday for the passing of the rotary left-hand turn for traffic at controlled intersections in the District.

The rotary turn has been the subject of heated dispute and has met with considerable disapproval, though William H. Harland and M. O. Eldridge, who have been traffic director and assistant traffic director, under whose regime the turn was put in effect, refused to modify it.

The action of the Commissioners abolishing the turn was taken on recommendation of William A. Van Duzer, director of vehicles and traffic, who assumed office on Wednesday. Abolition of the turn was urged several months ago by a special traffic advisory committee appointed by the District Commissioners.

Lines to Guide Traffic.

Delay in abolishing the turn until September, Mr. Van Duzer told the Commissioners, was proposed to permit the painting of white lines on the streets for the guidance of drivers of vehicles.

With the rotary turn eliminated, left turns at controlled intersections will be made in the same manner as left turns now are made at intersections where there are neither lights nor traffic-regulating policemen. At controlled intersections the left turn will be made on the green light, from the center of the street.

How to Make Turns.

"Approach for a left turn for motor vehicles shall be made in the lane of traffic to the right of and nearest to the center line of the roadway, and the left turn shall be made by passing to the right of such center line where it enters the intersection and upon leaving the intersection by passing to the right of the center line of the roadway then entered.

"A left turn from a one-way street into a two-way street shall be made by passing to the right of the center line of the street being entered upon leaving the intersection.

"The driver of a vehicle within an intersection intending to turn to the left shall yield to any vehicle approaching from the opposite direction which is within the intersection or so close thereto as to constitute an immediate hazard, but said driver having so yielded and having given a signal when and as required by law may make such left turn, and other vehicles approaching the intersection from said opposite direction shall yield to the driver making the left turn."

Rules for passing were amended to provide:

"(b) A vehicle overtaking another shall pass to the left of the vehicle so overtaken: Provided, that when vehicles on a roadway are moving in two or more substantially continuous lines the vehicle in one such line overtaking or passing the vehicle in another line may pass either on the right or left, and a driver overtaking and passing upon the right of another vehicle may do so when a vehicle on the left is making or about to make a left turn."

Another amendment read:

"(e) A vehicle approaching an intersection shall slow down and be kept under such control as to avoid colliding with pedestrians or vehicle. Operators of vehicles approaching an intersection shall give the right of way to vehicles approaching from their right; but a vehicle making a right or left hand turn shall yield to through traffic within the intersection or so close thereto as to constitute an immediate hazard."

The changes, Mr. Van Duzer told the Commissioners in a memorandum, "are in line with the recommendations of the National Code on Street and Highway Safety. They are also in line with the recommendations of the Commissioners' advisory committee which passed upon the matter last summer. The slight change suggested in the right-of-way rule is in the nature of clarification and to make the rule harmonize with the above rules on the right and left turn."

Before September 15, Mr. Van Duzer said, "it will be possible to study the entire right and left turn problem at a number of important intersections and to place lines on the street to indicate to drivers the proper methods of making turns.

Guards Watch 14,437 At District Jail in Year

A staff of 25 guards watched over the 14,437 prisoners who passed through the District jail in 1930, according to the report by Col. William L. Peak, superintendent of the lockup. There were no escapts or attempts at jail deliveries.

Guards work seven days a week, starting at a salary of $1,500 per annum. Maximum pay which they may obtain is $1,680. Col. Peake is trying to get six more guards, so that the men might have a day off weekly and the regular Saturday half-holiday.

SALES BY SHORT TON HELD ILLEGAL HERE

Judge McMahon's Ruling Is Seen as Stand Affecting Coal Case Prosecution.

Judge John P. McMahon yesterday ruled that the sale of a short ton of coal in the District is illegal, but he did not pass upon the guilt of the James E. Colliflower Co., defendant in the test case.

The ruling came on a motion made by attorneys representing Mr. Colliflower to quash the information papers on which a warrant for him was based. Judge McMahon was called upon only to rule on the motion to quash, and in overruling it he said that sale of the short ton was illegal.

The question of whether or not the coal company figuring in the test case was guilty of violating the law has not yet been ruled upon, the statement of the judge simply being a generalization.

With the ruling on the motion to suppress the information, Judge McMahon is expected shortly to give his decision in the Colliflower case. William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, represented the District government. Mr. Roberts was alone in his belief that the short-ton sale was illegal, others in the corporation counsel's office being of the opinion that it was entirely proper.

New Jersey Names Bicentennial Head

George Keim Appointed to Direct Celebration Next Year.

George de Benneville Keim, secretary of the National Republican Committee, has been appointed by Gov. Morgan F. Larson to head the New Jersey State Commission for the celebration of the George Washington Bicentennial next year, it was disclosed yesterday. Mr. Keim also is Governor-General of the General Society of Colonial Wars and commissioner of the Port of New York Authority.

Among the 77 members of the New Jersey group are Walter E. Edge, U. S. Ambassador to France; Senator Dwight W. Morrow, Senator Hamilton Fish Kean, John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University, and Bishop John J. McMahon.

Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, associate director of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, said when notified of Mr. Keim's appointment: "I know of no man better equipped by birth, experience and enthusiasm, to carry out the Bicentennial Celebration in the historic State of New Jersey."

Driver Suffers Hurts When Truck Hits Truck

Abe Snyder, 19 years old, of 1629 Webster street, was injured yesterday when a truck he was driving collided with another truck at Second and I street southwest. The two machines struck a lamp post after the collision. Snyder is not thought to be seriously hurt.

The other truck was driven by Fred L. Walker, 28 years old, a civilian employe of the post exchange at Fort Myer, Va. With him were Albert Atkins, 27 years old, a soldier, and an unidentified man to whom he had given a "lift."

Girl Shot 4 Times By Suitor Lingers

Sister, With 3 Wounds, Is Out of Danger; Man Held by Police.

Elsie Bryant, 14 years old, who was shot four times by William Owens, 70-year-old rejected suitor, still lingered near death last night in Emergency Hospital. If she recovers, doctors said, she will be paralyzed for life, one of the bullets having struck her spine.

Owens is held at the Fourth Precinct. Shooting occurred in the Campbell home on M street, near Four and a half street southwest.

Two Men Are Arrested In Squad's First Raid

The frist raid by the newly organized second inspection district vice squad was made yesterday on Canal road, where police arrested Harry Reed, 29 years old, and Alvin Clark, 34 years old, on charges of possessing liquor.

The squad was led by Sergt. A. I. Bullock. Several bottles of alleged whisky and a quantity of alleged beer were seized.

Willingness to Drink Costs Man Added Fine

It cost Frank A. Coffman, of 1 street near Sixth street northwest, $10 yesterday to express the thought that he would "take a drink any old time."

Coffman was before Judge Gus A. Schuldt on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Mildred Bland, who alleged that he had struck her. Upon questioning by Assistant United States Attorney Michael Keogh, he said that he had a drink before he hit Mrs. Bland.

"You had another drink before you came down here this morning, didn't you?" Keogh asked.

"Sure, I'll take a drink any old time," Coffman said.

He was promptly fined $10 for assault and $10 for contempt.

DR. T. M. FOLEY HIT IN DIVORCE CHARGES

Wife Says She Left With 4 Children in 1929 to Avoid Shame.

Mrs. Olga G. Foley, wife of Dr. Thomas M. Foley, Nineteenth street near O street northwest, late yesterday filed suit for an absolute divorce from her husband, alleging that he had been guilty of misconduct with a named corespondent.

After setting forth in her petition the fact that she was married to Dr. Foley in June of 1907, Mrs. Foley asserts she was obliged to take her four children and leave her husband February 8, 1929. She said that she left to "avoid the humiliation, shame, and disgrace" to herself and the children.

Dr. Foley, according to the petition, has an income from his medical practice of $750 a month and owns the building where he has his office. He has an additional income of $200 a month from rental of rooms in the building, his wife alleges.

Mrs. Foley expressed the belief that her husband is about to set up a residence in Virginia for the purpose of obtaining a divorce, for, although he is a resident of the District, he has obtained Virginia tags for his automobile and makes visits there. The petition was filed through Attorney Hyman M. Goldstein.

Mall Fund Lacking To Romove Tracks

McCarl Reports Snag in Federal Triangle Building Plans.

More complications arose yesterday in the Government's public building problems in the Federal triangle between Pennsylvania avenue and the Mall, when Comptroller General McCarl ruled the Treasury Department has no appropriations available to pay for removal of the tracks of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway, which cross several building sites.

The railway has refused to get out of the triangle, and when asked to do so, filed suit for an injunction in the courts to prevent the Government from taking the property without compensation.

The Government needs the ground for public buildings, and as contracts have already been let for several edifices in the triangle, severe complications will result unless some solution is reached. Arrangements have already been completed to clear out all the District of Columbia government utilities, and the only snag left is the railroad.

Family Doubts Able Ended Life

Virginian's Death Before Wedding Is Probed at Quantico.

Elmer Able, 25-year-old scion of an old Virginia family, who Wednesday is said to have taken his own life at his home in Quantico, was buried there yesterday, the day he was to have been married to Miss Elizabeth Lloyd, of the same town, according to Quantico police. Young Able was found with a bullet through his breast in his room.

At the request of his family, which is unwilling to accept the suicide theory, police launched a thorough investigation into the shooting. Sergt. John Adams, who directed the investigation, said last night he was satisfied it was suicide, but could find no motive for the act.

Wednesday young Able lunched with his mother, Mrs. George Able, and his brother. The three are said to have been discussing his wedding plans when he suddenly left the dining room. A few minutes later the shot was heard.

MONTGOMERY SEEKS LOW ZOOMING PLANE

Bethesday - Chevy Chase Area Citizens Protest Pilot Too Close to Roofs.

Montgomery County Police today will protest to the Department of Commerce about an airplane which citizens of the Bethseda-Chevy Chase section have complained was zooming too close to their roofs for comfort.

Several residents took the number of the plane as it swooped close to their homes in roaring gyrations. This number was turned over to police, who were unable to check ownership last night but will do so today if the records division of the Department of Commerce is open.

Because of the Fourth of July holiday, however, it is not positive ownership of the plane can be established until Monday.

It is believed to be the same plane which has been annoying residents of North Chevy Chase for several days. This cannot be established as none of the residents could get more than the first two letters of the license number.

The number indicates a commercial plane, air men said last night. Attaches at Washington Airport and at Congressional Airport reported no plane with the number reported had flown from their hangars.

False Fire Alarm Wins Lecture for Boy of 6

The curiosity of six-year-old George Roberts landed him in the toils of police yesterday when he turned in a false fire alarm at Eighth and K streets northeast.

Frightened when, after he had "pulled" the box, his playmate said that he would be put in jail, the child ran to his home on Seventh street near H northeast and confessed to his parents. George's chum directed the police and firemen, who responded, to the culprit's house where he was given a warning lecture against causing such unnecessary trouble.

Georgia Avenue Parking Hours Are Restricted

Responding to a petition signed by 23 merchants on Georgia avenue, the District Commissioners yesterday restricted parking on Georgia avenue from Delafield street to Farragut street to one hour from 8 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night.

The petitioners asked that the restrictions be placed on the east side of the street from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night. Long-time parking, they said, interfered with their business because customers could not conveniently get a parking place in front of their stores.

BARTSCH IS DENIED PROPERTY RETURN ORDER BY JUSTICE

Bailey's Ruling Expected to Be Far-Reaching in Divorce Cases.

HOLDS EQUITY COURT LACKS JURISDICTION

Scientist Alleged That Wife Took Articles From Their Home.

Justice Jennings Bailey yesterday signed an order that will have far reaching effect on future cases arising in divorce suits in which property settlements are sought at the hands of the judge presiding in the divorce litigation.

After hearing extensive arguments by attorneys for both sides, Justice Bailey refused to sign an order requiring Mrs. Signe Bartsch, wife of the prominent scientist and professor at the George Washington University, to return to her husband articles he alleged she had taken when she left their Belmont street home.

Husband's Petition Dismissed.

Justice Bailey indicated he did not believe an equity court hearing a divorce case was empowered to order a property settlement, which was the effect of the order sought by Dr. Bartsch.

He therefore dismissed a petition which the professor had filed and which would compel Mrs. Bartsch to return the articles sought by her husband. A replevin will be necessary in such cases, it was indicated.

Dr. Bartsch said in his petition that his wife had removed much of the furniture in their home and had taken many of his personal belongings, such as clothing and a shaving mirror.

Wife Seeks Limited Divorce.

Mrs. Bartsch countered with the assertion that she had merely packed these articles in a cedar chest and that they were even then reposing on the third floor of the Belmont street home, where Dr. Bartsch is now living.

Mrs. Bartsch is suing for a limited divorce and her husband filed a cross bill. Attorney Austin Canfield represented Mrs. Bartsch, who is now in Florida.

Apartment Sale Price Is $200,000

Land Figures in Deal for Four-Story Building on F Street.

The Belford, four-story, fireproof, brick and stone apartment building at 304 F street northwest, has been sold for H. R. Howenstein to a local investor, it was announced yesterday, the total amount involved in the transaction being approximately $200,000.

Part of the consideration involved the transfer to Mr. Howenstein of a tract of land on Georgia avenue, between Sheridan and Tuckerman streets northwest. Negotiations were handled by the offices of Boss & Phelps, Hedges & Landvoight and the H. R. Howenstein Co.

The apartment building was erected six years ago by the H. R. Howenstein Co., Stern & Tomlinson being the architects. It is especially well constructed and is featured by built-in tubs, showers, pedestal basins, hardwood trim and floorings.

Watchman Arrests Man As Sugar-Thief Suspect

C. S. Stout, a 65-year-old watchman employed by the H. M. Wagner Co., at Twelfth and D streets southwest, early yesterday arrested an alleged thief whom he surprised while loading two bags of sugar on a truck.

Stout halted the man and held him for police. He gave his name as William S. Wyatt, colored, 43 years old, of Third street near B street southwest. He is charged with larceny.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE

I.

"RED" Whoziss was a gangster bad
To whom a human life was nought;
He robbed and pillaged when a lad,
And decency he'd always fought;
Some thirty men he'd filled with lead,
While agents of the law seemed lax,
But one fine day the courts jailed "Red"—
He hadn't paid his income tax!

II

"Legs" Nbonan loved to tote a gun
And pepper all who blocked his will;
He shot up cities just for fun
And never counted up his kill;
In all the laws he found a loop
And viewed all judges with a leer,
But now they've got him in the coop—
He filed no income tax last year.

III

"Egg" Crowley robbed a lot of banks
And liked to shoot policemen down;
To good advice he said "No, thanks,"
And turned away with sneer and frown;
A murder gang he bossed as chief
And was the cause of many "wakes,"
But finally he came to grief—
His tax blank showed a few mistakes.

IV.

Now "Four Gun" Slovak thrived on crime—
He loved to kill, loved to maim;
He'd shoot a stranger any time
And never feel a sense of shame;
He held a city in his clutch
And made his victims suffer long,
But in the end he got in "dutch"—
His income tax return was wrong.

V.

"Gyp" Connors ran a racket bold,
Exacting tribute left and right;
He made a ton of tainted gold—
He was a nation's scourge and blight.
For thirty years he faced no trial;
Arrests were very, very few,
But now he is in durance vile—
He paid no tax in twenty-two.

VI.

"Biff" Zernoff was a killing fool
Who ridiculed the nation's laws;
To decent instincts he was cool
And found indictments full of flaws;
A judge to him was just a "stiff;"
He shot policemen for the sport,
But now they're going after Biff—
His last year's tax return was short.

VII.

"Bugs" Heefey was the gangsters' pride—
The nation's foremost racketeer;
He'd taken hundreds for a ride
For muscling in upon his beer;
The courts looked on with mild concern
At Heefey's actions base and raw
Until he filed no tax return—
THAT WAS, THEY HELD, AGAINST THE LAW.

Grave in Arlington Asked for Skipper

One-Time Commander of Constitution Now Lies in Philadelphia.

Body of Capt. John Gwinn, one of the last skippers of the frigate Constitution, "Old Ironsides," which has lain for 90 years in an almost forgotten graveyard in Philadelphia, is expected to be disinterred and reburied in Arlington National Cemetery with full military honors as soon as the War Department completes its investigation of Capt. Gwinn's service record.

Expense of disinterring the body and sending it in a new casket to Arlington Cemetery will be borne by Veterans of Foreign Wars in Philadelphia, who sent a request yesterday to the War Department for approval of plans for removal of the captain's body.

Capt. Gwinn died in Palmero, Italy, in 1840, and was buried in Philadelphia, with the inscription, "He served his country for 40 years," on his tombstone.

The captain's grave was discovered when work was started recently on removal of bodies from the abandoned graveyard.

Union May Study Gas-Plant Award

Contract to Baltimore Firm Draws Protests From Workers Here.

The Central Labor Union at its meeting Monday night may be asked to act in the dispute between organized labor in the District and the Washington Gas Light Co. which resulted when the company awarded a $265,000 contract to a Baltimore firm for construction of a new gas holder at the company's Southeast plant.

Protests against the work being given an out-of-town company which employs nonunion men have been filed with the gas company by John B. Colpoys, editor of the Trades Unionist, and Charles E. Young, executive secretary of the Washington Building Trades Council.

Mr. Colpoys has said that every effort will be made to avert an open break between union labor and the Washington Gas Light Co. and that conferences to this end have been arranged.

Rose Given Contract For School Addition

Contract for construction of an addition to the Woodridge public school at Carlton and Central avenue northeast was awarded by the District Commissioners yesterday to W. P. Rose Co., Inc., of Goldsboro, N. C., for $71,050. This was low bid.

Recently the District Commissioners ordered the company to remove two of its supervisory employes following an accident at the Stuart Junior High School. A wooden runway broke and a workman was killed.

2 Diamond Rings Stolen

The theft of two diamond rings, valued together at $600, was reported yesterday by Mrs. Hyman Zimmerman, of 2127 California street northwest. She said the jewelry was taken from her apartment between 7 p. m. Thursday, and 3 p. m. yesterday.

Hines Names Aids In Veterans' Office

Administrator Issues List of Appointments, All Effective at Once.

Additional appointments in the Veterans' Administration were announced yesterday by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans affairs. All are effective immediately. The list follows:

James T. Brady, assistant solicitor in the solicitor's office; James D. Hayes, head attorney for the administrator's appeals group, solicitor's office; George P. Cafritz Gets $48,250 For New School Site

Purchase of most of square 1363, between Foxhall road, Volta place and Q street northwest, from Morris Cafritz was approved by the District Commissioners yesterday. The price agreed on was $48,250.

The ground will be used for a new school building. The plot contains 241,758 square feet and the price is 123 per cent of the assessed value of the property, which is unimproved. The site was selected after consultation with school authorities.

Half Hundred Escape In Alleged Gaming Raid

While two detective sergeants were trying to gain entrance to an alleged gambling house on Ninth street near G street northwest yesterday, about 50 patrons of the place escaped by leaping from windows.

Detective Sergeants Howard E. Ogle and Arthur Fihelly visited the place several weeks ago when their crusade against gamblers was begun. After the first raid it was closed, but reopened for business last week.

Foresters Camp In Potomac Park

Eastern Woodmen Group From 16 States to Be Here Four Days.

The Modern Woodmen Foresters, subordinate group of the Modern Woodmen of the World, yesterday opened its Eastern Zone Encampment, erecting a tent-city on the tract of land adjacent to the Tourist Camp in East Potomac Park, where a four-day program of activities is planned.

Sixteen States are represented at the camp, which officially got under way with flag-raising ceremonies at 11 o'clock. Col. A. C. Clauser, of Reading, Pa., is in charge.

Accompanied by the Modern Woodmen Band, of Laytonville, Md., and the Junior Drum and Bugle Corps, of Reading, Pa., the foresters will participate today in an Independence Day parade in Takoma Park.

Features in Tomorrow's Post

Is the Progressive movement doomed? Despite the uproar of third party protest that would follow such an assertion, there is ample historical precedent for the thesis in "Along the Progressives' Trail," a magazine feature appearing in tomorrow's Post. David Rankin Barbee is the author.

Political malcontents have made trouble aplenty for the regulars. With the exception of the birth of the Republican party, however, which grew out of an issue too big to be kept within bounds, none of these political stampedes outlived their leaders. Read if you can not agree with Mr. Barbee.

Tomorrow's magazine tabloid is crammed full of good reading matter, including a motoring yarn you will profit by, "Detour; Motor Worries Ahead," and a story of unusual interest, "Thirty-three White House Matrons Whose Faces Are One."

Then there are eight pages of rollicking comics, the rotogravure section, in its usual excellent taste, and an entertaining array of sports and news features you can not afford to miss.

ALLEGED HIT-RUN AUTOIST IS CAUGHT BY ANOTHER DRIVER

18-YEAR-OLD MOTORIST IS BOOKED BY POLICE

Citizen Who Participated in Chase Said to Be Eligible to Share in Reward.

Community spirit runs high in the neighborhood of Fifteenth and E streets northeast. Its potency was demonstrated last night after a 15-month-old girl was slightly injured by a colored motorist who allegedly tried to escape after the accident.

There was a chase by wrathful neighbors, with the result that Herbert Dyer, 18, of Kraemer street near Sixteenth northeast, is held at the Ninth Precinct Police Station under charges of failure to stop after an accident and driving without a permit.

The collision of Dyer's automobile with the car of Charles H. Clark, parked in front of his home at 461 Fifteenth street, provoked the chase. According to police, Mr. Clark and his baby girl, Dorothy Jane, were sitting in the machine, waiting for Mrs. Clark to come out and join them in a drive, when Dyer crashed into them from the rear.

Baby Thrown to Sidewalk

Dorothy Jane was thrown through the open door and to the sidewalk. The Negro is said to have lost no time in backing away and stepping on the accelerator.

James Pumphrey, who lives around the corner at 1547 Isherwood street, was driving past and saw Dyer wheel around and turn up F street. Before Dyer had gone two blocks, Pumphrey blocked his car against the curb, forcing Dyer to jump out and run.

At this point the chase was taken up by William R. Davis, who became interested in the proceedings as he was driving to his home at 537 Fifteenth street. He was joined by 17-year-old Martin Quick, of 643 Florence street northeast, who took after Dyer on foot.

Driver Is Cornered in Lot.

At Rosedale avenue, Quick leaped off and, suiting his strides to the implication of his name, cornered Dyer in a vacant lot. From there it was a quiet march back to the car and then a parade of triumph to the police station.

In the meantime, Dorothy Jane had been taken to Casualty Hospital and treated for minor abraisions on the forehead. Her father's car was badly damaged in the crash, as was Dyer's.

Police said that all those who participated in the pursuit are eligible for a $100 reward offered by the American Automobile Association for information or action leading to the arrest and capture of anyone responsible for a hit-run accident in which someone is injured.

All Courts Except Police Are to Be Closed Today

Today may be the birthday of Uncle Sam, but it is just another working day to attaches and judges of the Police Court. However, the District Supreme Court will be closed all day.

Police Court will open as usual and probably will not close until late in the day. There is a regulation here that almost compels Police Court judges to sit on holidays. Prisoners can not be held more than 48 hours without arraignment.

2 Hold-Ups Netting $7 Bring 10-Year Term

Two robberies which netted him $7 in cash also netted Otha Grant, Negro, ten years in the penitentiary. Justice Peyton Gordon sentenced Grant yesterday after considering a plea for clemency.

Grant pleaded guilty to two alley robberies, in one of which he obtained $5 and in the other $2. His previous record was considered by Justice Gordon in pronouncing sentence. James M. Kirby, Negro, who assisted in the $2 robbery, drew an eight-year sentence.

Cool Fourth Seen; Showers Possible

Negro Overcome, Despite Low Temperature Yesterday.

Good Fourth of July weather, with possibly a shower or two to keep the temperature down, was forecast for today by the United States Weather Bureau.

Yesterday's moderately high thermometer readings will prevail again today, but the mercury will stay within bounds, and at all events should not go above 90, the weather man said.

He was Costello J. Harris, colored, 30 years old. Harris was prostrated in the alley at the rear of 1307 H street northwest. Removed to Emergency Hospital by the Fire Rescue Squad, his condition was pronounced not serious.

Navy Makes Contract For 30 New Airplanes

(Associated Press.)

A contract for 30 airplanes of the "helldiver" type was awarded yesterday to the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co. by the Navy Department for $443,235.

The planes ordered are two-seater observation craft, similar to the Curtiss Navy fighter used aboard aircraft carriers and of the same kind now in use by Marine Corps aviation detachments in Nicaragua. The Curtiss Co. is already building 84 planes of the same type for use of the Naval Reserve.
